Remember Promises; Students Won't Forget

Now that all of the new Student Council members are settling back in the glow of their new found positions...

To the Greek-orientated Council members a reminder of the promises made by the IFC-backed candidates Monday.

To the independent-orientated Council members a reminder of the promises made by the S.C.B.C.-backed candidates: to complete the paving of the Selleck lot...

These were the promises that you, as candidates made, and that you as new members will have to fulfill.

It is suggested in addition to the above promises that each and every member of the Student Council take it upon himself to read the Glenn report to the Legislature on the University.

Concern Shown In KFMQ Cutback

Music on high fidelity FM radio from KFMQ is the most painless way possible to acquire culture. University students need this service which our community can provide.

Mrs. Howard R. Walters Editor's note: The Daily Nebraskan has been asked to help out in this cause. It has been printed out through station manager, Herbert Burton and by several students on the campus...

al debates and this spring's coverage of the speech by Justice Douglas, are just two examples of outstanding public service.

Bob Prokop Is Real

To the editor: Who is this Bob Prokop, or Perkup, or Prokofieff (I do not remember the name exactly) who keeps sending these prolix missives to the Rag?

Inside View

By Phil Boroff "The Absent Minded Professor," a Buena Vista release of a Walt Disney production starring Fred MacMurray, Nancy Olson, Keenan Wynn, Tommy Kirk and Ed Wynn.

In the tradition of 1959's "The Shaggy Dog," Walt Disney again presents a nonsensical comedy. It makes no pretense about being an outstanding movie because it isn't.

"Flubber" has the quality of anti-gravity. A ball of the substance gains more bounce to bounce instead of diminishing bounces back to earth.

college's basketball team, and they then outjump and outscore their tall opponents. He puts 'flubber' in the engine of his broken-down Model T and goes flying through the sky.

MacMurray, the father in "The Shaggy Dog," is the professor, and gives his customary dependable, entertaining performance. He is a seasoned film comic—the Jack Lemmon of the 1940's retaining all his comic ability.

Special effects add greatly to the film's entertaining qualities. The Model T flies gracefully through the air, the 'flubber' bounces everywhere (especially with Keenan Wynn.) It's fun.

Conscience of a Liberal nucleus of advertisers, the station has had difficulty in attracting the necessary extra advertisers to maintain its expanding functions and its desired quality.

The idea of a FM grew into a great actuality right here in the middle of the uncluttered Midwest, bringing into the area hours of pleasurable and informative listening.

The answer? KFMQ has this to say: Write to the station KFMQ, 1025 Terminal Building, Lincoln, for a list of sponsors. Then, if you are a sympathizer with Classical music and the general quality of the programming of KFMQ, write or phone to the present advertiser to thank them for their support of the station's efforts.

users, whose names do not appear on this list, tell of KFMQ's problem and encourage them to support the station.

We at the University do not know whether this is the answer, and we do not have a ready-made one to offer. But it is shaming to the advertisers and to the community when a proven advantage to the area has to be partially curtailed because adequate financial support is not forthcoming.

This is, again, a shame. But you judge that for yourself from KFMQ's record and activities.

First successful FM radio station in Lincoln and Nebraska

First radio station in area to bring listeners stereophonic broadcasts

First radio station in Nebraska to present gubernatorial candidates in public debates

First radio station in area to take stand on political candidates

One of two stations in United States in international competition for the Italia Prize held in Sorrento, Italy, for the best original radio program with original music.

Only station to record the speech of Justice Douglas and to rebroadcast it three times upon requests of listeners

Just to name a few.

Theta Sigma Phi Initiates Freshman Cub Chapter

Theta Sigma Phi, professional organization of junior and senior women in journalism, has established a cub group for underclassmen.

This new group is for freshman and sophomore women interested in journalism. Members do not have to be journalism majors and anyone who is interested is invited to attend said Mary Lou Reese, Theta Sig president.

Although the cub group will function under Theta Sig constitution, the regulations for membership do not hold. There are no specific requirements for membership, she said.

The University is one of the many colleges in the nation which has formed an organization of this kind in conjunction with Theta Sigma Phi.

The cub group has several purposes: one of which is to be of service to incoming freshmen women who show an interest in journalism. It is to encourage an interest in journalism as well as to give the underclass majors a chance to become better acquainted with their field and the people in it.

Theta Sig cubs are responsible for one major project. One idea being looked into is the writing of a monthly newspaper for the Veteran's Hospital. In the past the hospital has had a paper and still has the printing equipment. However, they have no writers. This is where the cubs will participate.
