—Meeting Tentative—

Big 8 Council Heads May Gather at NU

By Tom Kotouc
Some 50 members and delegates to the Big Eight Student Government Association may meet at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education during Christmas vacation.

Reporting to the Student Council Wednesday was Chairman of the Special Big 8 Convocation Committee, Sukey Tinan, who said a decision is forthcoming from the Association's president as to whether or not he will allow a constitutional violation to allow the Lincoln meeting.

★ ★ ★ Council Position Still Open

The deadline for receipt of letters of application to fill the vacancy of a Teacher's College representative on Student Council has been extended to noon Monday, Oct. 2.

Chairman of the nominations committee, Al Plummer, announced at Wednesday's Council meeting that letters of application are to be submitted to him at Phi Delta Theta by this deadline.

The time for interviews has been postponed to 4:00 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 4, 1961 to be held by the members at the regular Student Council meeting.

Students applying for the position on the Council must be sophomores or juniors in Teacher's College with a 5.0 overall average. Both men and women are eligible.

Letters of application must include the following information: name, address, last semester's average, overall average, why you would like to be on the Council, what ideas you have for the Council for the coming year, what criticisms you or you have of the Council, what qualifications you have that make you eligible to serve on the Council and other pertinent information.

Council May Give NIA Vote Status

The Student Council took steps Wednesday to add another organizational representative to the Council, according to President Steve Gage.

At the meeting he said that "action was being taken to give voting status to the Nebraska International Association."

Construction Resumes On Campus

Construction work resumed this week at the Sheldon Art Gallery and on the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house.

According to Ed Reglin, job superintendent for Olson Construction Co., the strike has not been settled yet, but the men came back to work because they thought it was "just" to do so.

Some 15 met at the Sheldon site are now pouring and forming walls, pouring floors and placing c. bars in the walls, Reglin said.

All the craftsmen came back except the iron workers, but work in that area is going on with other help, he said.

Reglin said the causes of the strike were a demand for an increase in hourly wages and because the men want the local kept in Omaha and the contractors want it moved to Lincoln.

At the construction site at the Gamma Phi house, foreman Bud Baete of American Construction said five men plus himself were now on the job.

The layoff at that job was about four weeks. Work on the roof is expected to begin today and the masonry work is also expected to be finished today.

Baete said it would not be too much longer before the building will be closed up.

IFC Considers Co-op Plan

By Bob Nye
"We can save each house here from $500 to $1,000 a year."

With this statement, John Nolon, executive secretary for the Interfraternity Council (IFC) introduced a report proposing the adoption of The Fraternity Management Association.

Nolon, who compiled and edited the report, stated in his opening remarks that "at present the fraternal organizations at Nebraska are not taking advantage of a method of financial operation proven successful at many other colleges."

The main purpose of the Fraternity Management Association (FMA) as stated in the Articles of Incorporation is: "... to provide facilities and personnel through which the member societies can purchase food, supplies, fuel, furniture, equipment and services in order to secure the benefits accruing from cooperative action."

Purchasing Agent
The FMA will function as a centralized purchasing association which would act as the bargaining agent for its members, arranging for the purchase of commissary and household needs at prices and discounts not possible to individual members.

The FMA would function as a non-profit organization and as such would be incorporated under the laws of the State of Nebraska; it would be owned and operated by the men's and women's fraternities at the University.

The IFC's role in the FMA would be that of taking the separate organization by providing funds and research facilities necessary for construction of the basic organization.

The structure of the FMA as given in a sample constitution contained in the report stated that membership is available to any fraternity, sorority, or cooperative club officially recognized by the Board of Trustees of the FMA.

FMA Policy
The policy of the FMA will be determined at an annual meeting of representatives from every member organization. A Board of Trustees is then elected by the convention and will serve in carrying out the corporate powers, property and affairs of the association subject to the constitution and by-laws of the FMA.

A manager, employed by the Board of Trustees, will carry out the business of the Association and shall direct the activities of the Association's employees. The expenses incurred by the management will be paid for by a service charge determined by the Association. The excess of service charges collected over the members on an equitable basis will be distributed to basis.

In operation, the FMA Board of Trustees will ask for bids on various items such as canned goods, meat, and milk from all distributors willing to compete. The company or companies selected on the basis of price, reputation, and quality of goods and service will then be contracted to furnish the members with stipulated goods.

Other Programs
Over 15 universities and colleges have a similar organization, some of which have been operating since the 1930's. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania State, and the universities of Minnesota, California, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Oregon are a few of the universities which have operated a similar organization with success.

The University of Massachusetts, whose association has operated for only a year, was cited as an example. Massachusetts' net saving during the first semester of operation totaled $6,884. This represented an average yearly saving of nearly $1,000 for each member fraternity.

A few of the items purchased under Massachusetts' association showed the following savings: milk, 25%; bread, 12 1/4%; laundry, 25%; kitchen gas, 32%; equipment, 20%.

Other universities reported similar savings with Ohio State saving 18% on canned goods, 36% on laundry, and 55% on rug and upholstery cleaning.

In the report, Nolon stated that with the Universities he contacted the net savings per house is between $800 and $1,500 per year.

Benefit to Suppliers
As stated in the report, the program provides further advantages by benefiting the suppliers. The continuing quantity of orders received through such a program gives them a stable business. This stability, is another reason for the large discounts which the program commands.

The report continued: "The name 'Fraternity Management Association' connotes much more than a purchasing association. For example, several services that could be provided through the FMA are:

1. A uniform accounting system designed to accurately classify and distribute income and expense. (A) Yearly budget forecast, prorated on a monthly basis. (B) A form to compare actual expense with budgeted amounts, on a monthly and cumulative basis.

2. Assistance in all above budgeting and accounting procedures. Completion of, or assistance with, Social Security or other tax reports.

3. A file of housemother and cooks, plus providing assistance in hiring personnel.

4. Conferences between stewards and other interested parties for exchange of ideas, menus, etc. Giving assistance in all phases of fraternity management and training new stewards and treasurers.

5. Centralized purchasing makes possible a minimum of accounting with each transaction.

6. Keeping a written financial history on file at the disposal of national officers and alumni.

7. Making available recipes and menus for all occasions."

Mr. E. C. Dewey, President of the Interfraternity Board of Control stated that "This program certainly has great possibilities, 'however it will take more study by all concerned."

Next week the IFC will vote on a resolution proposing the adoption of the FMA and appropriation of the necessary funds to fly an expert on management here to set up the basic operation.

—3,600 Bandsmen on Field—

Mass Color, Music, Sound Is '61 Band Day Pageant

An inspiring mass of color, motion and sound is created by the annual University pageant that is Band Day.

This Saturday, University Band Day will bring 68 high school bands from throughout the state to Lincoln to participate in this 25th annual tradition. More than 3,600 high school bandsmen plus the University band will be coordinated into a significant theme by Prof. Donald Lentz, director of the University of Nebraska bands.

Prof. Lentz took part in the original Band Day Festival in 1934. He will be assisted by Jack Snider, Wesley Reist, and the University band fraternity, Gamma Lambda.

The idea for Band Day was formed in 1934 by John Selleck, former chancellor of the University, and at that time business manager of the athletic department.

15 Bands in '61
Selleck invited 15 community bands to participate and 11 attended. During World War II the number of bands taking part had grown to 30 and since that time the number has grown to 68.

The rapid growth of the event made it necessary to invite each band only once every three years.

The colorful assembly will spell out America as the combined bands play "America the Beautiful" and as the baton twirlers spell out "1776." The bands will then spell out "U.S.A." as they play the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Band programs throughout the state are furthered by Band Day as many bands choose this time to unveil various innovations and all practice particularly hard for the event.

Early Hour Trips
An indication of the honor it is to participate in Band Day is the fact that many bands from western Nebraska cities start in the early morning hours in order to arrive in Lincoln in time for the downtown parade at 9:15 a.m. The band route this year will be from Memorial Stadium south on 10th Street to O; east to 14th; north to R; west to 12th; and then north to the Stadium.

The University Band and Huskerettes will direct the high school band members in rehearsing. Snack lunches are provided for the bandsmen by the Downtown Lincoln Association and will be served by University Builders. The University television station will televise the parade live for the third consecutive year and will relay it to KETV in Omaha.

The Band Day is a day of tradition and festivities which most large universities now follow but it originated at this University.

Mum's The Word

Homecoming mums are on the market again as Mortar Boards begin their annual sales campaign.

The traditional flowers sell for $1.00 and are sold exclusively by Mortar Board members. Anyone interested in ordering a mum to be delivered to residences on Homecoming day should contact any member of Mortar Board as early as possible.

Council Plan Merits Review

Dean Adam C. Breckenridge will present the suggestions of the Student Council for a Student-Faculty Evaluation Program at the next meeting of the organization of department chairmen.

The Council's suggestion to establish a joint student-faculty board to draft a student-faculty evaluation program was given to Dean Breckenridge last Spring for his consideration. The student rating of the ability and qualifications of their instructors has been adopted in many colleges and universities in the United States, said Don Burt, Student Council Student-Faculty Evaluation chairman.

The rating can then be effectively used by faculty members to improve their presentation of curriculum and revise the general method of instruction, if needed, he said.
