So Zeff Bernstein, Jim Trester, Don Sololik, and Kathy Anderson play bus in "Three Men on a Horse" opening tonight at 8 p.m. in Howell Theatre.

Talks, Topics Use Gimmicks for Cousins

When one has a good product to sell, probably the most effective method of selling it is through advertising.

And that is exactly the way the Student Union has gone about informing the campus of Norman Cousins's appearance at the All-University Convocation in the Coliseum Friday morning at 11 a.m.

With Cousins's rating as the number two audience attraction in our nation, his position as editor of the Saturday Review and the initials C C (Cousins's Convocation), the Talks and Topics committee set out to broadcast to the campus, the city of Lincoln, the state of Nebraska and even surrounding states that Cousins would visit our campus on April Fools Day.

The result has been 300 tent cards, 30 posters, 300 window cards, 300 flyers, 1,000 billboards in the Student Union, a poster display in the library and Student Union, letters to schools throughout the state and organizations in Lincoln, newspaper publicity through campus, city, state and surrounding state newspapers and advertising through local radio stations.

Original ideas for the billfold cards and the brilliant orange stake posters came from committee members. In fact, the committee members are responsible for most of the publicity "gimmicks" used.

If the campus doesn't know that Norman Cousins will be featured at a convocation Friday morning it doesn't mean the Talks and Topics committee didn't advertise the fact.

See you there!

Cousins Will Speak Friday at 11

Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review, will speak at an All-University convocation Friday at 11 a.m. All classes will be dismissed for the event.

"Education and our Foreign Policy," will be the title of Cousins address.

In audience interest rankings he is rated as America's number two drawer of crowds. Only Bennet Cerf ranks above according to audience favor.

He has spoken in nearly every area of America and in 1959 spoke before the Praesidium of the Soviet Peace Committee in the Soviet Union.

Counselors Positions Available

Filing for Coed Counselor positions will open today in the Student Union and Ag Union, according to Alice Baumgartner, vice-president of Coed Counselors.

The Counselors hold carefully planned sessions to offer help in schedule planning, study hints, activities and general orientation to freshmen women in the fall.

The Counselors also assist with registration during New Student Week and sponsor, in conjunction with Gold's, a fall style show following the Ag barbeque.

Application blanks are available in 348 Student Union and in the Ag Union starting today. Interviews are scheduled for April 6 from 4-6 p.m. and on April 7 from 3-6 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

SWING FOR SPRING—The temperature never rises above the overcast mark without a tennis racket appearing. Three hardy souls braved considerable hardship that would have stymied lesser fans. It seems custodians weren't quite as on the ball and gates to the tennis court were locked. To get in, they crawled over the fence. Then, the nets weren't up. Most of the courts were still damp (2-3 inches of water) and the only dry court had a snowbank at the north end. Anyone for hockey?

Square Dances

University Square Dances will be held during April at the Ag Campus Union.

The first is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday and the second for April 22.
