

Religious Groups Greet Yule Through Fun, Service, Activity

By Jim Steinman

Service and fun highlight Christmas activities at the Universities Religious Centers.

Caroling at rest homes and hospitals, entertaining foreign students and Christmas choral services are among the many Christmas activities at the campus religious houses.

The United Campus Christian Fellowship will feature Christmas music at their regular service on Sunday...

Sunday evening, a fellowship dinner will be held to which foreign students have been invited. After the dinner, the students choir will proceed to the Orthopedic Hospital, the Veteran's Hospital and the Rock of Ages and Marsh Rest Homes to carol.

Christmas Party

After the caroling, the group will proceed to the Rev. Dr. Alan J. Pickering's home for a Christmas party. United Campus Christian Fellowship is located at 333 No. 14 and is staffed by Rev. Dr. Pickering and Rev. Ralph W. Hays.

More than thirty international students will be entertained at Christmas dinners at the First and Second Baptist Churches on Sunday.

The choir, composed mainly of University students, will present a Christmas Cantata at that service.

Baptist Churches

The First Baptist Church is located at 14th and "K" where H. Meryl Burner is the student worker. The Second Baptist Church is located at 28th and "S" streets where Rev. Royce Jones is the student worker.

On Sunday students will decorate the chapel and sing Advent Carols, according to Rev. G. M. Armstrong, chaplain of St. Nicholas House, located at 13th and R streets.

The Newman Student Center at 320 No. 16th will entertain its members and foreign students at a turkey dinner at 5:30 Sunday after which they will carol at orphanages and hospitals throughout the city followed by a Christmas party at the Center.

On Saturday evening, married students will hold a international customs and ideas. The Newman Center is staffed by the Rt. Rev. Charles J.

Keenan, Rev. R. F. Sheehy and Rev. J. R. Myers.

International students will be entertained at a Christmas dinner followed by carolling at the Veteran's Hospital and Tabetha Home Sunday at the National Lutheran Council Lutheran Student House at 535 No. 16th.

Music, Art

The Missouri Synod University Lutheran Chapel's club, Gamma Delta, will discuss the Christmas season in music and art at their meeting Sunday at 5:30 followed by a candlelight vesper service at 7:15.

Pastor A. J. Norden announced that they had held their dinner for international students and had caroled last Sunday.

The Methodist, Wesley Foundation Choir, under the direction of Dick Morris, will, for the third consecutive year, perform a Christmas service on television.

The Choir is made up entirely of University students and numbers around one hundred. The show will be broadcast on KUON-TV and will be recorded for viewing on other stations.

After the choir's presentation Friday, the members will proceed to the Cotner School of Religion for a Christmas party. The program beings at 7:30 on KUON-TV. This Sunday the group and international students will go caroling.

Meetings

The Junior Inter-fraternity Council's pledge book, "New Faces on Sorority Row," will go on sale Tuesday in all fraternity houses and in the main lobby of the Student Union. It contains the names, hometowns and pictures of all 1961 sorority pledges at the University.

Ag Y and Ag YW will meet at 7:15 at Cotner College on Ag Campus. It will be preceded by a cabinet meeting at 5 p.m.

The Union decorating party for all workers and their friends is at 6:30 p.m. Food, carol singing and a surprise for those under 21 will be at 8 p.m.

The annual agricultural extension conference continues today at the Nebraska Center through Thursday.

There will be a lecture by Dr. H. C. Cutler, executive director of the Missouri Botanical Garden, at 4 p.m. in the Biochemistry Auditorium, Ag Campus. He will speak on "The Cultivation of Corn and Squash in the Americas." Cutler will also speak at 10 a.m. today in B 16 Burnett on "Ethnobotany" and at 1 p.m. in the Bessey Hall Auditorium on "New World Food Plants."

UNSEA meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Union Party Rooms. It will be a joint meeting with Wesleyan and the program will be a panel on Future Teachers of America (FTA).

The Women's Athletic Association board members and workers will meet at Grant Memorial Hall at 5 p.m. for a Christmas party.

KUON-TV Shows Feature Mime, Space, Journalism

The art of mime, one of the oldest, least practiced, and most difficult of the performing arts, is explained when KUON-TV presents Marcel Marceau and other pantomimes, answer questions by Edwin Burr Pettet, chairman of the theater arts department at Brandeis University, and Elliott Norton, drama critic for the Boston Journal-American.

The interview will acquaint the viewer with the way in which comedy and pathos of life are interpreted through the art of mime. Marceau will describe how he became interested in the "art of silence" and why he believes that pantomime is a language of the heart.

An appraisal of the truth in American newspapers today is given by historian Arnold Toynbee, journalists James Retson and A. J. Lieblich, and television newsman Charles Collingwood on Strategy of Truth on Monday at 9 p.m. They will discuss the present information service and give views on its effectiveness. They will note the trend of the American press toward local monopoly, "the one ownership town", and give viewers an inside look at the problems of maintaining a free and objective press in the United States.

A five program series on Our Neighbor, the Moon will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. with George Gamow, professor of physics at the University of Colorado. He will explain the environment of the moon.

The National Aeronautic and Space Administration team, Dr. Robert Kreebs and James Thompson, will explain crafts that will take men to the moon in a special Living Science program to be seen Wednesday. The two men will use lectures and demonstrations to trace the history and development of rockets and then use models of U.S. actual and proposed space craft to show applications of principles to the attempts to explore outer space.

Breckenridge Addresses Union College's Seniors

Instead of becoming desperate and frantic about survival, growth and development in the world today, Dean of Faculties Adam Breckenridge suggested that "we take the less glamorous approach."

Dr. Breckenridge, in addressing the annual senior recognition day at Union College, urged that in our role as surgeons performing a delicate and difficult operation in solving the problems of the world we must lay aside the "meat axe."

He asked Americans to recognize the importance of the individual and the dignity of man. Dr. Breckenridge said he believed that individual man could survive without becoming a coordinated speck in an ant hill or beehive.

"The massive scale of our society, the current abundance of material goods and services permit us to develop traits of individualism more so now than ever before." He explained that to be an individual does not mean that one must be a complete nonconformist or eccentric. "Our society would soon fly apart if we did not accept conformity to law and order or even good manners."

"But," he continued, "you can be a conformist only up to a point — the complete subordination of the individual to the system. It is not so much the danger of society forcing you to conform that

Hall Art Collection Adds Two Works by Du Bois

A new painting has been added to the University's Frank M. Hall Collection and was put on display for the first time Sunday afternoon at Morrill Hall.

The new work of art is "The Beach" done by the American painter Guy Pene Du Bois. It consists of three panel paintings.

Norman Geske, director of the University Art Galleries, commented, "There is a great deal of period flavor and the acquisition is a fine example of Du Bois' ability to evaluate the characteristic look of the late 20's and early 30's in terms of costume, posture and movement."

Geske continued that Du Bois can now be seen as a notable exponent of the well-designed picture, creating a precise balance of forms and space and color which is independent of the topical subject matter.

Du Bois was a student of Robert Henri and for a time worked under the French satirist Steinlen. Besides being a painter he also worked as an art critic for several New York dailies and served as the editor of "Arts and Decoration" for a period of seven years.

His period of greatest success was in the late 20's and 30's and his work may well be cited among the definitive embodiments of that period. It is perhaps a by-product of the current revival of interest in the mores of those years that a reconsideration of Du Bois' art is already under way and he is being seen for the first time as something more than a documentarian of his own day, Geske said.

In accordance with the terms of the Hall bequest, the pictures have received the endorsement of two art authorities.

Dorothy Adlow, art critic of the Christian Science Monitor and Douglas MacAgy, director of the Dallas Museum for Contemporary Art.

Right . . .

(Continued from p. 2) pect Chancellor Hardin to stay here when he is constantly held back by an unreasonable and unnecessary lack of funds? If you are not going to listen to a man as competent as he is, WHO ARE YOU GOING TO LISTEN TO?

It is and has been, lately, the consensus that the state would profit by more tourism. Fine. It sure would help if the tourists would do more than pay their motel bills and leave tire tread.

So, after another study, a sum of $97,000 dollars is asked for, for the specific purpose of promoting tourism. And . . . you guessed it, $25,000 was generously appropriated for that purpose.

I'll tell you one thing, Nebraskans, we're not giving Florida or California any gray hairs.

Again, gentlemen, you are going to get what you pay for. Do you really think that you are going to get the job done with a little more than 25 per cent of the needed funds?

If the state is that hard up for money, why don't you do something about it? It is your job. If it is necessary, broaden the tax base in order to raise the ceiling that is on the state's progress.

If you choose not to, however, don't be surprised by things such as the youth exodus or the lack of tourism, just to name two.

More to come on this subject.
