

Field Goal Dumps Huskers, 10-7

Kick Provides Margin Again in Big 8 Game

By Hal Brown
 Anyone who thinks the foot is disappearing from football need only look at the Nebraska-Iowa State series over the past six years.

Four of the last six games between the Cyclones and Huskers have been decided by a kick. Prior to Saturday's game, the Huskers had won three of the last five from the Cyclones by three points or less, but Saturday the Cyclones swiped a page from the Nebraska book.

A third-quarter field goal by sophomore Larry Schreiber from the 29-yard line provided the margin of victory in a 10-7 Cyclone win in the Big Eight opener for both teams.

The Sioux City Heelan High School graduate was picked for the task by Arch Steel, Iowa State assistant coach, when the Iowa State attack bogged down on the Nebraska 23-yard line. With Don Fleming, his high school coach looking on from the press box, Schreiber entered the game for the first time and his kick barely cleared the crossbar for three points.

Nebraska had two more opportunities to score after Iowa State took the lead but the Huskers were unable to come up with the big play at the right time. The Huskers took the kickoff following Schreiber's field goal with Bill Comstock returning the ball from the Nebraska 34 to the 40-yard line.

Fischer Passes
 With an 18-yard pass from Pat Fischer to Clay White being the big play in the drive, Nebraska moved to a first and ten situation on the Iowa State 20-yard line. After three plays netted only two yards, Ron Meade and John Faiman entered the game as Fischer was shaken up on a preceding play.

The Huskers lined up with Faiman in a position to hold the ball for an apparent field goal try by Meade but when the pass came from the Nebraska center, Faiman stood up and looked for a receiver. With Iowa State rushing him, Faiman threw a desperation pass to Meade that fell incomplete.

Nebraska's other chance was thwarted by a clipping penalty late in the fourth quarter. Fischer returned a Cyclone punt to the Nebraska 18 and after runs by Thornton and Fischer moved the ball to the Husker 43 with the aid of a personal foul penalty against Iowa State. Fischer skirted left end for 28 yards to the Iowa State 29.

But a clipping penalty called against Clay White moved the ball back to the 44-yard line and instead of having first and ten on the 29, it was first and 25 on the 44.

The Huskers were unable to make the needed yardage and the Cyclones took over the ball on the Iowa State 47-yard line and controlled the ball for the final eight plays to run out the clock.

Nebraska opened the scoring at the close of the first quarter when Fischer dashed around left end for 15 yards and a touchdown to cap a drive that started on the Iowa State 29.

Short Punt
 The Huskers took over the ball after Cliff Rick's 12-yard punt rolled dead at the Cyclone 29-yard line. With Bernie Clay getting seven up the middle, Thornton adding three, Fischer going for two, White gaining two and Clay being stopped for no gain, the Huskers moved to the 15-yard line.

Nebraska went up the middle on all five plays and as the Cyclone defense ganged up in the middle, Fischer tucked the ball under his arm and scampered into the end zone. Meade added the extra point but Nebraska was offside and Meade had to try again. He split the uprights on the second try also and Nebraska led 7-0.

Fischer Heads for Paydirt

Pat Fischer, with ball, sprints goalward as he skirts Iowa State's left end in the first quarter of Saturday's game. The Husker quarterback scored the only TD for Nebraska against the Cyclones as Iowa State took a 10-7 victory. Nebraskans are Don Fricke (50), Gary Toogood (67), the Iowa State touchdown midway in the second quarter. Fischer went back to pass with a third and one situation on the Nebraska 25 and his aerial was snared by the Cyclones' Mickey Fitzgerald at the 33 and returned to the 20.

On the next play Tom Watkins spun through the Nebraska defenders and went the 20 yards to paydirt. Rick's extra point kick was good and the score was tied at 7-7.

The statistics were just as close as the score with Iowa State holding a 13-11 edge in first downs and a 219 to 211 edge in total yardage.

Nebraska tried a total of Bernie Clay (41), Warren Powers (15), and Thunder Thornton (30). Cyclones giving pursuit are Larry Van Der Heyden (76), Arden Esslinger (54), Don Webb (80), and Lou Gartner (82).

six forward passes, completing one for 18 yards and having one intercepted. Iowa State tried two and completed none with one interception.

The Huskers fumbled twice and recovered one with the Cyclones recovering the other. Iowa State didn't fumble the ball once during the game.

Hoppmann Stopped
 Nebraska held Dave Hoppmann to 55 yards on 18 carries for a 3.1 average, considerably below his pre-game average of 8.2. Watkins was the Cyclones leading ball carrier with 99 yards in 23 carries for a 4.3 average. He didn't lose a yard all day.

Reserve tailback Dave Clayberg gained 44 yards on six tries for a 7.3 average as a replacement for Hoppmann in the final quarter after Hoppmann was injured.

Fischer led the Nebraska attack with a 4.9 average on 58 yards in 14 carries. Clay carried the ball 10 times for a 4.3 average and Thornton gained 43 yards on 13 plays for a 3.3 average.

Dressing Room Chatter

Stapleton Calls Misguided Pass Key Play in Game

Mickey Fitzgerald's interception of a Pat Fischer aerial that set up Iowa State's first touchdown was the key play in the Cyclones win over Nebraska, according to Clay Stapleton, Iowa State head coach.

"The game could have gone either way as the breaks were about even and the team that stayed in there the longest was the team that deserved to win and we were in better shape than Nebraska today," said the Iowa State leader.

None Tougher
 "There are none tougher than Nebraska in this league and we feared the Huskers option play the most although they used it only sparingly," Stapleton continued.

The Cyclone coach singled out Don Purcell and Pat Fischer for special mention along with his own Tom Watkins. "Purcell and Fischer are terrific and Purcell stopped our wide plays," Stapleton said. "Watkins kept us in the ball game."

Watkins also cited Purcell and Fischer as the outstanding players for Nebraska. Watkins was the Iowa State workhorse and caused Nebraska trouble.

"I was really fired up about being on the second team all week in practice and I wanted to prove that I belonged on the top team," Watkins said.

"We are always fired up for Nebraska," said Dave Hoppmann, Iowa State tailback. Hoppmann praised the Husker linebackers (Mick Tingelhoff, Don Fricke, Thunder Thornton and Dallas Dyer) and Roland McDole.

Larry Van Der Heyden, Iowa State right tackle who went all 60 minutes, said the difference in the game came from the Cyclones being in better condition than Nebraska.

Too Many Mistakes
 Husker coach Bill Jennings blamed the defeat on mistakes. "It's a game of mistakes and we made more than they did," said the Nebraska coach.

Speaking of future games, Jennings said, "We didn't give up and we aren't giving up now. I just hope we are better than that. All we see now is Kansas State."

Gary Toogood blamed the loss on the absence of a passing attack. "No passing attack, that's our trouble. We moved the ball five yards at a time up the middle."

"It's hard to lose a ball game. We all wanted to win," said Don Purcell. Speaking of the injury when he was helped off the field, Purcell said, "I just got hit in the head. I'm not hurt. I'm never hurt."
