Council Extends Filing Deadline

Student Council contenders numbered 51, an increase of three over last year, as of the filing deadline Saturday noon. However, according to Don Epp, chairman of the elections committee, filing deadlines for all colleges will be extended until 5 p.m. Wednesday. He added that additional filings were needed particularly in the Dentistry college and the Engineering college.

Epp pointed out that it is necessary that double the number of representatives per college must file for the election or the college automatically forfeits a representative.

Engineering college is allotted three representatives which would require six persons running for the positions. To date, only five incumbents have filed. Dentistry college is allowed one Council representative thus requiring two files. At noon Saturday only one person had filed from the Dent College.

Campaign Rules

The campaign rules for the election as amended recently by the Council have been made available to the candidates. Epp reported. The rules state:

1. Posters, 3 1/2 by 11 inches or smaller, may be used on University bulletin boards except those in the Student Union where posters 22 by 24 inches or smaller may be used. All posters must be stamped by the registrar.

2. Use of loud speakers on automobiles is prohibited.

3. Newspaper publicity must be approved by the Student Council elections committee.

4. There will be no campaigning within 15 yards of a polling place on election day. A polling place is any building in which a poll is located. (City and Ag Unions, Love Library.)

5. All posters must be removed from bulletin boards, telephone poles, etc. by noon the day following the election.

6. Election complaints or requests to invalidate an election must be filed in writing with the first vice-president of the Council (John Hoerner) within 24 hours of the announcement of the election results in the Daily Nebraskan.

7. Violation of these rules may be grounds for disqualifying a candidate. In conjunction with rule three the Council elections committee has approved a 'Council Candidate' series which will appear in the Daily Nebraskan next week. The series is designed to inform campus voters of the ideas and purposes of the candidates as well as afford candidates the chance to express their views publicly.

AF-ROTC Rates Junior Officers

The Air Force ROTC has begun a program this week for the preparation of junior cadet officers to assume command of the cadet wing.

The junior cadets have been assigned temporary positions and are being advised by senior cadets who have held the position. They are attending all staff meetings and are being briefed on the jobs in the areas they will handle next year.

The cadets will be rated during this training period to determine their positions to be assigned before the change of command parade May 11.

UP IN ARMS

Looking as gallant as a knight upon his mount, these two members of Delta Upsilon, Curtis Harper (top) and Dennis Doyle practice for the Spring Day "jousting contest." The event will be held for the first time this year, and the object of the contest is to dislodge the opponent's rider.

Spring Day Frivolity Ends With Barbeque

The All University Spring Day, to be held May 5, will top its afternoon activities with a barbeque luncheon at 4 p.m. sponsored by Alpha Zeta, Ag honorary.

The fact that Spring Day will be held on Ag campus this year has made it possible to add several events such as a cow milking contest, an obstacle race, and a roller skating relay, all for women.

In the roller skating relay each member of a five member team will take her turn skating around the Ag Campus Mall. The first team to finish will be the winner.

The jousting contest is a new event for men. Teams will consist of two men, one riding on the other's shoulders. The object of the contest is to either dismount one's opponents or drive them out of the three foot lane in two out of three matches. A bicycle obstacle race will also be added this year.

Couples will compete in the two mystery events. Those participating in the P & B contest must bring their own acoustical noise makers.

Organized houses, dorms, and co-ops will take part in the traditional spring event.

Professor Heads English Council

Dudley Bailey, associate professor of English and director of the freshman English program, was named the new president of the Nebraska Council of Teachers of English at the 1961 meeting in Omaha.

The 1962 conference of the organization will be held here at the University. Gene Hardy, assistant professor, is the new secretary and Paul Olson is the chairman of a committee working on the articulation of the English program from elementary levels through college levels.

Seedlings Initiate Campus Foliage

Long before there was such a thing as Arbor Day, more than 90 years ago, a small group of young men at the University, spurred on by the barren prairie that surrounded them, planted a few burr oak and American elm seedlings.

Two of them still stand this Arbor Day and around them thousands of other trees.

While no one will say just how many kinds or species of trees or shrubs exist on the campuses of the University, there is general agreement that one would have to travel many miles to find such a wide variety in such a small space.

Landscape architect at the University, Chester B. Billings, has a tentative list which includes more than 125 recognizable species.

Number of Species
"I doubt if anybody here could tell you the exact number of species, or the exact number of trees without a whole of an effort," Billings explained.

There are very rare trees such as the Kentucky Coffeetree and with such exotic names as the Goldreintree, the Maidenhairtree, the Peking Cotoneaster and the Chinese Pagodatree.

Planted on the University campus are species of trees which have not changed in form for millions of years. An example is the Ginkgo, the heritage of which can be traced by scientists back through millions of years of prehistoric time. The leaves of the Ginkgo today are almost exactly

Professors Will Hold Discussion

AAUP To Sponsor Education Talks

"The Ingredients of Higher Education" will be the main topic at a public symposium at 3:30 p.m. today at Love Library Auditorium presented by the University chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

This will be the first of several symposiums offered to the students and the public by the AAUP.

The symposiums are designed to relate the services of higher education to the public and to discuss the propagation of further education in the light of increased emphasis on higher education.

According to Prof. Robert L. Chasson, chairman of the department of physics, it is hoped that this symposium will create a greater interest in higher education among the students and the public. The next symposium will be held in the fall.

Speaking today will be Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings, chairman of the Unimacera's budget committee and political scientists, presenting "The Framework of Higher Education," Dr. Charles Patterson, chairman of the University's department of philosophy, speaking on the subject — "The Aims of the Higher Education," and Dr. Vance D. ## Sinfonia Presents Jazz Portrayal

Phi Mu Alpha, Sinfonia, music honorary, will present its Annual Jazz concert Wednesday, May 3, at 8 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

"Portraits in Jazz" will be the theme with Susan Davenport, vocalist audition winner, singing. The jazz-lab band, an 18 piece band, will provide the music.

According to Jim Herbert, chairman of the Sinfonia committee, this will be a rare opportunity to hear a dance band this big and this talented. This band puts the University with the other leading schools in the jazz field. Some of the members have played in Warren Covington's band, Russ Carlyle's band and other big name groups.

The band, conducted by John Mills, will provide a two hour show in "modern idiom." The goal of the band is to raise the level and quality of good music in this area.

Tickets for the program will be one dollar per person. The money will be used for music scholarships.
