

Grapplers Prepare For Season Opener

By Cloyd Clark

Nebraska wrestlers will open the regular season against the Kansas State Wildcats Dec. 10 in the Coliseum.

The Nebraska wrestlers 0-13 record of last season will be in the balance as they meet the Wildcats, fourth strongest team in the Big Eight last year.

Fourth place doesn't give much credit to the Wildcats, but they were beaten by three of the top five teams in the NCAA tournament.

Kansas State has a squad of 30 varsity grapplers including eight lettermen and last year's 115-pound Big Eight champion, John Doolley.

Dee Goodland, K-State's outstanding wrestler last season, and Larry Word, high-point Wildcat wrestler of 1959-60 will also bolster the Kansas State team.

Omaha heavyweight and tri-captain Jim Raschke will lead the Husker grapplers into the coming season. Raschke, runnerup in the Big 8 tournament last spring was last season's only consistent winner.

Harold Thompson, Jim Faimon, and Garry Harley are the other returning Husker lettermen.

Mike Nissen, Mason City, Ia., 123-pound entry will assist Raschke as co-captain until Thompson becomes eligible next semester.

Thompson didn't wrestle last year, but the season before, he finished fourth in the Big Eight 123-pound class.

Coach Mickey Sparano is optimistic about the coming season, saying, "I'm sure that Nebraska's record of not winning a meet last year will be topped this year."

Coach Sparano has been encouraged by the amount of interest with which the wrestling program has been greeted this year.

Last year Coach Bill Smith was unable to field a complete team in many of the meets, but this year Sparano boasts not only a complete team but has substitutes at every position on his 44-man squad.

The Husker matmen will have two warmup meets before the season's opener with Kansas State, the Varsity Frosh match Nov. 28, and the AAU individual wrestler tournament at Iowa State Dec. 3.

Sparano will take a twenty man team to the AAU tournament which will record only individual scores.

United States Olympic wrestler Dan Brand will also wrestle in the AAU meet.

Swimmers Preparing For Opener

By Roy Katskee

Nebraska's swimmers, led by co-captains Joe Stocker and Larry McClean, are pointing toward an improvement over their 6-7 record of a year ago.

The swimmers open the season Jan. 7 against Minnesota.

In Dick Klaas's second year as varsity coach he has ten returning lettermen and four promising sophomores. Two seniors and one junior scored for Nebraska last year in the Big Eight conference meet.

They are: Joe Stocker, third in the 100-yd. breast-stroke and fourth in the 200 yd. breast stroke; Larry McClean, fifth in the 100 yd. butterfly; and Jim Frank fourth in diving. Stocker and McClean are seniors while Frank is a junior.

In coach Klaas's estimation the team has good spirit and a good chance to improve on last year's fifth rating in the conference. The team is currently working in the pool to begin preparation for Minnesota.

The freshman roster includes 4 All-Staters, three from Nebraska and one from Iowa. It promises to be one of the best frosh teams in years. Outstanding members of the team are: Jeff Amsler, Sioux City, Iowa; individual medley and backstroke; Bill Henry, Omaha, backstroke; Bill Fowles, Omaha, butterfly; and Dave Meyers, Lincoln, freestyle sprint.

Deadline Set for IM Basketball Rosters

All intramural basketball managers should check their team rosters with the Dean's list prior to Nov. 21, according to El Higginbotham, director of intramurals.

STRATEGY CONFERENCE

Husker swimming coach Dick Klaas discusses the coming swimming season with co-captain Joe Stocker. Klaas is starting his second season at the Nebraska helm.

Weightmen Lift Tonight

Intramural weight lifting begins tonight at 7:30 in the weight room in the Coliseum basement.

The 123, 132, 148, and 165-pound classes will compete tonight and the 181, 198, and heavyweight classes to-morrow night.

The events to be contested are the bench press, squat lift, and dead lift.

Places in each weight and event will be added together to decide the team title. The winning organization will receive a trophy and the winners of each event will receive medals.

The Civil Engineers won the all-University title last year. Theta Xi took the fraternity crown.

All-Sports Tickets Are Now on Sale

All-Sports tickets for all winter and spring sports are now on sale at the Coliseum ticket office, according to A. J. Lewandowski, athletic business manager. Student tickets are $4 and faculty tickets $5.
