Huskies Stun Kansas, Will Wildcats Be Next?

ARCHIVES

By Hal Brown
Nebraska halted Kansas' bid for the Big Eight championship with a 69-68 win over the Jayhawks at Lawrence Saturday and the question now is whether Coach Jerry Bush's cagers can do the same thing to Kansas State.

Husker fans will find the answer to that at 8:05 tonight when the Wildcats invade the Coliseum maps.

The Huskers did Kansas State a favor by whipping the Jayhawks and giving the Wildcats sole possession of first place in the Big Eight race. Kansas State took an easy, 91-71, triumph over Missouri Saturday night.

"We helped Kansas State

by beating Kansas, but we don't plan to give them any help Monday night," Bush remarked.

Kansas State is now in first place with a 9-2 record while Kansas is second at 8-3. Nebraska has a 4-7 record.

Similar Setting
The setting for tonight's battle is similar to that of three years ago when Bush's quintet handed high-ranking Kansas with Wilt Chamberlain a loss at the Coliseum on a Saturday night.

Two days later Kansas State came to town as the number one ranked team in the nation, but Nebraska stopped the Wildcats in that one, 55-48, as 8,800 fans jammed the Coliseum.

The two upset wins in three days completed one of the greatest stories in Husker sports history. Bush rated the win over Kansas at Lawrence Saturday as being more pleasing than the 1958 conquest.

"It's bigger for me because of the embarrassing road treatment we have always received," Bush said.

Saturday's triumph over the Jayhawks marked two firsts for Nebraska.

"It was the first win for a Husker team in Allen Fieldhouse. The last Nebraska win at Kansas came in the final game played at Hoch Auditorium in 1955. A few days later Kansas basketball was moved to the new Allen Fieldhouse.

It was the first road win for Nebraska since 1959 when the Huskers downed Missouri at Columbia.

The win gives Nebraska two in a row after opening the conference campaign with two straight victories, then losing seven in a row before routing Oklahoma last Monday night at the Coliseum.

The win over Kansas didn't exactly come about according to pre-game strategy. The Huskers used their slow-down game during the first half and went to the dressing room with the score knotted at 23-all.

In the second half Nebraska started to run with Kansas and the Jayhawks built a seven-point lead twice in the second half.

Nebraska's first lead in the second stanza came at 57-56 on a jump shot by Tom Russell with 5:55 left in the game. After Nebraska went ahead by seven, the Jayhawks battled back to within one at 67-66.

Nebraska missed three straight one-and-one situations that would have put the game out of danger for the Huskers. Then Wayne Hightower blew a chance to put Kansas back in the lead when he missed two free throws.

15 Straight

Nebraska hit 15 consecutive free throws at the beginning of the second half to keep pace with the Jayhawks. Both teams connected with 23 shots from the field, but Nebraska hit 23 of 34 free throws to 22 of 28 for Kansas.

Russell led the Husker scoring with 18 points and Jan Wall added 17 to the Nebraska total. Hightower was high for Kansas with 24. Butch Ellison contributed 15 as Bill Bridges was held to one field goal and eight points.

Bush said he plans to start the same lineup tonight against Kansas State that opened against Kansas. This would find Russell and Wall at forwards, Bill Bowers at center, and Al Roots and Rex Swett at the guard posts.

"With this starting lineup

we have some bench strength in Ivan Grupe and Jim Kowalke," the Husker mentor said. Kowalke scored nine points in a relief role against the Jayhawks.

The Kansas State lineup includes a Nebraska native, Al Peithman of Hebron. Peithman has scored the winning bucket in several close games for the Wildcats this year.

Leading the Wildcat team is Ced Price, an all-sports star who hit 28 points in the win over Missouri Saturday night. Price passed up football the past season to concentrate on the cage sport.

Nebraska has dumped one of the leaders. Can they repeat tonight?

Scholarship Deadline March 1

Upperclass students planning to apply for available scholarships should contact Mrs. Wendorff in 111 Administration before Tuesday. Final deadline is March 1.

Students holding Regents scholarships are reminded that these must be renewed, and all holders of continuing scholarships must submit applications for renewal.

All full time students who have completed 24 academic hours at the University and hold a grade average of 5.00 or above are eligible. Applicants are considered for all scholarships for which they qualify.

IFC Ball Assessment Is $2.35

Marterie To Play; Ball is Semi-Formal

The assessment for this year's Interfraternity Council Ball will be $2.35 for each fraternity man and his date, according to IFC public relations chairman Phil Tracy.

The assessment, passed earlier in the year by the IFC, has been a subject of controversy in the past. A Daily Nebraskan poll last fall showed that 19 of the 32 men interviewed were against the assessment, but 24 of the 32 were in favor of having an IFC Ball.

The Ball, which will feature the music of Ralph Marterie and his Marlboro Men, will be from 9 p.m. till 1 a.m. Saturday at Pershing Auditorium.

Girls' hours will be extended till 2:00 and dress for the Ball is semi-formal, according to Tracy.

Marterie, a top-rated band leader has been on the best-seller lists for his Mercury recording of "Wampus" and "Cleopatra's Dream." Among Marteries' many LP album hits are "One Night Stand," "Trumpeter's Lullaby," "Marterie's Mood," "Dancing On The Downbeat," and "Marvelous Marterie."

The Marlboro Men have been described as being "more constantly on tour than any other big-name orchestra in the business." Established as the nation's number one college favorite and as the number one ballroom favorite in polls conducted by Downbeat and Cash Box magazines, respectively, Marterie's music has earned the description "fluid phrasing and solid beat."

IDEAL BELLE, COLLEGIATE

Revealed as the 1961 Ideal Nebraska Coed and the Outstanding Collegiate Man, Gretchen Shellberg and Jim Huges were introduced Friday evening following the Coed Follies presentation of "Belles on Their Toes" at Pershing Auditorium.

Shellberg, Huges Feted; Chi Omega Wins Follies

By Ann Moyer
Coed Follies reached an exciting climax Friday night as Gretchen Shellberg and Jim Huges were revealed as the Ideal Nebraska Coed and the Outstanding Collegiate Man.

Chi Omega's skit, "You Gotta Have a Gimmick," and the Gamma Phi Beta traveler act, "Slap Happy," took top honors in the skit and travelers act competition.

Miss Shellberg, a junior in Arts and Sciences, is a journalism and political science major. She is presently managing editor of the Daily Nebraskan, vice president in charge of publications of Builders, secretary of Delta Gamma sorority and a member of Theta Sigma Phi women's journalism honorary.

Past honors include the Delta Gamma Outstanding Pledge award, Journalism Gold Key recipient and sophomore member of the 1960 Ivy Day Court. Miss Shellberg has held a Regents Scholarship, the Lincoln Journal Scholarship for two years and the Harry T. Dobbins Memorial Scholarship.

Huge, a junior in Teachers College, is a chemistry major. He is a member of the varsity football and basketball teams, chairman of the Interfraternity rush committee, president of Young Democrats, a member of Lincoln Project and assistant pledge trainer of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Huge had the highest average in his fraternity pledge class, was a member of the All Big-Eight Scholastic football team and was a finalist for Eligible Bachelor last year. The selection of the Ideal Nebraska Coed and Outstanding Man was made on the basis of two personal interviews before judges selected by AWS. This is the first year an Outstanding Collegiate Man has been chosen.

Second place in the skit competition went to Gamma Phi Beta and third place honors to Kappa Delta. Other sororities competing included Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Xi Delta and Delta Gamma.

Campus Police Collect $4,000 in Parking Fines Since First Semester

By Jim Forrester

Approximately 5,591 parking violation tickets were issued by the campus police department by the end of the first academic semester, according to Capt. Eugene Masters.

Masters, who has headed the department since 1959, said that over $4,000 in fines was received by the department from Sept. 1, 1960 to January 31, 1961.

"Most of the violations were received by students who had parked their cars in the wrong area, on red and green lines or stalls with expired meters," said Capt. Masters.

Capt. Masters explained that all the money collected on parking violation fines and permit fees has always gone for the maintaining of office help and supplies and upkeep on parking lots and traffic signs.

"Last year," Masters said, "the department collected nearly $11,000 in fines and $7,118 in fees. Out of this fund, the department donated several thousand dollars to help pay for the paving of the south Selleck parking lot."

Masters pointed out that not all of the money is collected for just the minimum charge on ticket violations. Many students let the "painful" task of paying a dollar slip for days and even weeks until they were forced to pay $2 or $4 for each ticket.

"A student came in just this week and paid out $20 for four parking tickets issued throughout the semester," he said. "It is very common for a student to pay $20 or even $30 at a time."

Campus police records show that in November of this year a total of $216 was paid on $2 tickets and $176 on $4 tickets.

'Plenty of Parking'

In answer to the complaint that student often have no other place to park except in an illegal area, Captain Masters said, "We (the University) have plenty of parking."

"It may not be close to campus, but on any day of the week there are upwards to 400 vacant stalls in parking lots off 16th, south of Elgin, at 10th and Vine and in the Avery lot."

The Captain pointed out that the University was improving and expanding their fringe campus parking facilities even now by enlarging present lots and making lots out of vacant University land.

The meter lot east of the Student Union, which was built as an experiment in 1959, has turned out to be the "best" lot on campus for getting tickets.

"Students like to gamble," said Masters. "They pull into a metered stall and not knowing how much time is left would rather gamble a nickel against the chance of being issued a dollar violation ticket."

Students aren't the only ones that have parking problems, he said. The faculty C and B lots are always packed on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

No Problems

The only people at the University that don't seem to have parking problems are the students on Ag Campus.

"Ag campus has no shortage of spaces for parking," said Masters. "One reason is that faculty and employees parking is together in the same lot, thus consolidating a number of lots into one."

A group untouched by the car squeeze on city campus are those students and faculty members who drive bicycles, motorcycles and scooters.

"While required to have a parking permit, cycle owners are restricted to parking in the always vacant triangular spaces at the end of the diagonal parking areas on campus streets," said Captain Masters.

'AND I UH ...'

Explaining just why "You Gotta Have a Gimmick" in the Chi Omega's Coed Follies skit is dancer Nancy Foreman. The Chi O's took top honors in the 9th annual presentation of Coed Follies on Friday evening at Pershing Auditorium.

ROTC Rifle Team Top In U.S.

The highest honor that can go to an Army ROTC rifle team in the United States has been awarded to the University Army ROTC squad after winning first place in national competition.

The five men and their instructor, Sgt. First Class Francis T. Wolcheski, competed with more than 500 colleges, universities and military schools in the nation.

The men fired their way to one of the highest scores ever recorded in the history of the William Randolph Hearst initiated competition with a score of 969 out of a 1,000 possible points. This is the first time NU has ever won this event.

The winning team includes Cadets Marvin Cox, Conley Cleveland, William Holland, Howard McNiff and Thomas Berry.

The young sharpshooters, who as a team receive the coveted National ROTC Rifle Championship trophy, competed with standard targets on a fifty foot range using 22 pound target rifles in the four standard positions of prone, sitting, standing and kneeling.

The rifles used were all .22 calibre Winchesters fitted with standard iron sights.

Second place in the national competition went to the University of West Virginia and third to Kansas State University.

Each of more than 500 teams in the nation competing for the awards fired under the directions of qualified witnesses at their own firing ranges with sealed and registered targets.

Tri-Delt Scholarships

Application for Delta Delta Delta scholarships are due Tuesday.

Those applying should turn in their applications to the Division of Student Affairs or to Margaret Cannell at the Home Economics Department on Ag campus.

Today On Campus

Geology Lecture, Dr. John A. Wilson, 8 p.m., Morrill Hall auditorium.

Mu Epsilon Nu, 12 noon, 414 Administration.

Basketball, Nebraska vs. Kansas State, 8:05 p.m., Coliseum.

Outstanding Pledge Class Will Receive ATO 'Help Week' Trophy

By Dave Wohlfarth

The Alpha Tau Omega "Help Week" trophy will be awarded again this year to a pledge class, other than ATO, which best fulfills the following requirements:

The per cent of the pledge class making their averages, the number of activities the pledges are in, the overall pledge class average and the project done by the pledges during Help Week.

The award to the outstanding fraternity pledge class was initiated to encourage "help" instead of "hell" weeks, according to ATO president Jim Panzer.

Last year's trophy, the first to be presented, was awarded to Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity.

Donated by an alum, O. H. Schellenburg of St. Petersburg, Fla., the four-foot trophy will be awarded later this spring, according to Panzer.

In order to keep the trophy permanently, a fraternity must win it three years in a row.

The board of judges will include two alums of ATO, two faculty representatives and two members of the Interfraternity Council.

Applications should be turned in to either Hal Spurrier, ATO scholarship chairman Steve George, ATO IFC representative, or Panzer.

The ATO's initiated "Help Week" nationally as a "pre-initiation activity which demonstrates, through action, the principle of service to others." The idea was originated by Bob Lollar and the Indiana ATO chapter.
