By Ann Moyer

One of the nation's newest top recording groups, the Brothers 4, are on their way to the University to present a double show Thursday night at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom.

The Union crew has turned out in force to remind the campus of the coming attraction. The latest development is the creation of a Crib special, a thirty cent vertical banana split dubbed the Brothers 4 Special.

Foremost Opera Head Visits N.U.

Julius Rudel to See "Sweetwater Affair"

One of the foremost names in the history of American opera, Julius Rudel, director of the New York City Opera Company, will visit the University today and Thursday.

Rudel has arranged his schedule to view the premiere performance of "The Sweetwater Affair" tonight at 8 p.m. in Howell Memorial Theater.

The 39 year old director, who has already left an indelible mark of success on American music and opera, will give a symposium open to the public at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Howell Memorial Theater, at which time he is expected to review the first night performance of "The Sweetwater Affair."

Rudel, the leading exponent of original American opera art form, has been highly active in his encouragement of music and libretto which best interprets the American heritage.

He has been credited with putting both the New York City company and purely American opera "on its feet," and has been entrusted with Ford Foundation grant of $400,000 for administering the new historic American Opera season series.

Rudel has said that he is "completely delighted" with the recent high interest in opera interpreting Americana, and explained that to be accepted by the people as living art, opera must have its native roots.

Union Business on Rise

By Dave Wohlfarth

A 10 to 15 per cent increase in the income of all Student Union operations is expected this year, according to Allan H. Bennett, Union managing director.

Increases in the four specific Union departments of food service, games, operations and programing, have been achieved the first semester, Bennett indicated.

Figure Boosted
Bennett estimated that last year's total volume figure of $450,000 would be boosted to about $495,000 to $517,500.

He cautioned, however, "We do not declare a profit until after we have set aside for reserve replacements (depreciation)."

"Last year we did not produce a net earning and our hope is to cut the loss to a minimal figure this year," he said.

In the food service department, he commented that the Union was ahead of last year's income total by about $3,000.

This department includes the Crib, cafeteria, colonial dining room and catering.

Running Behind

"In the early fall, the cafeteria was running behind but is now improving to match last year's income day-for-day," Bennett said.

The most marked increase day-by-day has been in the Crib, according to Bennett.

"Crib business has increased and stayed up on an average of $30 a day, over last year," he said.

Something new in the food service department was tried this year as operations were open through finals.

Daily Income

Bennett said the daily income from this proved it a wise decision — the services were used two-thirds as much as on an ordinary day.

The services will continue to be open during future finals as a result of this success, Bennett added.

"If the food service balance continues, we will have a year much better than last year and will produce some income beyond operating expenses," Bennett explained.

Reserve Requirement

As yet the food service department has not met its reserve requirement of $27,000.

This year $5,000 to $8,000 should be put into the reserves depreciation, according to Bennett.

The games department is up $2,000 in total volume over last year, he noted.

This department will produce some earnings ($3,000) against its reserves, which will include the future replacement of the bowling lanes, Bennett said.

Up This Year

The operations department, which includes the barber shop and the main desk, is also up this year.

"The barber shop is paying its way and producing a minor profit," Bennett said, "and the main desk has increased sales 100 per cent over last year."

"The main desk is now the second largest magazine outlet in the city and sells more individual titles than any other place in town," he continued.

One change which was made in the past semester has been the change of the check stand into a self-service operation, thereby cutting a non-productive expense.

Weekend Movies

In the programming area, Bennett commented that the weekend movies are "just paying their way." The projection booth has recently been revamped and future plans include the purchase of two new movie projectors.

He also added he hopes for a large ticket sales on the Brothers 4, who will appear

YWCA Luncheon

YWCA sponsored noon luncheon with the international students will be held Thurs. noon at the United Campus Christian Fellowship at 333 N. 14th.

Theater Tryouts On Wednesday

Dr. Joseph Baldwin, director of University theater, announced joint tryouts for the next University theater major production and a television play.

"Lady of Eternal Springtime" by Bernard Sabath is the Theater production. The play, to be directed by Baldwin was the winner of this year's Nebraska National Playwriting Contest.

For this play, Baldwin was awarded the Fred Ballard Memorial Prize.

"Fredonia Flats," an original play for television was the second place winner in the playwriting contest. It has been adapted as a one hour television play by Dr. Howard Martin, assistant professor of speech.

"There are 28 roles to be assigned in 'Lady of Eternal Springtime,'" said Baldwin, "and 18 for the television production."

The tryouts are being held at the Theater on Wednesday, 3-5:30 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

Dr. Baldwin said all regularly enrolled students are eligible to try out for either or both of these productions.

in the Ballroom Thursday night.

Another first semester change in the Union's staff was the abolishment of the night manager job. Jim Hornby, former night manager, is now the games manager.

Second semester changes will include some internal changes, including the realignment of full-time and part-time assistance, according to Bennett.

He stressed the need for this year's budgeting to be conservative and for it to be a "year to flatten out and run without a major change."

He pointed out the reason for this was the presence of the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education next year and the impact it will have upon the Union's business.

"We hope for new sources to take up the slack next year," he said.

Mead Land Discussion In Offing

University officials are expected to meet with General Service Administration officials after the end of this week to discuss stipulations for transfer of contaminated land at Mead.

University Business Manager, Carl Donaldson, says the University is willing to cooperate with government officials on this surplus land project.

"A series of solutions must be set up as there are not yet any rules in this new area of school use of contaminated land," Donaldson explained.

Negotiations over this land at the former ordnance plant began last week with a meeting between Donaldson and Ag Dean, E. F. Frolik and Kansas City regional officials of GSA.

The GSA has recently approved the University's application to the Health, Education and Welfare Dept. for the surplus land.

Current status of the Mead property is that the University will be allowed over 3,000 acres of the land although the transfer has not yet been documented.

Final approval may well depend on working out details pertaining to the contaminated portions of the land. These consist of four areas where ammunition loading had taken place and where possible danger might still exist.

Donaldson said the University will begin preparatory work toward development of an agricultural field laboratory "as soon as initial details are worked out."

Frosh Law Tests Set for March

Students wishing to enroll as Law College freshmen next fall must take the University Law Aptitude Test given March 21 and 22, Tuesday and Thursday at 1:30 p.m.

Attendance is required on both days to complete the examination to be held in 202 Law College.

All prospective students who have not taken the Princeton Test are required to take this aptitude test and should file their applications for admission in the Law College office before that time, according to Dean David Dow.

Anthro Professor To Lead Discussion

"An Anthropological view of race" will be the topic of discussion tonight at the Phi Eta Sigma meeting in 235 Student Union.

Dr. Edward Fry of the anthropology department will lead the discussion which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

PLINK, PLANK, PLUNK

Ballad singers, Brothers 4, tune up for their Thursday night performance in the Student Union. The group will present a selection of folk songs at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. shows in the Ballroom.

Mills Elected Head Of Engineers Club

Robert Mills, assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the University, has been elected president of the Lincoln Engineers Club for the coming year.

O. J. Ferguson, former electrical engineering dean at the University, was honored at the club's annual business meeting for his outstanding work.

Novel Manuscripts Due at End of Month

Potential novelists will have the opportunity to compete for awards this month.

The Macmillan Fiction Award contest will pay $2,500 outright and $5,000 advance against royalties to the winning author.

Manuscripts must be in the Macmillan office, 65th Ave., New York 11, N.Y., by Feb. 28 to be eligible.

Kraus Places In Hearst Competition

A series of articles on the tax problems of Nebraska, written by University journalism student Carroll Kraus, was chosen as second place winner in the second month of competition in a journalism contest being sponsored by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

Kraus was editor of the Daily Nebraskan during second semester of the 1959-60 school year.

Dr. William E. Hall, director of the School of Journalism, remarked, "This recognition again demonstrates the ability of University journalism students to compete favorably in journalism competition."

Kraus' article gave Nebraska enough points to bring the University even with Iowa State for fourth place in the contest.

The six month contest will continue through April and will feature a different phase of newspaper writing each month. January competition will be conducted in the editorial field; February, sports; March, news writing; and April, feature story writing.

Competition in the contest is limited to the 45 accredited journalism schools in the nation. Each competing school may enter two articles each month chosen from articles submitted by students.

The individual student compiling the most points throughout the contest will receive a $2,000 graduate scholarship.

The three schools with the largest number of points will receive grants ranging from $1,000 to $3,000.

Slushy Walks Main Snow Problem

Following the first major snowfall of the season, traffic was slowed and conditions were hazardous. However, there have been no accidents on campus due to the weather conditions, according to Eugene Masters, captain of the University Police Department.

The sloppy condition underfoot on campus is the main problem connected with the recent snow fall.

Streets around the mall will not be made one way unless conditions get worse, according to Capt. Masters.

The streets are too narrow for two lanes of traffic to move freely going one way, so there would be little advantage to converting the streets permanently. Also, permanent conversion would further limit parking space, Masters said.

Snow removal crews worked all day Sunday cleaning parking lots and sidewalks, according to Chester Billings of the Division of Buildings and Grounds.

"The snow came during semester break, and there weren't many cars around to cause any problems," Billings said. However, a snow-removal problem may be created during ing a snow fall when there are cars in the parking lots and on the campus streets, he added.

This has been a light winter and there have been no problems so far, according to Billings.

WET 'N' SLOPPY

Snow is a problem creator, especially for the University personnel involved in clearing sidewalks, streets and parking lots on campus. This NU employee has a closed in snow plow and is apparently protected from the cold weather.
