 Husker grapplers open the 1961-62 mat action at Manhattan against Kansas State Saturday night.
 There is a student-coach feature to the dual which (at 9:15 p.m.) will follow the K-State-New Mexico basketball game.
 Bob Mancuso, Nebraska's new mat coach, is a former wrestler under K-State Coach Fritz Knorr. Mancuso was the leading 'Cat wrestler at 130 pounds his senior year in 1954-55.
 The Wildcats, with only one senior on the squad, are rebuilding this season around last year's outstanding sophomores and newcomers off the freshman team. Knorr has four lettermen to work with.

Coach Mancuso will pit five experienced Huskers, led by co-captains Jim Raschke and Harold Thompson, against Kansas State.

Dick Van Sickle, an Omaha junior, Jim Faimon, a senior letterman who is blind, and Mike Nissen of Mason City, Iowa, should all be ready for action tomorrow night.

Mancuso may do some shuffling to fill the light-heavyweight spot. Jack Richard, a junior 167-pounder, may get the assignment but Mancuso will probably call on Jim Hamsa, a green recruit from the grid ranks, to take over.

Four sophomores from Lincoln are on the Husker's

Sellers Meeting

There will be a meeting Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the Coliseum N Club room for all lettermen interested in selling at basketball games, according to L. F. (Pop) Klein, director of concessions.

NU Had Only Three Losing Seasons in 51 Years

 when Biff Jones' eleven compiled a 3-5-1 mark.
 Going back even further one finds that the Cornhuskers had experienced losing seasons in only three years from the first season, 1890, through the 1940 season—a period of 51 seasons.

Fortunes
 But then Cornhusker fortunes changed almost overnight. The 1940 team had a record of eight wins against one loss during the regular season and earned an invitation to the Rose Bowl, losing to Stanford, 21-13.
 Then came nine straight losing seasons. Bill Glassford's 1950 team finally broke the spell with a record of six wins, two losses and one tie.

While the first 51 years of Cornhusker football saw only three losing seasons, the next 21 has seen only three winning seasons. The three winning seasons, 1950, 1952, and 1954, all came under Glassford, who was forced to leave after the 1955 season.

But even with the loss of winning team's pride of the Cornhusker super-fan continued. Every coach who followed Jones felt it, although they didn't all agree on the reason for it.

Situation
 Glenn Presnell, who coached in 1942, points out, "Nebraska has a wonderful situation and tradition in that it has only the one large University and everyone points to it with pride."
 Presnell adds that some of the spirit which spurred Nebraska boys to supreme efforts may be missing today. "We were Nebraska people and we felt we had a tradition to uphold," he explains. "I doubt if there is that feeling with boys from all over the country now representing Nebraska."

Bernie Masterson, Bill Glassford, and Pete Elliott all pointed to the fact that Nebraska has only one major state school. They felt that this unifies support behind the Cornhuskers.

But George (Potsy) Clark felt the pride that remained from the pre-war days.

Big Question
 "When I used to visit throughout the state the big question in everyone's mind was Nebraska football," he says. "It is a wonderful situation when you can go braska because we wanted to play for the state University and we didn't get paid a cent.

More Desire
 "I'll bet we had more desire to win than most of the paid players in today's college game, because we were playing to win for the merchant and the farmer back in Scottsbluff, or Sutton, or any other town in the state," he continues.

And in 1961 is there still a Cornhusker super-fan? Apparently so. Crowds of 25,000 and more supported a football team that ended the season with a 3-6-1 record. And Coach Bill Jennings, who took the reins from Pete Elliott in 1957, also has felt the intense pride of the Cornhusker fan. He pointed out that he felt it was even greater than normal on a college campus.

And all of Cornhusker football tradition seems to agree with him.

The Cornhusker football fan may well be some kind of a super-loyal nut. He may be conservative in his politics, but he is radical about his football. He may be pessimistic about Nebraska's future at times, but he is always optimistic about the Cornhuskers. He may rant. He may rave. He may scream for a win. But the Cornhuskers are his, and he is always there to watch them.

Two Names Mentioned For NU Job

The announcement that Bill Jennings' contract will not be renewed brought immediate speculation on his successor as head Husker football coach.

Latest coaches mentioned were Harold Lahar, who recently resigned at the University of Houston and John Ralston, who coached Utah State to an undefeated season.

Lahar's Houston team has won four, lost four and tied one going into its season finale against Oregon State. Ralston's Aggies finished 9-0-1 this year, tying for the Skyline Conference championship for the second straight year with Wyoming. Utah State will play in the Gotham Bowl at New York City Dec. 9.

Other NU coach prospects previously mentioned include Hank Foldberg, Wichita; Jim Myers, ex-Texas A&M mentor, Clay Stapleton, Iowa State and assistant NU coach Cletus Fischer.

 accomplishing what the Nebraska people expect of him? These questions can only be answered if he becomes familiar with present personnel.

The Husker fan is starting to get a little anxious. In all my memories of Husker football, I don't recall three crowds under 25,000 which we had this year and I don't think things will get much better. Our schedule next year is not strong with the exception of Michigan, which isn't the power it used to be. South Dakota and North Carolina State have not shown great power in the past few years and the Big Eight powers such as Missouri, Colorado and Kansas, lose many key football players.

The Huskers have one of the best teams of juniors and sophomores returning next season in the conference. The seniors, although they tried hard and played well, did not compose the hard core of the team.

Hat Off
 The Old Pro would like to take his hat off to these seniors (the only problem is I never wear one) and hope that they have good luck in their future pursuits. The Old Pro hopes that they go out and push Nebraska in the future with their recruiting and aid.

Nebraska's chancellor and Regents had better make their move now in order to insure our future success in athletics. Remember, our athletic director has to select men for the changes he wishes to be made and any new coaches must have time to recruit, to set up their staff, install their system of coaching, have all things operational by the next year, and study their present personnel.

Good luck on a speedy decision. Let's hope that it is forthcoming. PREDICTIONS: Huskers lose opener to a tall Wheatshocker team (7' center, two 6'8" forwards) at Wichita despite Russell's 24 points. Season's record will be 15-10 with a third place finish in the Big Eight Conference.

He could see time passing...

The folks who lived in the day of the hourglass had a psychological advantage. They could see time passing.

And as each fine grain slipped through the neck of the glass, a man's conscience would whisper within him: less time left!

When we look at a clock its hands seem motionless. Is that why millions put off the important decisions that ought to be made right now?

Whatever its cause, procrastination is a disease. It lulls the senses into indolence. It wastes our energy on trivial pursuits, while important tasks remain undone. Especially it attacks the soul, tempting man to believe that there will be plenty of time later to tend to his spiritual needs.

But the cure is simple... and immediate. Just set the alarm clock and begin the New Year with worship in your Church. You'll soon be facing every important task with eagerness and courage and faith!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
