

Tight Defense Aids NU Wins; Collapses and Huskers Lose

By Hal Brown
Tight pitching and defense gave the Huskers a doubleheader victory over Iowa State Friday, but lack of defense cost Nebraska a sweep of the series as the Cyclones salvaged the final game Saturday.

The Huskers played errorless ball in both games Friday as Nebraska won by 3-0 and 4-2 scores. Six Nebraska errors aided Iowa State's 7-4 win in the final game of the series.

The two wins were the first in the Big Eight race for the Huskers and Iowa State's win was also its first in the conference. Nebraska is now 2-6 in the league and 4-9 overall while the Cyclones are 1-4 in the Big Eight and 3-5 for the season.

Nebraska outlast Iowa State in the three games, 22-18, to raise the team batting average from .194 to .209. Jerry Harris collected six hits in 10 at bats to boost his average from .242 to .326.

Sophomore Righthander Ernie Bonistall set the Cyclones down on four hits in winning the first game of the doubleheader, 3-0. He was never in serious trouble as he faced only 23 batters—two over the minimum.

Double Plays Help
Two double plays helped Bonistall in the fifth and sixth innings.

Nebraska scored once in the second when Dick Becher led off with a single, moved to third on Bill Redmond's single and scored on a fielder's choice.

The Huskers added two more in the third when Dave McClatchy doubled with one out and scored on a single by Harris. Harris went to second on a passed ball and Becher's triple drove him home.

A potential Iowa State run was erased by some heads-up play on the part of Husker shortstop Rex Sweet. Bob Bateman hit what looked like a triple in the third inning, but failed to touch second.

Sweet called for the ball, stepped on second and appealed to Umpire Leo Yrkoski. Bateman was called out and received credit only for a single.

Nebraska wasted little time in giving starting hurler Ron Havekost a 2-0 lead in the nightcap as McClatchy led off the first inning with a walk, went to second when a pick-off try got by first baseman Ralph Staudte and scored on a single by Harris.

Becher's single moved Harris to second and the Husker senior scored on a double by Redmond.

Wild Pitch Aids NU
The Huskers added another run in the fifth on a single by Dave Myers, a sacrifice by Havekost, a ground out and a wild pitch by Cyclone hurler Dennis Hagen.

One more run crossed the plate when Harris led off the sixth with a double, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on a grounder by Redmond.

Havekost was moving along with little difficulty through the first six innings, facing only 19 batters. But the Husker sophomore ran into trouble in the seventh and was relieved by Jan Wall.

Gary Ellis doubled off Havekost to start the seventh. After Gary Everist was retired on a grounder, Larry Van Der Heyden doubled, sending Ellis home and Havekost to the showers.

Wall was greeted with a run-scoring single by pinch-hitter Nick Bruno, but the tall righthander got pinch-hitter Thad Bechtelheimer to hit into a double play ending the game.

Havekost didn't allow a walk and struck out five in his 6 1-3 innings of work. He received credit for the win, giving him a 1-1 record.

Defense Collapses
Nebraska's defense, superb in the first two games, came apart at the seams in Saturday's contest as only two of the seven Iowa State runs were earned.

Three unearned runs crossed the plate in the eighth inning as Nebraska committed four errors in that frame. The three runs proved to be the difference in the game as the Huskers rallied for three in the bottom of the ninth.

Ellis led off the disastrous eighth when he was safe on an error by Sweet. He moved to third on an error by Becher as Everist was safe at first. Van Der Heyden then doubled Ellis home with Everist stopping at third.

An error by Jan Wall—the third of four Husker pitchers—gave Bruno a life at first and loaded the bases. Mike Marienau followed with a single, scoring Everist and leaving the bases loaded.

After Staudte flied out, Clair Rierson singled to center, scoring Van Der Heyden with the seventh Cyclone run of the game. When Bruno tried to score on the same hit, McClatchy rifled the ball to Myers, who blocked the plate perfectly to retire the hard-charging Bruno.

Late Rally
Nebraska last-inning rally started with a single by Dale Anderson. Anderson went to second on a single by Don Schindel and scored when McClatchy was safe on a two-base error by Cyclone second baseman Bateman.

Sweet's double drove Schindel and McClatchy home and Wes Weber relieved starter Ron Walters. Weber hit Harris on the helmet and walked Havekost to load the bases.

Redmond drove right fielder Nick Bruno nearly to the wall with a long fly to end the game.

Iowa State took its early lead with four in the first on an error by starter Ed Johnson, two stolen bases, a wild pitch, and a passed ball, another error and three singles. Johnson faced only four men and failed to get a hitter out before Tom Ernst took over.

Ernst pitched five innings, allowed no runs and only three scattered hits.

Lone Run Scores
Nebraska scored a lone run in its half of the first on a double by McClatchy and a single by Sweet.

The Huskers will be on the road for the next two week ends, traveling to Colorado Friday and Saturday and to Kansas the next week end. The next home series will be May 12-13 against Oklahoma.

Clair Rierson singled to center, scoring Van Der Heyden with the seventh Cyclone run of the game. When Bruno tried to score on the same hit, McClatchy rifled the ball to Myers, who blocked the plate perfectly to retire the hard-charging Bruno.

Passers Sparkle In Husker Drill

The passing of Nebraska quarterbacks and the powerful running of Thunder Thornton highlighted the Nebraska Cornhuskers' second full-scrimmage of the spring football sessions Saturday.

The passers had some special tutoring prior to the scrimmage by Johnny Unitas, quarterback of the Baltimore Colts.

Mr. Quarterback of pro football spent an hour working with Husker passers Dennis Claridge, John Faiman, Ron Meade and Jim Little.

Claridge and Meade later directed the Reds to a 24-14 win over the Whites in the 90 minute scrimmage. Faiman and Little directed the White attack.

The top thrills of the day for the 300 spectators were provided by Thunder Thornton, the Husker's hard-hitting halfback.

Thunder Scores
The Toledo bulldozer, who weighs 202 pounds (17 pounds heavier than last year), combined his power and speed for touchdown runs of 10 and 65 yards.

Thornton's final sprint of the day, his 65-yard TD jaunt, was the final score for the Reds. This run was also the longest run by a Husker back in the two-week spring drills.

The Husker passers threw 26 times and connected on 14 of them. Claridge hit 4 for 10, Meade and Faiman each completed 5 of 6 and Little was unsuccessful on 4 attempts.

Claridge, sophomore signal-caller from Robbinsdale, Minn., combined with sophomore Willie Ross on the long-scoring pass play of the day, 49 yards, for the Reds first score. Claridge added the other Red score on a sneak.

The Whites had scored first when Faiman hit Jim Huger, veteran Holdrege flanker, for a 15-yard TD.

Faiman Tallies
Faiman added the second White score on a wedge after Larry Tomlinson had taken a pass for 35 and halfback Pat Clare had sprinted 14 to the one.

The White defensive line was aggressive early. They forced Claridge to fumble a pass play and caught Ron

Golfers Split In 2 Meets

Husker golfers split two week end matches, winning from Omaha University and losing to the Oklahoma State team.

Bud Williamson and Ed Tabor both shot 74's to tie for medalist honors and spark the Huskers 12 1/2-2 1/2 winning performance.

The Husker linksters won every match except one. Omaha's Dick Socha was 3 strokes below Jerry Overgaard's 79 to score the Omaha points on the Hillcrest Country Club course Friday.

Oklahoma State Cowboys defeated the Husker team 9 1/2-2 1/2 in Saturday's Hillcrest action.

The Oklahoma State team won every match except one and that one ended in a tie between Dave McConahay of Nebraska and Cotton Dunn of Oklahoma State. Both players shot a 76.

The Husker golfers will play their next match Friday against Oklahoma University on the Hillcrest Country Club course.

Ag Execs To Judge Displays

The Ag Exec Board is again sponsoring a display contest for Ag College clubs and organizations in conjunction with Nebraska Intercollegiate Championship Rodeo May 13.

The three top displays will receive rewards, according to Ag Exec Representative Bob Mason. The displays will be judged on a point system as follows: promotion of Ag campus, 30 points; originality, 30 points; and neatness, 15 points.

The purpose of the display contest is to promote Ag College, departments and clubs, Mason said.

The Exec Board representative, who is in charge of publicity for the contest, said that the display contest was continued again this year because the Board felt that last year's contest was "very beneficial and certainly fulfilled its purpose."

Judges for the contest will be John Ohr, Ag College extensionist; Mrs. Barbara Logging, professor of home economics; and Shirley Marsh of the department of information. Judging will be May 9 and awards will be presented at the rodeo performance May 13.
