This is the B-52. Advanced as it may be, this airplane has one thing in common with the first wargalleys of ancient Egypt ... and with the air and space vehicles of the future. Someone must chart its course. Someone must navigate it.

For certain young men this presents a career of real executive opportunity. Here, perhaps your will have the chance to master a profession full of meaning, excitement and rewards ... as a Navigator in the U.S. Air Force.

To qualify for Navigator training as an Aviation Cadet you must be an American citizen between 19 and 261/2-single, healthy and intelligent. A high school diploma is required, but some college is highly desirable. Successful completion of the training program leads to a commission as a Second Lieutenant ... and your Navigator wings.

If you think you have what it takes to measure up to the Aviation Cadet Program for Navigator training, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Or clip and mail this coupon.

Beth Dening community planners. Arthur Ward, head of the conferences and institutes at the University and conference trainer coordinator, s a i d leading architects, nurserymen, foresters and professors will be attending.

University officials have reported that 20 Nebraska cities and towns have already arranged to be represented by their mayors, city planners and park and municipal officials
