

Fred Seaton To Speak Here Next Monday

Fred A. Seaton, Secretary of the Interior, will address State College Young Republicans and interested students in the Ballroom of the Student Union Monday afternoon.

The publisher from Hastings will be in Lincoln in conjunction with Republican Founders Day activities.

Groups from Hastings, Midland, Wayne, Concordia, Creighton, Omaha U., and Doane Colleges will be in attendance. The University, Midland and Hastings groups will be presented with charters.

YR Chairman Connie Roeser, state YR chairman will also address the group.

Bob Austin is State College Chairman of the YRs. The time of the Seaton address will be announced later depending on the arrival time of Vice-President Richard Nixon, who will speak at a banquet that evening.

Fred A. Seaton

Secretary Seaton has held many posts on the state and national level. The Hastings publisher has been in the state legislature and was appointed to a short term in the U.S. Senate.

Ike Appoints

He has spent several years in posts appointed by President Eisenhower. First he was administrative assistant to the president in charge of liaison between the administration and congress.

Later he became assistant secretary of defense and then appointed to the present post.

Recently he has been mentioned in many quarters as a possible vice-presidential candidate and running mate of Vice-President Nixon.

Austin said that the meeting, although directed towards the various college YR groups, would be open to the public and those interested in hearing the secretary would be welcome.

Dick Nixon Will Receive 'Mass Meeting' Welcome

A mass meeting of the University Nixon-Seaton Club has been called for 1:45 p.m. Monday at the Lincoln Municipal Airport.

At that time Vice-President Richard M. Nixon will be welcomed on his arrival in Lincoln for Republican Founder's Day activities.

Club President Doc Rodgers said all the members who have signed the memberships rolls which have been circulating on campus are urged to be at the airport.

Rodgers said the club, which was organized a week ago last Thursday, now has about 700 members.

Posters and banners will be constructed for the welcoming reception following the club meeting this Thursday. Rogene Ruh, vice president of the club, is in charge.

John B. Quinn will be the speaker at the Thursday meeting at 7 p.m. in 240 Student Union. Mr. Quinn has been in public relations work for 15 years and is active in Republican politics.

Also on the agenda for the Thursday meeting is submission of a constitution. The club executive board met Tuesday and approved the proposed constitution. After adoption by the club it will be submitted to the Student Council.

Gold membership cards will be presented to 20 members who signed up 20 new members.

At the meeting last week Henry Grether, professor of law, was elected faculty advisor.

The Nixon-Seaton Club was formed to help elect Richard M. Nixon President and Fred A. Seaton Vice President of the United States in 1960.

YWCA Lists Community 'Help' Needs

Organized groups who would like to participate in a "help" or community service project may choose one from Lincoln and Lancaster agencies requesting aid.

- 1. Volunteers to paint Haven Center YW-YMCA building.
- 2. Volunteers to help on safety patrol projects on Saturdays.
- 3. The Psychology clinic in Social Science building needs individuals or groups for research.
- 4. Camp Kiwanis near Milford needs people to do clean-up work. Male workers only.
- 5. Lancaster County nursing home wants people to visit and assist in directing recreation or handwork.

More information can be obtained from the Clearing House Committee at the University YWCA.

Philosophy Talk Scheduled At 3

Professor Francis Raab will lecture on "A New Conception of Philosophy and Philosophical Method" Thursday at 3 p.m. in 108 Burnett. All faculty members and students are invited to attend.

Prof. Raab is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and Yale. He has had articles published in the "Philosophical Review," and has taught courses in philosophy of law and ethics.

Dean Pound To Address Law School

Roscoe Pound, Harvard Law School dean emeritus, will speak at an all-Law School convocation at 11 a.m. on Friday in the Law College Auditorium.

The convocation will be open to all students and faculty members and others who may be interested.

Following the convocation a luncheon honoring Dean Pound will be given at 12 noon in the Indian Suite of the Student Union.

Dean Pound was born in Lincoln and was graduated from NU in 1888. He also earned his master of arts and Ph. D. from the University. After attending Harvard Law School for a year, he was assistant professor of law and later dean of the law department here.

In 1910 Dean Pound joined the faculty at Harvard University and six years later became dean of the law school. He has been awarded 17 honorary degrees from both American and European universities and has been the president of the International Academy of Comparative Law since 1950.

Rush Change Contemplated; Sororities, Panhell To Vote

By Ann Moyer
Panhellenic has devised a new Rush Week program for the coming year.

According to Miss Madeline Girard, Panhellenic advisor, the plan must still be discussed in the sorority houses and accepted by vote of Panhellenic representatives before it can go into effect this fall.

Aids Rushees

The plan will allow rushees as well as sororities to become better acquainted with more girls and may help the rushee to recognize her own group sooner, Miss Girard said.

In addition under the new system the personal contact between rushees and Panhellenic can be preserved. Miss Girard explained that many schools use IBM machines during Rush Week which often leads to confusion on the part of the rushee.

"Our present rush system has grown to the point where it is difficult for Panhellenic advisors to care for problems personally," Miss Girard said.

The tentative rush plan schedule will fit in more closely with New Student Week making a more effective and compact pre-school session.

Rush Week would begin Thursday, September 8 according to the schedule. Rushees would move into the dorm at noon and hold their orientation meeting that afternoon. The first session of open house would be held Thursday evening from 7-11 p.m.

Open Houses

The second session of open houses would be held the following morning. Miss Girard said this would make it easier on both rushees and sorority girls by providing a break in the long session of open houses.

Party invitations for the first set of parties are due early Friday afternoon. This first set of parties will include six one hour parties, Miss Girard said.

Each girl may give only one party to six of the houses from which she receives invitations. Therefore, she will attend six parties at six different houses.

Sororities will receive replies to their invitations at 6:30 p.m. Friday evening and hold parties from 8-9 p.m. and 9-10:10 p.m. that same night.

The other four parties of the first group will be held Saturday beginning with a breakfast lasting from 9-10 a.m. A second party will be held from 10:10-11 a.m. and the last two parties of the first group from 2:30 and 3:10-4:00 p.m. that afternoon.

Second Set

Invitations for the second set of parties will be due from sororities at 9:00 p.m. Saturday night.

Sunday morning will be free so that both rushees and actives may attend church, although rushees will fill out their second set of party invitations sometime between 9-12 noon.

The second set of parties consists of four two-hour parties. Again the rushee must give only one party to four houses from which she receives invitations.

Three of the two-hour parties will be held on Sunday. This will include an afternoon, dinner and evening party. There will be an hour break between the afternoon and dinner party.

The last party will be held Monday morning and rushees will file their preferences at 11 a.m. Bids from the sororities will not be due until 7 p.m.

Noon Luncheon

Rushees will receive their bids Tuesday noon and sororities will have a noon luncheon for their new pledges rather than the usual evening banquet.

Miss Girard said this system is used by many schools the size of the University.

"In fact, the University is unique for its present rush system," she said, "but our rush program has expanded to the point where we thought this change was advantageous to both rushees and sororities."

She added that the new system would be experimental this Fall if put into effect and if not satisfactory the old method would be restored. She said the biggest change in the program is that Rush Week will be held later than usual and therefore not interfere with summer jobs.

Demos Change Meeting Date

Tony Mangameli and Jerry Whalen will speak at the regular meeting of the University's Young Democrats, Thursday in 332 Student Union at 7:30 p.m.

Mangameli, a building contractor, is a gubernatorial candidate from Omaha. Whalen is seeking a seat in the House of Representatives from the First District.

This meeting was originally scheduled for Wednesday night but was changed when it was discovered that both candidates had Thursday free, according to Don Geis, Y.D. president.

A coffee hour will follow the meeting to allow members to become better acquainted with the candidates.

ONCE-A-YEAR-DAY—According to members of the "Pajama Game" cast, a "once-a-year day" is the time when everyone really lives it up, doing foolish things never otherwise considered. Here they live it up during rehearsal of the Kosmet Klub spring musical. The cast has moved to Pershing Auditorium for final rehearsals.

Union Posters

Beginning April 1, all posters to be displayed on Student Union bulletin boards must be stamped in the Activities Office, Room 136. No advertising posters may be put up more than 10 days in advance of the event.

Political Discussion Open to All Students

Key politicians from the Unicameral and campus leaders in Young Republicans and Young Democrats will present a discussion and lead small group discussions Thursday night at a meeting open to all University students.

Mrs. Hazel Abel, possible gubernatorial candidate; Richard Marvel, state senator from Hastings; Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme, state senator from the 20th district; Renny Ashleman, vice-president of Young Democrats and Roger Struve, program chairman of Young Republicans, will lead the hour and a half program.

Lutheran House

The discussions will be held at 7 p.m. in the Lutheran Student House.

Some of the pointed questions will be: "Should the United States practice segregation? What about a Catholic for president? Is the U.S. behind Russia in nuclear power? What about the press and politics?"

"Many of the questions that have been concerning first-time voters and others directly or indirectly involved in the coming election will be presented," said Jackie Wilkes, executive secretary of the YWCA, which has made the program arrangements.

"The informal discussions with the political figures involved in current issues will be an excellent opportunity for students to meet the people in government and talk with them," she said.

Discussion Topics

Other problems the leaders will discuss to go along with the general theme "Politics and Christianity," will be farm issues, education and government, foreign aid, civil rights issues, and the position of religion in regard to the candidates.

Mrs. Abel earlier this month announced that she would be a Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. She is former U.S. senator, chairman of the Nebraska delegation to the Republican convention of 1956 and advocate of the revision of the tax structure.

Senator Marvel is an instructor in the political science department.

Education, Foreign Affairs Promoted

Needed in Student Curriculum Says Extension Farm Economist

Education in foreign affairs should be added to the student curriculum, according to Everett E. Petersen, University extension farm economist.

"It should be added to the curriculum because education in foreign affairs is definitely needed on the American level," he said.

Foreign Service

The United States definitely needs more students to look to foreign service as a career, he said. "This presents a new phase of education because the major part of the basic part of college education is related to domestic problems which occur internally in our own country."

Petersen was a member of a nine-man team from the United States that toured eight far eastern countries recently. These countries included Pakistan, India, Thailand, Malaya, Australia, Philippines, Hong Kong and Japan.

According to Petersen the purpose of the tour was to obtain information related to foreign policy that would enable the United States to improve its trade and aid programs.

The questions which the nine members set out to solve were:

- (1) Are present aid programs doing any good and how long will they continue to do good?

(2) Does U.S. technical assistance mean a cutback in the use of our farm products?

(3) What are the possibilities of increasing sales of farm products through commercial channels?

(4) How does the competitive basis affect these countries?

Petersen said that some conclusions were that the biggest need for food in these countries occurred in the heavily populated areas of India and Pakistan.

These countries lack enough income to buy products outright from commercial channels and therefore must rely on aid and assistance from our wealthier nations.

'Free Side'

According to Petersen, the objective aim of the United States should be to keep these countries on the "free side" of world affairs. In order to do this, the U.S. must continue to give aid to these countries for many years to come.

"The U.S. has a selfish interest," said Petersen. Its industry and resources are numerous and its people want to see something in return for their products.

Petersen also commented that these countries have two alternatives to follow. They can follow Communist China and other Communist nations which use propaganda to influence nations or they can follow the slow democratic process which the United States advocates.

Some of these countries are in somewhat the same state as the United States was in 1800, Petersen said. These countries seem to stray away from foreign entanglements instead of following the trends of many of the powerful nations.

Joint Effort

All of this aid and assistance should be on a joint effort of the powerful nations because the problems are too big for the United States to handle alone.

The aid program should be redirected so that it fits into the "Food for Peace" program instead of just solving our surplus problem, he said.

The best customers of U.S. trade are countries that are highly industrialized, however, we still must be willing to give aid to those countries which lack income and are hungry, but cannot buy food, he commented.

Petersen said that we in the United States cannot afford to sit back and say our standard of living is high and our wages are too high. We must compete against other countries in aiding these countries.

Trade Policies

According to Petersen, with elections coming soon we must weigh the level of the foreign aid program. We should determine whether we should have trade policies which will work both internally and internationally or whether we should settle for the conservative style.

Some of these nations are more highly industrialized and have a competitive advantage in location. An example of this is Australia, which markets considerable wheat.

Therefore, the United States must continue to give through aid programs instead of on the market which would destroy much of the Australian market and would not follow the "Food for Peace" trend.

WAA AWARDS GIVEN—Roberta Rock receives a scholarship from WAA president Shirley Parker while Donna Gies presents a house participation cup to Alpha Chi Omega representative Mary Ann Wetzel. The cup is given each year to the house receiving the most points during the year for intramurals participation. The Mabel Lee scholarship given to Miss Rock is presented yearly to the girl in WAA who has been an outstanding worker. Mabel Lee was the head of the Women's Physical Education Department for 28 years until her retirement in 1952.
