

Friendly Greeting, Smile Characterize Ellerbusch

By Karen Long
Four years of devotion to fraternity, church, organizations, classes and the University itself has put Rodson Ellerbusch in the "Outstanding Nebraskan" category.

An inspiring and energetic senior, Rod will long be remembered to fellow students and friends as a campus leader who always carries a "friendly smile and cheery greeting with him."

Ellerbusch has a long list of campus organizations and activities connected with his name. Yet he has always been the last one to tell people of his achievements. His emphasis has always been on what he could do for others. People who have known him are amazed at his efficiency in everything he does and know also that he does not often say "no" to requests for assistance.

Innocent
Last Ivy Day the Innocents society tackled him for membership. He has served as secretary this year. A secret desire of every junior, Ellerbusch maintains that the highly regarded honor was a big surprise.

During his participation in all organizations his main emphasis has been to work for the organization and not for personal glory.

Recently named as president of Sigma Nu fraternity, he has previously served as rush chairman and scholarship chairman.

"The fraternity system has had a great impact on my college career and the rest of my life," he said.

"The fraternity system has to change with the times as a different type of people are now coming to the universities," he added.

More students in the future will be working and the requirements for a fraternity man will rest on scholastic ability, he hopes. He does not feel that the fraternity system is in a state of decay as some people do and has great expectations for what can be done in the future.

The Business Administration major has maintained a

7.2 average. As a freshman he was named as one of the 10 top students in the freshmen class.

Ellerbusch now serves as president of Beta Gamma Sigma business honorary.

A member of the church council at the Lutheran Student House for four years, he has served also as president and treasurer of the choir. During that time he was an instrumental figure in the fund drive for new choir robes, and encouraged many new freshmen to find the Student House a place to call a "home away from home."

As president of LSA, Ellerbusch contributed his talents to serve the Lutheran and Ecumenical movements.

Student Tribunal
As chairman of the Student Tribunal, Ellerbusch has been credited with much honor.

The following is a quotation from a student who had recently appeared before the Tribunal in an effort to appeal his case which had resulted in conduct probation.

"I was more than pleased — as a matter of fact, highly impressed with the Student Tribunal this year, as compared to the previous year. The fairness and unbiased manner, help, cooperation, and interest which the Tribunal displays toward a student is highly encouraging along lines of assurance of fair and consistent judgment and treatment. All members of the Tribunal and faculty representative, under Mr. E's leadership, are to be commended. It appears that the old problem of student judgment may be solved largely through the installation of people like Mr. E."

A national committeeman for the Young Republicans, Ellerbusch has contributed much to the party as program chairman and president.

"My high school friends used to tell me that with a name like Rodson Ellerbusch, anyone could be a politician," he said.

Law School
Ellerbusch will continue in his aim for public service

when he enters law school after graduation. His major will be tax law, possibly at Stanford.

In June wedding bells will ring for he and Patty Rohlfis.

A native of Holstein, Iowa, he chose Nebraska because it had a good business college.

"Alums recommended it highly and I am quite surprised and deeply hurt when students scoff and run it down," he said.

Activities did not play a major role when he first came, but now he realizes their value. "More students should make use of the organizations especially in their specific fields," he said.

His philosophy of a good college life is to "make the most of the intellectual, spiritual, cultural, and social growths which are available."

Friends of Ellerbusch have offered that "Rod's becomingly humble attitude and spirited devotion toward the University and his friends make him a kind of person anyone would feel privileged to be acquainted with."

A TIME FOR SOCIAL LIFE

It's coffee time and what better way to spend it than with a pretty coed—preferably with your fiancée, if you're engaged. Rod and Pat Rohlfis spend many of these sessions planning their June wedding.

A TIME FOR STUDY

Typical of all students this time of year, Rod Ellerbusch spends a great deal of his time preparing for final examinations.

Library Grant To Sig Alphas

Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity boasts one of the most unique aids for scholarship on campus.

The Sig Alpha's recently received $750 from its national headquarters for the purpose of setting up a reference library in its house.

Approximately $450 was spent for basic reference materials and the remainder of the appropriation was used for library material of general interest and importance, according to Sam Wellman, vice president of the fraternity.

The library is presently being set up in the basement and chapter room of the house, he said.

The "gift to promote goodwill" is only one of several being distributed among the Sigma Alpha Epsilon chapters across the nation, according to Wellman.

"Reno Romp" will be the theme of the Ag Union dance featuring Hadley Barrett and his Westerners in the Ag Union ballroom on Feb. 17.

The plans of the Ag Union are to bring Hadley Barrett from his engagement in Las Vegas to the "Reno Romp." A casino atmosphere will add to the dance, according to Mylon Filkins, chairman of the Ag Union dance committee.

Present plans call for cigarette girls, roulette wheels and slot machines operated with beans and corn to be distributed at the dance.

Filkins said the theme will be carried out with swinging doors and decorations pertaining to the ace of spades.

A floor show is being planned to provide entertainment at intermission, said Filkins.

Admission for the dance will be $1 each and tickets will go on sale Feb. 6 at the Ag Union or from an Ag Union member.

This will be the second appearance for Hadley Barrett at the Ag Union. He has also played at several other campus activities.
