

Abrahamzon Tells Functions Of New Council Committee

Student Council public relations chairman John Abrahamzon has announced that the functions of the newly-formed public relations committee are "liaison, coordination, assistance and study" among the existing public relations committees on campus.

At Wednesday's Council meeting, Abrahamzon said that one of his major committee projects was "to coordinate and assist University student organizations in combining their efforts when deemed necessary or separate overlapping projects when such measures would be to the advantage of the overall University public relations program."

By this coordination and assistance, Abrahamzon said, we hope to help in bringing out the full potential of the projects undertaken by various organizations, and do not intend to take away projects or to interfere where not desired.

A second project of the committee will be to "serve as a liaison between administration and the University Public Relations Department and those student organizations concerned with public relations work for the University.

"We will be asking various student organizations to adopt this point as one of their annual projects in the near future," Abrahamzon said.

A third function will be "to study the present status and project of student organizations dealing with public relations to determine if or how the student council public relations committee can assist in removing overlap and duplication."

In the fourth place, the committee will serve "as public relations organ for the Student Council in order to distribute complete and accurate information about Student Council proceedings and business to the student body."

"We have appointed Don Bennett correspondent to the Daily Nebraskan to remove possibility of confusion and inaccuracy in stories," Abrahamzon said.

And finally, Abrahamzon reported, we will "assist other student council committees in the publishing and distribution of student information necessary to the function of that committee."

HARRIS TWEEDS
by COLLEGE HALL

The Harris Tweed is especially suited over the new Harris Tweed, lighter, more supple than ever, but still boasting all of the famed attributes of this exclusive fabric. Now, pre-wrinkled in College Hall's exclusive pattern, Harris Tweed is perfectly suited to the man's important casual shoulder sport coats.
