

Sig Eps vs. Canfield In Tournery Tonight

The All-University basketball tournery begins tonight with Sigma Phi Epsilon-A facing Canfield-A at 5 p.m. on the Varsity Court of the Coliseum.

The game, which will be a preview to tonight's state high school tournery games, will pit the Sig Eps, who de-throned Kappa Sigma for the Fraternity-A title, against a strong Canfield outfit, champions of the Burr-Selleck-A division.

The winner of this "Organized House Championship" will meet the Independent champs, Navy ROTC, Saturday night in the finals of the IM "A" tournery. This game will be played at 5 p.m. before the state Class B and A finals in the Coliseum.

In B play, Sigma Nu-B, Frat-B champ, will play Canfield-B. Burr-Selleck-B crown-holders, tonight at 5 p.m. in the P.E. Building in the finals of the All-University "B" championship.

Delta Upsilon won the "C" division by beating Sigma Phi Epsilon-C for the Frat-C title Tuesday night since there are no "C" independent or dorm teams.

The winner of the 'B' championships will play Delta Upsilon-C. Fraternity-C champ, in a special exhibition game Friday at 5 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Three Titles Decided
Whistles blew like there was an attempted robbery at the policeman's ball as Sigma Nu-B defeated Phi Delta Theta-B, 33-29, last night to become the Fraternity B champs.

Leading at the half, 14-13, the Sigma Nu's outscored the Phi Deltas 19-16 the second half with the aid of 14 Phi Delt fouls.

Sigma Nu's Gary Thrasher was high point man for the game with nine counters. Jerry Dart was high for the Phi Deltas with eight points.

In other action last night, in the "Cornhusker" finals Beta Theta Pi-A knocked off the Kegs, 43-41. With a 19 point second quarter, the Betas led 26-16 at the half and outlasted the Kegs in spite of a strong last half bid.

Farmhouse won the Ag College crown by beating Vocational Education, 24-14, in the other final last night.

STAR OF THE WEEK—Dennis Albers, Daily Nebraskan Star of the Week, performs on the parallel bars in an early Nebraska gym meet.

Albers Selected as Star of the Week; Soph Gymnast Won 3 Events in Meet

By JERRY BRUNK
Sports Staff Writer

Husker gymnast Dennis Albers has been given the Star of the Week Award for his outstanding performance last weekend in the Air Force Academy and Colorado double dual meet.

Albers took top honors in the free exercise, trampoline, and tumbling and also picked up second places in the high bar and side horse in the duals which Nebraska won.

As a sophomore this year he has been very outstanding and dependable by leading the team consistently in points with 275, and is very tough to beat in good competition.

Denny is a sophomore in the college of Arts and Sciences with a major in physics.

Hastings Grad
He hails from Hastings High School where he was a standout in gymnastics and he also participated in track, lettering three years in each sport.

Albers believes that the gymnastic team for this year was just a little under par because they never really reached their peak. Still the season has been very successful as the Huskers boost a 8-2 record.

His prediction for next year is that the team will be better, because they should be potentially stronger than this year.

The high point of Denny's career came when he was a senior in high school. He won the all-around competition award, which is called a pentathlon award at the State Gymnastics meet. The award is given to the gymnast who scores the most points in any five events during the meet.

All College Meet
Right now Albers is looking forward to the Midwest All College Gymnastics meet in Denver Mar. 16-17. He expects the competition to be very tough, but Nebraska's chances of winning are very good if everyone does good on their routines.

Coach Jake Geier's remarks about Albers' success were, "He is still growing in the field of gymnastics. This year, being his sophomore year, could be considered his formative year by setting up a routine basis for what is coming in the future years."

"By the time Denny is a senior he should be a good country gymnast. I have been very satisfied with his accomplishments thus far, but I think most people have expected too much of him for this year. I am also very glad to see Denny chosen as Star of the Week because he has been a team leader all year by scoring a total of 275 points."

Coach Hornsby Issues Call For NU Bowling Candidates

By JIM MORGAN
Sports Staff Writer

"Attention bowlers! If you have a 180 or better average and are interested, come out for the NU bowling team."

These are the words of Jim Hornsby, Student Union Games Manager and bowling coach. Although currently third in the Big Eight league, Husker bowling appears in for some sad days ahead.

Five out of the top seven keggers on Hornsby's squad are either ineligible or have dropped out of school this semester.

Nebraska has had a bowling team since the Union Lanes were completed. The bowling schedule starts in early November and runs through late March.

In April there is a Big Eight league tournament which last year was held in the Union Lanes, with the Huskers emerging champs. This year the tournery will be held in Boulder, Colo.

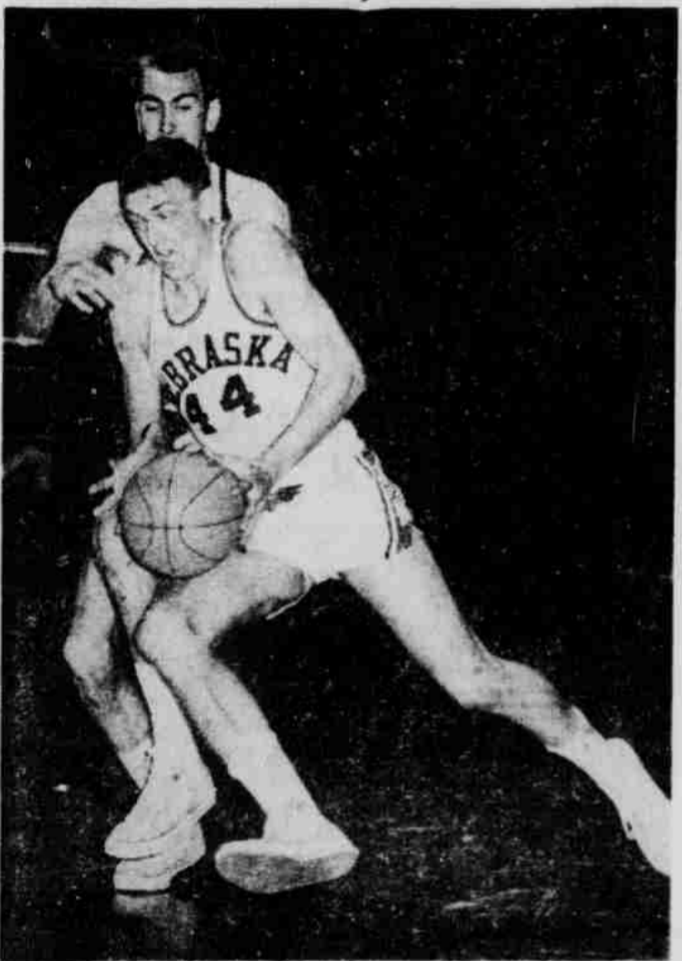

The keggers are in a postal league. In this method both teams roll their games on their own home lanes and the results are mailed in to the league secretary. The secretary compiles the results and sends them back to the respective teams.

The keggers are currently third in the Big Eight with an 18-0 record. They are higher in individual achievements with Victor Bejot holding the high game mark of 278 and the team owning the high team game standard with 1151.

The Big Eight League is recognized by the A.B.C., but bowling is not considered as an intercollegiate sport by Nebraska.

Hornsby is trying to get the sport recognized by the University but because of the necessity of occasionally competing on public lanes it is frowned upon.

'Cats Chew Up Huskers, 84-60, in Nebraska Finale

NU Ends Season With 9-16 Mark; Russell 'Off' But Still Sets Record

Kansas State's Wildcats were a mighty hungry crew as they bricked into the Coliseum and chomped Nebraska to the tune of 84-60 before 5,500 fans last night.

Kansas State had been tied with Colorado for the Big Eight lead till the Wildcats ran into a red-hot Oklahoma State crew, which handed K-State its second conference loss Monday night and knocked Winter's charges down a notch in the league standings.

The 'Cats were anxious to get back to their winning ways in case Colorado might lose its finale to Kansas and K-State and CU would then tie for the title.

Strong Second Half
Kansas State rattled the Huskers with a 45-point second half effort after leading 39-31 at intermission.

The loss ended a disappointing Husker cage season on a sour note as Nebraska dropped its 16th game of the year against only nine wins. NU finished with a 5-9 conference mark, good for sixth place in the Big Eight.

Forward Gary Marriott paced the second half Wildcat onslaught after big Mike Wroblewski had sparked K-State in the first half.

Marriott, connecting from the outside for most of his points, scored 15 of his game high total of 19 in the second half to pace the Wildcats as they forged ahead.

Wroblewski, 6-8 pivot, hit 16 points in the first half before running into foul trouble in the second stanza. Wroblewski wound up with 18 markers.

These two made the big difference but the overall team play of the Wildcats far surpassed that of the Huskers, who once again performed poorly before the home crowd.

Kansas State took the lead with less than three minutes gone in the game and never relinquished their advantage.

Wroblewski's hook with 2:12 gone put KS ahead 6-5 and from there the 'Cats upped their margin to 24-10 halfway through the first half before Nebraska got rolling.

NU Cats Deficit
The Huskers began to cut down the 14-point bulge, biggest Wildcat lead in the first canto, as Daryl Petsch canned two outside shots and Bill Bowers added a layup to make it 24-18 with 9:46 left. Wroblewski kept banging away, however, and K-State led 30-21 with over six minutes left in the half.

Coach Jerry Bush's Huskers closed the gap to three points at 34-31 on the free throw accuracy of Charley Jones and a bucket and two charity tosses by Bowers.

A Husker fast break with a little more than two minutes left in the first period appeared to cut the Wildcat lead even more but Bowers' layup attempt rolled out amidst calls of Kansas State "goal-tending" by Nebraska fans.

Wroblewski's last two baskets in the first half and a free throw by the Wildcat gunner gave Kansas State the 39-31 intermission lead.

The second half was just a race for Nebraska to keep within twenty points of the fast-moving K-Staters as Winter cleared his bench midway through the second stanza.

The K-State subs continued the rout as they increased the margin over NU and Kansas State owned its biggest lead over Nebraska at the end of the game — 84-60.

For Nebraska, the only highlight of the game was the offensive display by Bill Vincent, 6-7 soph center.

Vincent, displaying some deadly accuracy for a big man from the outside, was high scorer for Nebraska with 15 points, on six field goals (most of them long hooks or jump shots) and three for five free throws.

Russell Breaks Record
NU's Tommy Russell, who had played so brilliantly in recent Husker games and was threatening several new scoring marks, had an off night in his last game as a Husker, but still managed to contribute 11 points.

Russell did manage to break one record. His five for seven free throws broke Herschell Turner's free throw record for one year by a Nebraska player. Russell found the year with 140 foul line successes, shattering Turner's mark of 136, set in 1958-59.

Russell, along with seniors Rex Swett, Bowers, and Berni Elle, were playing their final collegiate basketball in the Husker finale.

Petsch hit 12 points and Bowers added nine for the Huskers. Jones was the high Husker rebounder with nine rebounds as Nebraska out-rebounded the Cats, 42-37.

Cagers Fall by One To K-State Yearlings Haas Heads Scoring Chart

By BOB BESOM

A desperation shot by Husker Earl Wright, synchronized with the final buzzer, fell to the left of target and bounced off the rim leaving the Nebraska frosh facing their second defeat in the hands of Kansas State, 70-69, last night in the Coliseum.

The six-foot field general of Nebraska's yearlings was pressed by the clock as he got off the "last hope" shot from just beyond the key.

With 20 seconds remaining in the battle, Bill Matan sent the Wildcats to a 70-67 lead by way of a couple charity shots.

Gary Haas, the All-Stater from Lincoln High, closed the gap with a quick layup and Nebraska cage instructor Bob Gages called time out when with two seconds left, possession was given to the Huskers on an out-of-bounds infraction.

Larry Borchschlegl tossed the ball over the bounds marker to Wright, setting the scene for the desperation throw.

The Nebraska first-year men bounced back from a 38-42 halftime deficit and took command, 45-44, a minute and a half after the intermission break. And, under the firing of Jack Cramer, Haas and Joel Kortus, worked the lead to 58-50 with just under 10 minutes remaining.

Under the guidance of Sam Robinson, the 5-10 Kansan who made up for his lack of height with springy leaps, the 'Kittens took advantage of a couple Nebraska blunders and tightened the battle, 60-60, with 6:40 to go.

Robinson's fast break and layup a few seconds later gave K-State the advantage. And the visitors were ahead to stay following a Robinson bucket at 2:02.

Haas's 21 points was game high and sent the 18-year old forward to the head of the final freshman scoring chart. Haas has a 137-point total as compared to Borchschlegl's 133 and Bob Cook's 128.

The second loss to Kansas State gave the Nebraskans a 2-2 final tally for the season.
