Tempero To Head Council Next Year

The election of 1960-61 student council officers highlighted the next-to-last Council meeting of the year.

Ken Tempero, past chairman of the social committee, was elected to the post of president, succeeding Jack Nielsen. Tempero is a junior and a member of Theta Xi fraternity.

John Hoerner
John Hoerner, past treasurer of the Council, was elected as the first vice-president. Hoerner is a junior and a member of Delta Upsilon. He will also act as the chairman of the Council judiciary committee, succeeding Bob Krohn.

Don Epp, past corresponding secretary, was chosen as second vice-president of the Council. Epp, also a junior, is a member of FarmHouse fraternity. He will also head the elections committee, succeeding Kathy Roach.

Roy Neil, past chairman of the special parking committee and a member of Delta Tau Delta, and Fran Spoene-man, past chairman of the library committee and a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, were selected as senior holdover members. They succeeded Dave Godbey and Chuck Wilson.

In other business before the Council, Don Gable, chairman of the Council final exams committee, read a report recently compiled concerning finals.

Students Interviewed
The report stated that several students had been interviewed and four questions concerning finals were asked these interviewees. Those questions were: 1) In your opinion, what is the purpose of a final examination? 2) Are finals at the University accomplishing this purpose? 3) What is the greatest fault of the present system? And 4) Do you have an alternate plan of testing to suggest?

The report stated that "while the number of students interviewed cannot be construed to be a majority of the student at the University, this committee feels that the sampling is representative of student opinion due to the diversified background of those interviewed."

"The first question produced the following results: 70 per cent of those interviewed felt that the purpose was one of review and evaluation of material covered during the semester. Fifteen per cent felt the purpose was to give the instructor an indication of how well the student grasped the material covered during the semester. Five per cent said the purpose was to allow the student to see where he stood in the class. Another five per cent agreed that the purpose was to refresh the student's mind about material covered, while the remaining five per cent felt the purpose was to raise or lower the final grade.

To question two, only one student gave an unqualified "Some do, some don't, depending on the instructor" to a flat "no."

Weighed Too Heavily
According to the students interviewed, the greatest fault of the present system seems to be that finals are weighed too heavily. Some students said, "many times finals

Regents Adopt Plan To Keep Top Profs

By Herb Probasco
Framework for an "outstanding professors" program was adopted by the Board of Regents Wednesday.

The idea was introduced by Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin who explained the need to keep top faculty members on the staff.

As adopted, the new plan hopes to insure the University of the continuing services of several outstanding professors in various fields.

Begin Selection
The board directed the University administration to begin the program by supervising the selection before Sept. 1 of two or three staff members who may be installed in "Regents Professorships" and receive a significant salary supplement from donated funds.

"With competition growing increasingly keen for college teachers and scholars," Chancellor Hardin said, "it is highly important that the University take steps to get and keep really eminent teachers and scholars on its staff.

"Such people," he added, "not only strengthen teaching and research but have 'pulling power' in attracting promising young staff members."

Inauguration of the Regents Professorship program is being made possible through assistance from the University Foundation and the Alumni Association.

Chancellor Hardin said funds donated from outside sources are now assured to "permit us to start this program in a modest way." He added that he had verbal assurances that some funds will be available soon.

Number, Amount
"We hope that we will be able to increase the number of the professorships rapidly and also increase the amount of the salary supplements," he explained, which he said had not been decided.

"The going level of our faculty salaries simply is not high enough to enable us to compete successfully for the services of professors who are being sought by the Ivy League, the Big Ten and the California institutions," he noted.

Under the program the Regents approved, nominations for the Professorships can be initiated by University faculty members. Chancellor Hardin said that a committee would probably be established, composed of faculty members.

Only persons of wide academic reputation and irreplicable personal integrity are eligible for consideration and the selection plan provides for an extensive screening process.

It's possible that specific chairs or names for the Professorships will be established, Dr. Hardin said.

The positions will be continuing. All colleges will be eligible and will be under discussion, he added.

Tri-Sigs Given Year Probation

Three fraternities lost their rushing, pledging and initiation privileges Wednesday until September 1961 for their part in a drinking party Ivy Day night.

The Board of Regents accepted Student Affairs Dean J. P. Colbert's recommendation that such action be taken.

The houses had earlier been placed on indefinite activity and social probation.

The board also gave Dean Colbert full authority to close any of the houses immediately, should they step out of line.

Review Case
At the end of the probationary period, the case will again be reviewed before full rights are returned to the guilty fraternities.

Dean Colbert appeared before the board Wednesday afternoon with a "recommendation and a request for disciplinary action against Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Nu under the provisions of Section 17, Chapter 5 of the By-Laws of the Board of Regents."

His recommendation differed from that which the University Committee on Student Affairs directed him to make to the board.

Dean Colbert explained, however, that after notifying the national offices of the three fraternities, he received "an immediate and unqualified promise of support . . . and also valuable assistance from local alumni representatives . . . that a constructive program can and will be worked out . . ."

The committee on student affairs met May 5 and directed Dean Colbert to "recommend and request that the board . . . close the chapter houses of SAE, Sig Ep and Sig Nu . . . starting immediately after the close of the second semester . . . ending with the close of the school year 1960-61.

Attending the meeting were representatives of Sig Alpha and Sig Ep.

Exec Secretary
Rex Smith, national executive secretary of SAE, told the board, "We, of course, are very, very disappointed with the actions of the chapter and are doing everything in our power to see that the chapter complies with University rules."

He explained that he came to Lincoln at the request of Dr. Raymond Dien, alumni adviser. He said he met with the active chapter Tuesday evening and that a disciplinary program had been laid out to correct ills of the chapter.

A few men will be suspended from the chapter, he added.

"We are determined to lick this problem," Smith said.

A graduate student proctor will live in the house and his expenses will be paid by the chapter, Smith pointed out. In addition, an alumni committee headed by Dr. Dien and Lincoln banker Eames Irvin will oversee the entire operation of the chapter.

Right Standards
"We are definitely going to make this fraternity live up to the right standards or take away its charter," he added.

The traveling field secretary for Sig Ep added that a similar constructive program will go into effect in that house.

Sigma Nu was not represented at the Regents meeting.

Journalism Week To Feature Banquet

Highlighting the activities of Journalism Week, May 1-20, will be the School of Journalism Banquet Saturday according to Dr. William F. Hall, director of the school.

The speaker for the banquet beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union will be Edward M. Stanley, director of public affairs for NBC.

Aurora Native
Stanley is a native of Aurora, and is a 1926 graduate of the University's School of Journalism. He is also a member of Sigma Delta Chi and Phi Delta Theta.

Since boyhood, Stanley has been in some field of mass communications and has a wide background in journalism both here and abroad.

His first job was a printer's devil on an Aurora newspaper. After high school he went to Colorado College in Colorado Springs for a year and ran a newspaper called Pike's Peak Breeze.

While attending the University he worked for the Lincoln Star as police reporter.

He joined the Associated Press in 1929 and stayed with that organization for almost 10 years. Between 1931 and 1935 he was the London AP Bureau feature editor. He served as executive editor of Cornet and Esquire magazines before joining NBC as manager of the Public Affairs and Education Department.

In January of 1958 he was named Director of Public Affairs.

Stanley is perhaps best-known in the broadcasting field today for his leadership in exploring the education potential of commercial television.

Dr. Hall said that this is the third time that a former student of the University School of Journalism has been brought back to speak at a J-Banquet.

Science Editor
Last year Howard Alloway, editor of Popular Science Monthly, and a 1933 graduate of the school, was brought back, and William Lawrence, on the staff of the New York Times Washington Bureau, spoke at the 1958 banquet.

According to Dr. Hall the banquet is open to students, alumni, all representatives of all communications media including television, radio, advertising and others.

Winners of upperclass scholarships will also be announced at the banquet. They will be the recipients of the Harry T. Dobbins scholarship, the first KOLN-TV scholarship and first Nebraska Weekly scholarship, Dr. Hall said.

Dr. Zariski Gets Fullbright Grant

A University faculty member, Dr. Raphael Zariski, assistant professor of political science, has received a Fulbright grant for the 1960-61 academic year.

Dr. Zariski will use the $5,000 award to lecture on American government at the University of Florence in Italy. His leave from the University is subject to the approval of the Board of Regents.

Dr. Zariski joined the University staff in 1957. Prior to his Nebraska appointment he taught at Bennington College for two years.

A native of Rome, Italy, Dr. Zariski earned all of his advanced degrees from Harvard University, receiving his Ph. D. in 1952.

Service Totals 81

Prof. Tierney, Edison Retire

The retirement of two professors who have together served the University a total of 81 years was accepted by the Board of Regents at its Wednesday meeting.

Miss Elizabeth Tierney, professor of music, who has taught at the University since 1925; and Oskar Edison, professor of electrical engineering, who has been a staff member since 1914 will receive the rank of professor emeritus, effective July 1.

Both professors, glancing back over their years at the University, said although their fields have changed rapidly the human race changes very slowly.

"The students are better in quality but they are basically the same as when I first began teaching in 1914," Edison said.

Edison entered the University as a student in 1910. After receiving his bachelor's degree, he became a member of the faculty.

Miss Tierney received both her bachelor and master's degrees from the University, studied in Paris with Mlle. Nadia Boulanger, internationally known artist, and took advanced work at Columbia University.

A professor of theory and composition, she said that the music students today are better equipped in academic subjects.

"Students," she said, "have a tendency to experiment, more than in the earlier years of my teaching."

Both Miss Tierney and Edison plan to spend the next year in travel.

Dean Dow

David Dow Is New Law Dean

Belsheim Resigns, Will Still Teach

Veteran Law College Dean Edmund O. Belsheim stepped down Wednesday and named to succeed him was Prof. David Dow.

Dean Belsheim had asked to be relieved of his administrative responsibilities and his request was approved by the Board of Regents.

"I have been dean for 11 years and I feel that is enough," Dean Belsheim explained. "I would prefer now to devote my full attention to teaching and research," he added.

Faculty Support

In presenting the nomination of Prof. Dow to the Board of Regents, Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin said that he had discussed the appointment with the Law College faculty and "it has their overwhelming support."

Professor Dow served the College as acting dean during the academic year of 1954-55 while Dean Belsheim was on leave and in 1957 received the University Foundation's Distinguished Teaching award.

A native of Michigan, Professor Dow received his baccalaureate and law degrees from the University of Michigan and engaged in the practice of law in New York City from 1936 to 1943. During World War II he served on the administrative staff of the Los Alamos laboratories.

Joined in 1946

He joined the University staff early in 1946 as an associate professor of law and the following year was appointed full professor.

Like Professor Dow, Dean Belsheim came to the University in 1946 when the College of Law was reopened following World War II. He was appointed Dean in June of 1949.

Dean Belsheim was instrumental in the establishment of the Legal Aid Bureau, an agency the College operates in cooperation with the Lincoln Bar Association and the Barristers Club to provide legal services for indigent persons.
