Foundation Laid For New Chapel

First Unit Will Be Complete by Spring

Construction on the foundation of the new $150,000 Episcopal chapel and student center was started today at its 13th and R location, according to Rev. G. M. Armstrong, pastor of the Episcopal chapel.

The old chapel, which was built in 1890, was torn down this fall to make room for the new structure's first unit, which is expected to be completed in the spring, said Rev. Armstrong.

The first unit will consist of the student center and a temporary chapel in the basement. The second unit, which will be started this summer at an expected cost of $75-$80,000, will house the permanent chapel.

Textured Brick
The single story structure will be made of textured brick with mosaic designs of panels and glass squares. Interior emphasis will be on simplicity with "no distracting features between the door and the altar," said Rev. Armstrong.

Contemporary style furniture will complete the various rooms which include a kitchen, dining hall, recreation room, study rooms and office space.

A cross-shaped window, to be located in the west wall, has been especially designed for the chapel.

"Money for the first unit has been collected or is being collected through voluntary gifts of various Episcopal congregations throughout the state," said Rev. Armstrong, "and the collection of funds for the construction of the second unit will begin this spring."

The sky show at Mueller Planetarium has taken on a Christmas atmosphere, according to Vale Kane, sky show lecturer.

"Our special Christmas program entitled "Star of Bethlehem" is now running," explained Kane. "The show features the formation of the Bethlehem star as seen by the scientists, but also includes the regular sky views and lecture."

"We have four lecturers who are people associated with the Planetarium," he continued. Besides Kane, Doug Kent, Wray Rominger and John Howe share the speaking duties.

"The planetarium can seat 100 people comfortably," said Kane. "Of course, if we have a larger group, as we have had in the past, we can provide folding chairs."

"We have a program schedule for the general public and another for reservations," he pointed out. "Wednesdays at 8 p.m., Saturdays at 2:45 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. are the public viewing times."

"Monday through Friday, 1:30 p.m. and 2:45 p.m., is set aside for class reservation and special groups," he added.

'Billy N,' Girls Share Navy ROTC Limelight

A goat and three pretty girls will be presented today at 3 p.m. to the Navy ROTC lab in the drill hall of the Military and Naval Science building.

"Billy N," the goat that was presented at the Nebraska-Army football game, was flown to Annapolis prior to the Army-Navy classic. He was greeted enthusiastically by the academy midshipmen, according to Col. Edward McCarthy of the Navy ROTC department.

Billy, who hails from the Lincoln park service, was guest of honor at two pep rallies and was presented at the Army-Navy game along with the regular Navy goat in Philadelphia.

"Billy is the only goat in history to beat the Army twice in one year," McCarthy noted.

Just before the Naval academy flew Billy home last Thursday, he posed with Joe Bellino, all-American halfback of the Navy team, McCarthy said.

Lynn Wright, Kay Swoboda and Marian Brayton, the three coeds vying for Miss Navy honors at the Military Ball, will share the spotlight today with Billy as the Navy students get a look at the candidates after Billy is returned, officially, to the park service, McCarthy explained.

Since Billy was taken from the park service he has been under the care of three ROTC "goat washers" who have given Billy a total of three baths.

Immediately after lab the students will vote for the candidate of their choice for Miss Navy. Billy will return to his pen with a laminated set of orders to inactivity after a spurge in the limelight.
