

Burr-Selleck Quintet Has Beefy Lineup

Five Teams Place Man On Top '5'

Three Gridders Gain Recognition

By Cloyd Clark

The Burr-Selleck all-intramural team boasts beef and a wide representation of Selleck Quadrangle.

Dick Muma, Gus I; Dick Kosier, Avery; Monte Kiffin, Gus II; Lloyd Voss, Hitchcock and Al Olsen, Burnett make up the Burr-Selleck team.

Forward Al Olsen led Burnett to a 10-2 record for the year. Olsen continually scored twenty or more points.

The junior from Deer Park, N.Y. stands 6-2 and weighs 200 pounds.

The New Yorker made the all-county ratings in his home state and led his New York team to the finals of the county tournament.

Olsen played freshmen basketball at Nebraska in 1958-'59 and varsity ball last year.

Kiffin a Center
Burr-Selleck champion Gus II is represented by center Monte Kiffin.

Kiffin was chosen for his scoring and ball-handling ability at the post position.

The 6-3, 230-pound Gus II husky plays football for Nebraska when not hampered by an injured back.

Kiffin was given all-state ranking his sophomore, junior and senior years at Lexington High School.

In 1957 he was instrumental in bringing Lexington to Lincoln for the state tournaments. Kiffin's team was beaten in the finals.

Kiffin is a sophomore in Teachers College majoring in physical education.

Lloyd Voss, all star forward, at 6-3½, played the post position for Hitchcock in this year's intramural endeavors, but is moved to the forward slot for the Daily Nebraskan team.

Hitchcock downed Burnett during the all-University tournament. It also defeated strong Avery in an early tournament game. This win was erased by the Avery squad in later action in the double elimination turney.

Ready For Football
Voss finished his basketball just in time to start working out for spring football.

The tall freshman claims Magnolia, Minn. as his home town. In Minnesota Voss was all-conference for 4 years in high school basketball.

Dick Muma and Dick Kosier fill the guard slots on the Daily Nebraskan's team.

Muma and Kiffin are the only native Nebraskans on the squad.

Other than that they are entirely different. In contrast Muma is the lightest man on the team at 185 and an excellent outside shooter, while Kiffin depends on his under-basket fitness, for points.

Muma led Gus I to the runner-up spot in the all-University Burr-Selleck championships.

Muma Tops Scoring
Muma was at the top of Gus I scoring chart. One time in early tournament play he scored a total of over 90 points in three consecutive games.

Muma is from Chadron and attended defunct Chadron Prep High School.

Last year in freshman athletics, Muma played both baseball and basketball. This year he is on the varsity baseball squad.

The Gus I flash is registered in Teachers College and majors in physical education.

Dick Kosier of Avery fills the other guard spot and completes the Burr-Selleck all-star quintet.

Kosier is the only one of the five who made the Daily Nebraskan all-star team last year.

He sparked Avery to upset Gus I, runner-up in the tournament, early in the double elimination action and was the constant leader of the winning Avery team.

Kosier is a three-letter winner in football and will be eligible to play in the Varsity-Alumni game All-Sports Day as a member of the alumni team.

Sports Signals

By Hal Brown

The end of the basketball season doesn't mean the end of work for Husker cage coach Jerry Bush. In fact, quite the opposite is true.

The end of the season marks the beginning of extensive traveling in search of basketball prospects as the recruiting wars begin in full force. Nebraska's season ended Mar. 4 and three days later Bush was busy scouting high school prospects at the state high school tourney.

This was followed by a trip to Colorado for the same purpose and also a talk before the Nebraska alumni chapter at Denver. The next stop was the national junior college tournament at Hutchinson, Kans.

It was here that Bush landed Tom Russell a year ago and the 6-7 center was the top man on this year's Husker team. He was the team leader in rebounds, total points and field goal percentage. Russell was also named to the all-Big Eight second team.

Upon returning, the Husker mentor was greeted by a large stack of letters from friends in such wide spread places as Montana, New York, and Indiana informing him of basketball prospects in those localities.

This means more traveling and competition with other schools as other coaches also have heard of these outstanding prep stars. One of Bush's next out-of-state journeys will be to Montana and that will be followed by various other trips.

Letters to State Prep Stars

Bush also has written to all the high school prospects in Nebraska whom he is interested in, both seniors and underclassmen and trips to visit many of these boys are also on the agenda for the coming weeks and months.

In addition to the trips for recruiting purposes numerous speaking engagements must be fulfilled. Bush is slated to talk in Fremont tonight at a banquet honoring the state high school champion Tigers.

Today's college coach must be more than a coach, he must also be a recruiter. "To be successful you have to get the ball players. That is the biggest job of coaching today," says Bush. As someone once said, "You can't win the Kentucky Derby with a jackass."

While most other schools have an assistant coach whose main responsibility is recruiting, the burden at Nebraska falls entirely on Bush. As soon as the cage season is over, assistant coach Tony Sharpe must begin working with his baseballers.

At Kansas State Howie Shannon is in charge of much of the recruiting program and at Colorado Don Walker handles a great deal of these duties.

Recruiting can be expensive but in today's athletics it is a necessity and the school that doesn't go out and bid against other schools for top talent soon finds itself at the bottom of the barrel.

What The Coaches Say

In a recent issue of the Sporting News, James Enright polled ten leading officials regarding what coaches say when they yell protests to officials. Some of the choicer comments were:

Jerry Bush, Nebraska: "The way they block, you'd think this was football instead of basketball. Call something to let me know you're out there."

Johnny Jordan, Notre Dame: "That's a helluva good defense they got, hitting my guys on the forearm every time we set for a shot."

Sparky Stalcup, Missouri: "The guy travels every time he gets the ball. Guess he thinks this is a dance floor."

Forddy Anderson, Michigan State: "Give their big guy a saddle and he can ride us in much more comfort."

Johnny Sines, Tennessee: "Better start calling the traveling or somebody will set a new world's record for the mile."

Ray Eddy, Purdue: "They're all over Terry's (Dischinger) back like the plague, and I haven't heard a single whistle yet. What's it going to be: Silent Night?"

Nebraska Gym Team Wins 8th AAU Crown

By Hal Brown

Apparently the only thing that can keep Nebraska's gymnasts from winning the Midwest AAU Gymnastics Championships is snow and there was no snow Saturday to halt the Husker gymnasts.

Coach Jake Geier's gymnasts Saturday won their eighth championship in the nine years since the meet began in 1954. The only year they haven't won was 1959 when the meet was held at Hastings and the Huskers were halted by snow and never competed.

The Husker varsity and freshmen, competing as the Nebraska Gym Club won nine of the ten events in piling up 291½ points to 209½ for runner-up Lincoln Gym Club and 48 for third-place Omaha Sokol Hall.

The Lincoln Gym Club included the top gymnasts from Lincoln high schools and the Omaha Sokol Hall team consisted mainly of gymnasts from Omaha Benson High School.

Husker freshman and former Hastings High School standout Dennis Albers won three events to lead the Nebraska win. He won the free exercise with Nebraska's Charles Williams finishing second.

Albers and Husker Doug Moore finished one-two respectively in rebound tumbling and the former Hastings athlete was first in tumbling. Herb Hanich and Dennis Anstine were double winners for Nebraska with Hanich winning the still rings and flying rings while Anstine was first in all around judging and on the horizontal bar.

The all around is the combined scores from judging in free exercise, side horse, horizontal bar, parallel bars and either the flying or still rings.

The Huskers took the top three places in the side horse event with Gene Hart winning and Albers and Anstine second and third respectively.

Charles Williams gave the Huskers their other first as he and freshman Tom Sitzman gave Nebraska a one-two finish in the rope climb.

Jim Young of the Omaha Sokol Hall team and Jim Howard, a Lincoln Southeast High School student competing for the Lincoln Gym Club, tied for first in the parallel bars, the only event that Nebraska failed to win. Anstine was third.

Sophs Will Carry NU Tennis Hopes

With only two lettermen returning from last year's team Nebraska tennis hopes will be pinned on sophomores as the Huskers try to move out of the Big Eight basement.

Jack Craft, who has not reported yet, and Tom Johnson are the only veterans on the roster issued by coach Ed Higginbotham. The 1960 team finished eighth in the Big Eight championships and failed to score a point.

The Huskers will open the season Mar. 27 at Tulsa on the opening leg of the traditional southern trip that will find them playing five consecutive days.

After the Tulsa match Nebraska will meet Oklahoma Baptist, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Wichita. The home season will begin April 7 with the Air Force Academy invading the Husker courts.

"We will be playing with three or four sophomores in the lineup most of the time with one junior and one senior," Higginbotham said. "We are going to play one match at a time and not worry much about the record. But I think we are going to win some matches."

"It all depends on how our sophomores perform. We will be a little stronger when Craft joins the squad. I look for Dave Wohlfarth, Tom Johnson and Jack Lausterer to be our mainstays."

Higginbotham, as he begins his 11th year as tennis coach, lists Wohlfarth, Lausterer and Johnson as cinch starters with the other starting roles up for grabs.
