

NU Set for Buffalo Clash

Huskers Seeking Third Straight Win Saturday

By Hal Brown

Nebraska's gridders, looking for their third consecutive win, invade the home of the Colorado Buffs at Boulder Saturday for an important Big Eight clash.

Approximately 800 Nebraska students are expected to be in the stands for the 3 p.m. (CST) kickoff. This weekend is Homecoming on the Colorado campus.

The last time a Nebraska team won three successive games in one season was 1955 in Bill Glassford's final season. The Huskers of that year defeated Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, and Colorado on successive Saturdays.

The Huskers have won two-in-a-row only once previously under Bill Jennings. Last year's gridders defeated Minnesota and Oregon State on consecutive weekends, but lost the next three to Kansas, Indiana, and Missouri, before upsetting Oklahoma.

A win Saturday would assure the Huskers of at least a record comparable to last year's 4-6 mark. Nebraska must stop a potent Colorado 227 yards per game on the ground and 84 yards per game through the air.

The Buffs have four backs who have gained more than 100 yards rushing. Senior fullback Chuck Weiss leads the ground-gainers with 189 yards.

Nebraska Native Jerry Steffen, a senior left halfback from Crofton, Neb., is second with 153 followed by Ted Woods with 134 yards and right halfback Ed Coleman with 121 yards. Coleman is the only non-letterman in the probable starting lineup.

Gale Weidner, the Buffs top passer, has lost the starting quarterback job to Frank Montera for Saturday's contest. Weidner, who missed last week's clash with Iowa State because of an injured hip, has completed 12 of 31 passes for 218 yards.

Montera has a record of six completions in 15 attempts for 68 yards. Right end Jerry Hillebrand is the favorite pass receiver with five pass receptions for 150 yards and one TD.

Nebraska virtually ignores the passing game and depends on a hard-nosed defense for its wins. Nebraska has thrown only 26 times in five games for an average of 5.2 passes per game. Ten have been completed with five others being pirated by the opponents.

Opposing teams have cast 57 passes, completing 26 and four have been intercepted. But opponents have been able to score only once with the pass and the Pat Fischer-Bennie Dillard combination provided the winning margin over Army last Saturday.

Fischer and Thunder Thornton are the leading Husker rushers with 261 and 228 yards respectively. Fischer is averaging 4.6 yards per carry and Thornton is averaging 4.4 yards per play.

Bennie Dillard, used only on spot assignments, is the leading rusher average-wise with a 7.3 average on six carries. Dillard has handled the ball only seven times but has scored three touchdowns to rank second in the scoring column for the Huskers.

Colorado is tied with Missouri for first place in the Big Eight with a 2-0 record while Nebraska is in fourth place with a 1-1 mark. The Buffs are 3-1 on the season and have a three-game winning string after losing the opener to Baylor, 26-0.

Colorado is averaging 28 points per game in the last three contests with the lowest point total being the 21 points scored against Iowa State last Saturday.

Nebraska holds a slim 9-8-1 won-lost margin over Colorado in the series history.

Sports Signals

By Hal Brown

The race for the Big Eight football crown, which is still wide open, should be cleared up considerably after Saturday's action with all conference teams involved in loop clashes. Of major importance are the Nebraska-Colorado game at Boulder and the Iowa State-Missouri contest at Columbia, Mo.

Missouri is in the favorite's role after winning its first five games, but Colorado is tied with the Tigers for the top spot. Both have 2-0 records. Kansas' conference record is marred only by a 13-13 tie to Oklahoma. Only two teams that can definitely be written off as title contenders are Kansas State and Oklahoma State. Iowa State is virtually out of the picture with two losses.

Brown

Oklahoma is ineligible to represent the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl because of an NCAA probation. If Missouri wins the crown or finishes second to Oklahoma, the Tigers would have to ask the Big Eight faculty representative to waive the conference rule against a team appearing two consecutive years.

Even if the Big Eight waived the ruling, the Orange Bowl committee could refuse to take the Tigers and hold the Big Eight to the original ruling. The Orange Bowl committee has to take the champion or the runnerup, unless both are ineligible for some reason. If both the champion and runnerup are ineligible, then the Orange Bowl committee can select a team from outside the conference.

Any of the Big Eight teams, with the exception of Oklahoma, may accept bids to other bowls and Kansas and Missouri have already been mentioned as possibilities for the Gator Bowl. Nebraska, with its 1-1 conference record, is still very much in the race, but the Huskers must win Saturday to keep their hopes alive.

Bob Ghilotti, Colorado end coach who scouted the Huskers last week against Army, says, "Nebraska presents an unusual type of football. They've beaten two outstanding teams in Army and Texas." Ghilotti picks Pat Fischer as the player who gives the team its spark, but the Buffalo aide can't make up his mind whether the converted halfback is a good quarterback or not.

"He makes a lot of mistakes and he doesn't pass too well," Ghilotti said. "Then he turns around and makes a play that beats you. He's won the big game for them. The thing that makes him tough is his running. He runs the option play well and is quite likely to change his mind on a pass play and wind up running."

Ghilotti describes the Huskers as unpredictable in every way. "They don't score a lot but they contain the other team. They make you struggle up and down the field, but they hang in there and beat you more often than not. You've got to give credit to a team like that."

The potential is evident on the Nebraska team and if they can continue to play as they did against Texas and Army, then the rest of the league is in for trouble when they meet the Huskers. It should be a very interesting race all the way to the wire.

Now for a look at this week's games:

BIG EIGHT

NEBRASKA 21, Colorado 13—Nebraska stays in the title picture with a win over the Buffs to the delight of migrating Husker fans.

MISSOURI 28, Iowa State 7—Missouri should get its sixth consecutive win of the season against a slipping Cyclone squad.

KANSAS 35, Oklahoma State 7—The Cowboys return to conference action after two games against non-conference opposition and will run into a tough Jayhawk team.

OKLAHOMA 34, Kansas State 0—The Sooners should have little trouble in trouncing the Wildcats for its first conference win.

OTHER GAMES

Mississippi over Arkansas, Army over Villanova, Auburn over Miami (Fla.), Oregon over California, Princeton over Cornell, Clemson over Duke, Georgia Tech over Tulane, Dartmouth over Harvard, Illinois over Penn State, Michigan State over Indiana, Iowa over Purdue, Georgia over Kentucky, LSU over Florida, Minnesota over Michigan, Northwestern over Notre Dame.

Ohio State over Wisconsin, Washington over Oregon State, Navy over Pennsylvania, Texas over Rice, North Carolina over South Carolina, Pittsburgh over Texas Christian, UCLA over Stanford, Wake Forest over Maryland, Syracuse over West Virginia, Yale over Colgate, Texas Tech over SMU.

This corner picked 19 right with nine wrong and two ties for a .667 mark last week. The season record stands at 105 right, 38 wrong, and seven ties for a .723 percentage.

Sigma Alpha Mu Can Cinch League 3 Title

By Chip Wood

Five crucial intramural football tilts are scheduled Monday night.

Sigma Alpha Mu can take the league 3 crown by defeating Beta Sigma Psi. The Sammys are undefeated and the Beta Sigs have a 2-1 record.

League 2 leader Phi Gamma Delta goes against Farm House in a game that should decide the title. Farm House and ATO, the second place teams, play in other action.

Kappa Sigma A and Phi Kappa Psi A play Monday in a game to decide the co-holder of the league 1 title now held by Sigma Chi.

The only major action Tuesday is the Theta Xi B team game with the Phi Kappa Psi B squad. The Theta Xi's are undefeated in league 8 and could wrap up the crown.
