

Art Show Displays Work of Forty

By Janet Sack
Yesterday a collection of 122 works of paintings and sculpture by 40 artists went on display in the 71st Annual Nebraska Art Association show.

The show will continue through April 16 on the second and third floors of Morrill Hall. Gallery hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. daily, 2-5 p.m. on Sundays, and from 7-10 p.m. on Tuesday evenings.

The contributing artists are from all parts of the United States with five British artists included. Most of the artists are represented by at least three items.

By displaying a group of works, the viewer can gain an insight into some of the personality of the artist, the ways in which he changes from one work to another, and how he works, said Norman Geske, director of the University Art Galleries.

Contemporary
Of the 40 artists, 10 of them are of mature years and of considerable reputation, said Geske, but most of the pieces are the works of the younger generation of contemporary artists of today.

Of special interest are the three new paintings bought through the Thomas C. Woods

Fund for the Nebraska Art Association. These paintings will become a permanent part of the University's display.

Another painting was donated to the University by an anonymous person. The gift of the anonymous donor is an oil entitled "The Sleepers" by Rosemarie Beck.

The three new paintings bought by the Nebraska Art Association are "Khaeo" an oil by James Brooks; "20 November 1959" an oil by Conrad Marcaroli; and "Yellow Band, 1956" an oil by Mark Rothko.

NU Grad
Also of special interest will be four paintings on display by Carol Haerer, a University graduate. Miss Haerer's paintings are "Red Painting," "Grain of Summer," "Do Not So Gentle," and "Restraining and Shining."

"The Yellow Band, 1956" will probably be the most controversial of the paintings on display, said Geske.

Rothko's style is highly original and characterized by large rectangles of color floating in undefined space. Those characteristics have made him a highly controversial artist. His works show no direct reflection of the past as he is largely self-taught.

Rothko was one of four artists selected for the U.S. Representation at the XXIX Biennale, Venice, in 1958.

Wood Sculpture
In addition to paintings the show contains an unusually large number of wood sculpture and iron and steel sculpture. One of the most outstanding wood sculptures on display is a gilded wood panel by Louise Nevelson entitled "Royal Tide."

Most of the paintings and sculptures are from displays in New York City with some coming from private collections, and one from Joselyn in Omaha.

The Nebraska Art Association show is one of the oldest annual contemporary art exhibitions in the country. The gallery's permanent art exhibitions has been put into storage and the whole gallery, both second and third floors, are devoted to the exhibition.

On March 22, April 5, and April 12 a coffee and comment hour will be held from 11-12 a.m. On March 29 the coffee and comment hour will be held from 3-4 p.m.

Dorothy Adlow, art critic for the Christian Science Monitor, will speak during the last week end of the show.

STRONG SERENITY

This 35 1/2 inch high steel work of art is one of 122 exhibits at the Nebraska Art Association show. Titled "Soliloquy #2" by creator Joseph Konzal, the cool, strong serenity represented typifies the bold aesthetic contemporary strain of the annual exhibit.

NU 'Backyard Farmer' Plans Ninth TV Season

The University's "Backyard Farmer" television show will begin its ninth season as a regular feature on station KUON-TV, channel 12, on Monday nights from 8-9 p.m.

The "Backyard Farmer" will also be televised by station KOLN-TV, channel 10, Lincoln, starting April 4 from 9:30-10 a.m. on Tuesday.

Viewers in the Lincoln area will get a chance to phone in their lawn and garden questions and get the answers from a panel of College of Agriculture faculty members during each show.

Persons living outside Lincoln are encouraged to mail their questions to the television stations in care of the "Backyard Farmer," according to Dwain Trenkle, who shows master of ceremonies for the fifth year.

A total of 5,123 telephone calls, 391 letters and 1,402 requests for bulletins offered on the show were received by both stations during the 1960 season, said Trenkle.

The panel of Ag faculty members include Dr. John Weibing, plant pathology; John Furrer, agronomy; Wayne Whitney, horticulture and Robert Roselle, entomology.

Also on the panel will be personnel from the Lancaster County Extension Service and George Round, extension editor at the Ag College.

NU Students Visit Detroit Drug Firm

Approximately 20 University students from the College of Pharmacy visited the Parke, Davis & Company pharmaceutical firm in Detroit on March 17. The tour included an inspection of the firm's research facilities, where research extends into important fields of medicine and pharmacy.

Farmhouse Group Wins Talent Show

The Ag Union Talent Show's first place trophy was awarded to the Farmhouse quartet Sunday night.

Singing before an estimated 200 persons, the Farmhouse quartet was composed of William Ahlschwede, Leroy Svec, Doug Downs and Ron Meinke.

Second and third place trophies were awarded to the Love Hall musical skit and a vocal solo by Carol Crawford, respectively.

The Love Hall skit was performed by Karen Glenn and Ann Gruett in a singing and dancing routine. They were accompanied by Sharon Swanson on the piano.

The judges for the talent show, which was sponsored by the Ag Union's hospitality committee, included Mary Jean Mulvaney of the women's physical education department; John Morgan, professor of music; and Dr. James Horner, assistant professor of vocational education.

The show's master of ceremonies was Archie Clegg.

Other acts in the talent show included a trumpet solo and duet, two piano solos, a sextet, a monologue, a pantomime and a reading.

KK Show Tickets Sales 'Going Fast'

Ticket sales for the Kosmet Klub's spring production, "Damm Yankees," are going fast, according to John Schroeder, KK publicity chairman.

Almost 1,200 general admission and reserved tickets were sold during the three day drive this week in the Student Union, he said.

The spring show is set for April 15 at 8:15 p.m. at Pershing Auditorium. Last year approximately 3,500 people attended the two night showing of "Pajamma Game," he added.

Tickets can now be purchased from KK workers or at Pershing Auditorium. "The workers carry general admission tickets with them at all times and some of these tickets are very good," said Schroeder.

The $2 reserve tickets and the $1.50 general admission tickets can be purchased up until April 15, unless there is a sellout, he reported.

Annie Rests Her Case With Frosh Moot Court

Annie Goldfine moved to Lincoln on August 1, 1959 to attend the University.

She obtained an apartment and told the landlady that she had been moving from state to state over her lifetime but that she now expected to make Lincoln her home. She enrolled in the University in September of 1959 and paid non-resident tuition.

Annie obtained a full-time job as bookkeeper at a local cafe, and through these earnings, was self supporting with the possible exception of an Alger Hiss scholarship which she received for a paper submitted on "America and What It Means to Me".

Annie voted in a special election, paid personal property taxes in Nebraska, and obtained a Nebraska driver's license.

On October 1, 1960, after being notified by the Board of Regents that she must pay out-of-state tuition, she brought suit to refrain the University from charging the additional sum included in that tuition.

The preceding is a typical case situation which freshman law students will contest and defend in the freshman Moot Court proceedings now under way and running until March 22.

Sixty students will comprise 30 teams battling the moot proceedings.

In each case one team will constitute the appellee, and another the appellant.

Chile University Sends Thank You

The All University Fund (AUF) recently received the following letter from Dr. Eduardo Morales Miranda, rector and president of the University of Chile:

Dear Sir:
I acknowledge receipt of your letter of November 3, in which you enclosed a check for the amount of $100 to help our University.

In the name of the Council and of the Board of Trustees and in my own, I beg you to accept our sincere expressions of gratefulness for this gift, which is a great help to us and a new proof of the traditional American generosity and friendly feelings towards South America.

Last year the AUF sent money to Chile as one of several worthwhile and needy projects.

One of the best investments you'll ever make...

You know what you invest in advanced ROTC ... two years of classroom time and outside study.

But just see how handsomely your investment pays off.

First and foremost, there's the proud moment in Graduation Week when the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant are pinned on your Army uniform. ... and deep inside the warm sense of accomplishment at having made it.

There's immediate help in meeting expenses ... a subsistence allowance of $535 for the two-year advanced ROTC course. Uniforms and military textbooks paid for. $117 for your six-week summer camp training, plus travel allowance. And when you're commissioned, a $330 uniform allowance.

You discharge your military obligation with the traditional rank, pay, privileges and responsibilities of an officer in the United States Army.

And later, when you're starting your climb up the civilian ladder, advanced ROTC will still be paying off. Success in the executive areas of business and industry comes earlier and more substantially to the man who can lead. Few are born leaders; but leadership can be learned. And advanced ROTC is a great place to learn it.

Talk with the Professor of Military Science at your school. Learn more about advanced ROTC. Ask particularly about the ROTC course in Leadership, with its practical experience in command responsibilities.
