

Nebraska Gridders Enter Second Day of Spring Drill

A total of 89 rough and ready footballers swung into action Monday as Coach Bill Jennings opened his spring season under clear skies and otherwise perfect conditions.

Always-elusive and dependable Pat Fisher (co-captain) was switched from halfback where he has performed outstandingly the past three years to quarterback. This change has been no secret as Jennings hinted at the close of the 1959 season that the Omaha Westside grad might try the new position.

Fisher has been working throughout the winter in the fieldhouse with ex-Husker Tom Kramer on the fundamentals of that position.

All State Player Picks Nebraska

Roger Denesia, all-state basketball player from Wayne high school, will enroll at the University next fall, according to Basketball coach Jerry Bush.

Bush said he feels that Denesia has one of the finest outside shots among the prep players of the state.

The 5-11 Denesia weighs 170 pounds and is in the upper one-third of his class scholastically.

The other switch also has been known for some time. That is a move of Don Fricke to center.

This position is old work to modest Hastings high great as he was originally a center in the 1957 and 1958 seasons before he mastered the full-back slot last season.

Two minor moves saw ironman Joe Gacusana go from tackle to guard and frosh Bill Comstock lineup at the end position which is quite a move

Jennings made an indication that a full-scale scrimmage is on tap in the not-too-far future but that the remainder of the week will consist of conditioning and fundamentals.

Due to the late start of the spring season the Huskers will work out a full week after the annual Varsity-Alumni tussle which will be held Saturday afternoon of All-Sports Day, May 7.

The two-deep lineup:
Left ends—Dick McDaniel, John Bond.
Left Guards—John Ponsello, Joe Gacusana.
Centers—Don Fricke, Darrell Cooper.
Right tackles—Roland McDole, Al Fisher.
Quarterbacks—Pat Fischer, Ron Meade.
Left halfbacks—Gene Ward, Pat Clare.
Right halfbacks—Clay White, Gary Warden.
Fullbacks—Noel Martin, Bill Thornton.

Husker Netmen Seek Revenge Against Omaha After Losses

The Nebraska tennis team dropped five out of seven matches during Spring Vacation as the Huskers journeyed on their annual southern tour.

The NU netters whipped Creighton 9-0, April 8 at Omaha, then left for Oklahoma April 10. The Huskers lost to Tulsa 6-1, Oklahoma State 7-0, Oklahoma Baptist 5-2, Oklahoma 5-2 and Wichita 6-1. Nebraska salvaged a 5-2 win over Tinker Air Force Base of Oklahoma City, Okla., for its only win of the trip.

Nebraska's 1-5 won-lost record on the trip brought the current mark to three wins and six setbacks.

NU will be after win number four today when they meet Omaha University at 2 p.m. at Omaha.

Thursday the Huskers host Bethany College, Kans. at the NU Courts.

Concerning the trip, Coach Ed Hggenbotham said, "The boys will improve as a result of the trip. It was a good week of tennis although we ran into some strong winds in our matches in Oklahoma."

Stan Kruschwitz was the top winner of the trip, winning four of six matches. Kruschwitz, playing in the number five spot, now has won six and lost only two during the year.

Real tough on the trip was Nebraska's number one netter, Albert Arrigunaga. He won two matches against tough Oklahoma competition.

Arrigunaga has won four of nine matches so far.

Jack Craft, number four, also won two of four and has a 4-5 season mark. Bill Kendall, number two, and Dave Calhoun, number three, are 2-7 and 3-6 in the won-lost column, respectively.

The Huskers attended the Bill Talbot Clinic at Wichita. Talbot then umpired the number one singles match in the Wichita meet.

Bid Boldly For Profit

By Alfred Sheinwold
It pays to bid aggressively. This is really just a polite way of saying that it pays to bid for more tricks than you have any business making. The chief reason is that your opponents will seldom defend with great accuracy.

What opening lead should West make?

There's not much question about what West would actually lead in any but the most expert game. The average

West player would lead a spade.

See what would happen with a spade open lead. Dummy's queen would win, and declarer would lead diamonds to force out the ace. It would then be too late to switch to clubs. South would win ten tricks.

If South were playing the hand at only two notrump he would be very sorry he hadn't bid a game. Mind you, North is theoretically correct in passing at two notrump. As a practical matter, however, North should bid three notrump and prepare to collect a profit.

Expert Lead
A very fine player would open a low club from the West hand if he thought carefully about his opening lead. Whether the opponents bid game or stop at two notrump, West can be sure that his partner has a fairly good hand. If East had spade strength as part of his good hand, he would surely bid or double at his first turn instead of passing throughout.

After West has come to the conclusion that a spade lead will merely fizzle, he will see at once that the club suit is the best chance. This lead will hold south to eight tricks.

If your opponents are skillful enough to make such leads, you must bid conservatively. But if your opponents are just average good players you can well afford to bid close or doubtful games.

DAILY QUESTION
As dealer, you hold: ♠ K Q, ♥ 10 4, ♦ K Q 10 7 3, ♣ Q 6 4. What do you say?
Answer: Pass. This would be a reasonable opening bid if your long suit were spades or hearts, but it doesn't pay to strain so hard to open in a minor suit.
