Ag Growing Pains Prompt Survey—Planning Committee

ARCHIVE

Increased expansion on the Ag campus has prompted University officials to bring in a survey and planning committee to study the future needs of the Ag campus.

Carl A. Donaldson, business manager of the University building committee said the committee is at present meeting with each of the Ag departments to discuss what each might need in the areas of planning and construction in the next 15 years.

Map Ag
From there the committee will try to map the Ag campus as to locations of future buildings and for facilities for streets, lighting, power and heat, Donaldson said.

the consensus of the building committee that the Ag campus may grow more in the next 10 years than it has in the last 10 years. The problem then lies in where to put all the increased expansion, he continued.

Until recently there was not much thought as to where to locate new buildings because there seems to be plenty of room, Donaldson said. The first buildings were built around the mall which was to be the center of the campus.

But since these first structures have been built, many other departments have demanded and received new buildings. There was no place to move west or south because that space was already occupied. As a result many of the buildings were built to the east of the mall.

No Longer Center
The sudden shift has caused the mall to no longer be in the center of the Ag campus and with request of more buildings, Donaldson said the question is where to put these buildings and what design the campus should follow.

Due to the increased traffic on Holdrege and 33rd St. the areas near these streets to avoid the traffic problem.

Another problem the University faces when it plans to construct a new building is whether water, light, power and street facilities will be available without an increase in expansion, Donaldson said.

A limit of $600,000 per year or 25 mills has been set for construction and remodeling on the Ag campus. Therefore most construction has to wait its turn and when another building is constructed, revenue for new facilities and for remodeling old facilities for some other department must also be taken into consideration.

Trend Developed
This trend has developed with the construction of the following buildings on the Ag campus during the last ten years: Fedde Hall, Burr Hall, Keim Hall, Biochemistry and Nutrition, married student housing and now the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Other problems are facing the University on the Ag campus, Donaldson continued. There is need for more student housing, but where should it be located? Near the present Burr and Fedde Halls there is no room for more buildings so the question is, should more housing be built on the other side of the campus?

Many departments have requested new buildings in the near future. They are a new Home Economics building, Ag library, Ag Union and an Animal Science building.

With all of these and other projects the survey committee is planning where and when each should be built so that it will fit into the University budget, Donaldson said.

FRESHMAN EMPLOYMENT

Noon Work Prompts New Approach

A new approach to freshman noon-time employment has been adopted by University officials.

Beginning today freshmen who wish to work during the noon hour at the dorms and the Student Union may secure special permission to eat early and will receive additional help from the junior division with the rearrangement of class schedules.

Nearly 25 students are needed immediately for this type of work according to Allen Bennett, director of the Student Union. About 12 are needed at the Union and the remainder at both Selleck Quadrangle and the Women's Residence Halls.

"In the past, it has been the policy of the Union to utilize student help as fully as possible. We believe this new approach is a significant step forward in that direction," Bennett added.

Students are especially needed between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. according to Bennett.

Lee Chatfield, director of Junior Division, has indicated it will be possible to rearrange nearly all conflicting freshmen schedules. Exceptions will be a few noon hour classes such as ROTC and music.

The plea for workers is not intended as a portion of the work scholarship program for this year which has already been filled according to Dr. Aubrey Forrest, who is in charge of the work scholarships.

The present opportunity for student employment is designed to aid freshmen who were unaware of the work scholarships and those who are facing unanticipated additional college expenses, Forrest explained.

Sig Ep House To Close?

Senate Committee Will Recommend

The Daily Nebraskan has learned from a reliable source that a recommendation will be made to the Board of Regents Friday that the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity house be closed until next September.

The decision as to the recommendation was made by the Faculty Senate subcommittee on student affairs, the reliable source said. The recommendation is subject to the approval of the board which will meet in Lincoln Friday.

Action resulted after J. P. Colbert, dean of Student Affairs warned in September that the fraternity "had failed to abide by the probation it received last spring."

The probation was broken, according to Colbert, September 19 when a party in the fraternity house included alcoholic beverage and a subsequent party "at the edge of town on a school night was unauthorized and unchaperoned."

Probation
Last spring the fraternity was put on probation along with two other fraternities, Sigma Nu and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, after a wild party at Crete.

Last spring the Board of Regents accepted Dean Colbert's recommendation that the three fraternities lose their rushing, pledging and initiating privileges until September 1961.

Dean Colbert was not available for comment.

Kappas Win Spirit Trophy Saturday

Kappa Kappa Gamma provided the spirit and enthusiasm to take possession of the "Spirit Trophy" for this week.

Honorable mention was given by the Yell squad to Alpha Phi, Zeta Tau Alpha and Delta Delta Delta.

"Many houses were not aware that the contest was on again this week," said Al Krizelman, Yell King. "However, this week the competition was greater than any shown at other games this year or last year."

"The Kappas' team support did not end with the game for they were still as excited when I presented the trophy to them after it was over," Krizelman said.

The house which has the majority of weekly awards will keep the trophy until the next football season. So far Delta Delta Delta and Kappa Kappa Gamma are the two leading contenders for the award. However, there are three home football games remaining at which any organized house or group may try to win the contest.

Student Council Make Migration Official?

Unofficial migration could well become official if students could show a way for it to be a credit to the University, according to Student Council officials.

The Student Council constitution gives the Council the power to make the migration official but the administration has discouraged such a move and the council has not yet seen fit to act, said Ken Tempero, president.

Tempero believes this has been because of the marked tendency toward drinking which accompanies migration.

More than 420 football tickets have been sold to date for this year's migration to Boulder, Colorado which will be Oct. 22.

A. J. Lewandowski, business manager of athletics, reports that an additional 1,000 tickets are available and may be purchased for $4 apiece at the Coliseum.

This year for the first time IWA and RAM will possibly sponsor chartered buses for independent students who wish to attend.

Details on the chartered buses will be completed early this week, but RAM officials have indicated they are hoping for six buses which will leave about midnight Friday and return late Saturday afternoon.

A precision drill will be presented during the half-time at the game by the 120 members of the University band who will leave Friday night by train.

Survey Finds NU Pay Low

By Nancy Whitford

Faculty salaries at the University are lower than the regional average in every instance according to the results of a survey on higher education in Nebraska conducted by Dr. Lyman A. Glenny.

The University is not alone however, Dr. Glenny, associate professor of political science at Sacramento (Calif.) State College indicated.

Only one junior college and two private colleges in the state offer higher than regional average salaries and this at the instructor level only.

Full Details
Full details of this report will be released by Dr. Glenny at a lay committee hearing Oct. 19 in the Governor's hearing room at the State Capitol.

Dr. Glenny was appointed to do the study by the legislative council committee on higher education.

Among the other findings which Dr. Glenny will discuss more fully at the hearing is the changing role of the junior college in Nebraska.

"Junior colleges have been refused state aid on the basis of their supposedly local function. The study of such factors as enrollment and geographical location of the students indicates an unsuspected state-wide inclusiveness," Dr. Glenny said.

State Educators

During the study, Dr. Glenny, aided by educators throughout the state, also attempted to answer such questions as how much unnecessary duplication characterizes the higher educational institutions in the state and how much enrollment can each expect during the next ten years;

Whether Nebraska is providing adequate training for its best students, to what extent credits are acceptable for transfer from one institution to another, how well present physical facilities meet current needs;

How well Nebraska has supported the financial needs of its institutions, how the expenditures for higher education compare with Nebraska wealth and per capita income and what financial resources will be available for educational needs.

Each of the major areas of study coordinated by Dr. Glenny is under the supervision of a three man advisory committee headed by a consultant.

Time Donated
These educators, nominated by the Nebraska Association of Colleges and Universities, have donated freely their time to the project.

If all of the personnel were paid, the cost of the project would soar to $300,000 rather than the $30,000 appropriated by the legislature, Dr. Glenny pointed out.

Each committee includes a representative from one of the four types of educational institutions in Nebraska — junior college, teachers college, university and private college.

Representing the University are Professor Edgar Palmer, chairman of the department of business research, Professor Merk Hobson, dean of the College of Engineering and Professor Marvel Baker, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture.

Study Requested
"The study has been undertaken primarily at the request of the institutions of higher learning in the state," Dr. Glenny said. "Each has faced the necessity for planning without a thorough knowledge of the plans of other institutions for the future."

"The unicameral, like the educators, was without the facts which in this case were necessary to formulate public policy on problems of higher education."

Glenny also noted that these same pressures have prompted similar surveys in the neighboring states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa, Colorado and Kansas.

The measure was introduced into the Nebraska legislature by Senators Richard Marvel and Norman Otto.

First Comprehensive

Although this is the first comprehensive survey of higher education in Nebraska using modern techniques of research and analysis, several previous studies have been made.

However, the latest was taken 20 years ago and none of its recommendations were adopted in full or received more than partial acceptance, Dr. Glenny noted.

Dr. Glenny feels this survey will provide the first set of basic facts and figures available as a basis for immediate planning and as a guide for all future surveys.

In addition, he feels the presentation of an "outside perspective" on the state colleges and universities, along with comparisons with other states, will give Nebraskans a "complete descriptive picture of the situation, from which they may do any planning they choose."

Skiers Ho!

Trip Plans Begin

Tentative plans for this year's University ski trip have been announced by the Student Union recreation committee.

The trip will be held during the semester break, and will cost approximately $60 per participant. Train fare is included in the cost.

Although the destination is not definite, it will probably be Winter Park, Colorado. It is also possible that Kansas State will participate with Nebraska for a joint trip.

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Over $50,000 Given In Regents Each Year

Have you ever wondered about the University's scholarship program? How many Regents scholarships are given each year? How much additional money is available? And how about work scholarships and loans?

Dr. Aubrey Forrest, director of scholarships and financial aid, has an answer to your question.

First of all, 300 Regents scholarships worth $100 apiece are given to incoming freshmen each year, while the sophomore, junior and senior classes each receive 75.

"They are renewable if a satisfactory grade average is maintained, probably a 7.0," explained Dr. Forrest.

"We have more funds for upperclassmen than for freshmen," he continued. "For freshmen, outside the $30,000 Regents program, we have only $23,000 in additional funds. This is only enough for one-fourth of the freshmen qualified, but we pretty well meet the need of qualified upperclassmen."

"The average freshman scholarship is about $200," he added.

"We award 200 work scholarships ranging from $200 to $600 a year. Loans were given to approximately 100 freshmen, with an average value of about $300. Of course we have no work scholarships for upperclassmen."

Explaining the work scholarships, Dr. Forrest said, "We guarantee work which will allow a student to earn a certain amount of money a year. It's more of an insurance policy than a gift."

"The average loan for upperclassmen is $300," he continued. "We make about 250 new loans a year."

"The deadline for applying for scholarships is March 1, 1961 for upperclassmen, and December 1, 1960, for entering freshmen." December 1 is also the deadline for 2nd semester student loan applications.

"Regents scholarships are not automatically renewed and students must apply," Dr. Forrest emphasized.

"Strike Up The Band!"

Sixty-eight Nebraska high school bands participated in the University's 1960 Band Day at Memorial Stadium Saturday. The 3,711 band members massed on the Stadium field during halftime of the Kansas State-Nebraska game, and formed the FREEDOM across the length and breadth of the field. Don Lantz led the band during the halftime ceremonies.

Center Stone Laying Thursday Set For Ceremonies

Cornerstone-laying for the $2.9 million Nebraska Center for Continuing Education at the University Ag College campus will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Maurice F. Seay, director of the division of education for the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., is the featured speaker. He will represent the Kellogg Foundation which granted $1.5 million towards the construction of the center.

Highlight of the ceremonies is the placing of a copper box containing documents concerning the Center. A list of Nebraska donors will be among the documents. Donations from state citizens totals $1.1 million.

Seay, a director of the Foundation since 1954 who has also been the dean of the University of Kentucky and chairman of the education division of the University of Chicago, will be supplemented by Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin and Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, who will also give talks.

Presiding at the cornerstone-laying will be J. Leroy Welsh of Omaha and president of the Nebraska Board of Regents. Members of the Board of Regents will do the actual laying of the cornerstone.

The Center is now 60 per cent complete with construction expected to be completed early in 1961, according to Verner Meyers, director of planning and construction. He added that workers plan to close in the building within two or three weeks to allow interior work during the winter months.

DGs Sweep Extra Point Contest

There is music in the air at Delta Gamma sorority this week.

Sounds from a stereo and a portable organ may be heard at almost any time of the day or night as a result of a campus wide Extra-Point Club contest among organized houses. The DGs won both first and second prizes in the contest for selling the highest number of Extra-Point memberships from Oct. 22 to midnight Oct. 28.

The active members sold $305 worth of Extra-Point memberships for first place and a portable "Pianorgani" organ made by Ancona. It is valued at $156, according to Lois Deane, house chairman for the drive.

The Delta Gamma pledges were awarded a $96 portable Columbia high fidelity stereophonic record player for selling 200 one dollar memberships. The record player was second prize.

Alpha Phi Third
Third place went to the Alpha Phi's who sold $46 worth of memberships.

"When you have an athletic program with as much potential as Nebraska's it isn't very difficult to find people who are willing to back it," Deane said.

"This contest was an attempt by every Delta Gamma, not only to win a prize but also to help strengthen this program.

Penny A Minute

Here at last! The first late date night of the year! If girls wish to stay out an hour later Friday night, until 1:30 instead of the usual 12:30, it will cost them or their dates a penny a minute for each minute after 12:30.

This is the night of Oct. 14 and the fall Kosmet Klub show.

Mortar Board and AWS representatives will collect the late fees at all women's residences. The proceeds will go towards the financing of the Foreign Student Tour sponsored by the Mortar Boards in the spring.

Countesses Plan Army Reception

Cadence Countesses, the girl's drill team, will sponsor a reception for the Army football team after the game Oct. 15.

It will be held in the Pan American room of the Student Union. Refreshments will be served to team members and guests.

Reward For Return Of Pershing Trophy

Company A of Pershing Rifles is offering a reward of $50, to anyone who returns the competitive drill trophy won in 1892 by the original company of the Pershing Rifles.

Anyone having information about the trophy is requested to contact the Army ROTC Department.
