

YOU CAN IF YOU THINK YOU CAN

Several coeds and a fellow maternity man watch on with feeling and give encouragement to a participant in this year's maternity-paternity week games.

The event pictured is raising telephone poles. Once raised the poles will be left up to hang caged pledges and bars from.

Maternity Council Censors

Animal Society Is Lax on Rules

The Intermaternity Council (IMC) went on record Wednesday night to censor the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animal (SPCA) for lax rules on the regulation of pet rabbits.

"Undue negligence on the part of six year old children in leaving pet rabbits free to ravage fraternity men in back yard cages" was the cause of the unfortunate incident last week when two fraternity pledges contacted hare lips from their attempts to make friends with a baby rabbit, according to John Noles, IMC president. Panty-Pandemonium President Nancy McGass called on all Greek goddesses (all morority women) to join with the maternities in this year's help weak projects.

"To teach this year's pledges true bonds of brotherhood and sisterhood (normally learned during sadistic week), we have opened our arms to the maternity system to show the public the bonds of love and liquor that pacify the two systems," said Noles.

The following sadistic week projects were suggested for the Greek system:

Phi Delta Pride — to construct from snow modeling Greek gods of all Phi Delta Pride actives.

Beta Theta Pixie—to build a stairway to third floor of the fraternity house so that the actives can sing the "Beta Mating Clue" to the power flush toilets.

Kappa Awful Thirsty—to return to earth.

Kappa Swigma—to rent out the hotel.

Diddle Tau Diddle—to return the front door, and to paint "Didn't We" on it.

Delightfully Grubby—to keep the rushees from squealing during next year's Gush Week.

Phil Kappa iPerceyville—to keep from getting caught this May Day.

A Turkey O—to move into the Celstink after next fall's harvest.

Kappa Kappa Grabbit—to replace the twins.

All For Free—to paint the house a PURE white.

Alpha Gamma Rabbit—to reincarnate pet rabbits.

Farm House—to LIVE.

Coyotes—to find a blind husband.

Pi Flies—to chase that stork of the roof.

Details On How

Library Is Used

Although it is usually thought that a library is used for study, reading, and research work, it has been recently brought to the attention of Frankly Loveme, director of Libraries just what the building is used for.

Among the most predominant forms of games are: twisting in the carols, hiding during pledge training, student tribunal secret meetings, rumbles between the Pi Eyes and TNKnees pledge classes, toad conventions, handing out and selling of all stolen tests, hiding place for all "closet cases" during rush week, stomping grounds for those who have been kicked out of Moral Hall for stealing.

'NO NEW FUNDS FOR RRTC'

Chancellor Spif Hardley (center) chats with Maj. Garth Rassmother after a bedside conversation with Col. Raul, head honcho of the RRTC detachment at the University. Their conversation was reported as being concerned with getting the detachment some new equipment. An authoritative source from within said that the Chancellor said "If the state doesn't give the University any then you can't have any either . . . so there!"

Chancellor's Wife Ticketed For Striking Police Officer

Chancellor Spif Hardley motored down to Camp Ashland Saturday to review the Army RRTC brigade which is spending the weekend training at the National Guard installation.

Chancellor and Mrs. Hardley made the trip in a jeep which had a flat tire in Elmwood. Mrs. Hardley changed the tire, because, "it would have cost the taxpayers money to have a filing station man or myself do it" according to the Chancellor.

Mrs. Hardley was issued a traffic ticket near Waverly for "distracting traffic," "illegally joining a funeral procession," "passing a State Trooper on the right, entering the interstate on an exit and leaving same on an entrance and striking an officer with her hat." Charges were dismissed when Spif got spiffed-off and Mrs. Hardley explained that she did not have her prescription windshield on the jeep.

requested that the noise be discontinued.

Chancellor Hardley was rather reluctant to drive back with his wife, so Colonel Raul was helped into the jeep and he and Mrs. Hardley no doubt had a quiet trip back. Chancellor Hardley rode back with several cadets. The car was destined for Lincoln, but was detoured to Emerald via Malcomb.

The Chancellor watched the troops go through latrine digging exercises, shoe shining, brass polishing, and brown nosing. The highlight of his tour was the parade when the entire brigade passed in review to the Star Spangled Banner. Colonel Raul's aide, however,

Hardley Initiates Program

Spif Hardley has decided to initiate a new program into the University curriculum, announced Hardley's Gang.

The new program will include a variety of new courses which Hardley feels are needed to make the students' development and education completely well rounded. The courses will be in the RRTC Warehouse (formerly the Helgin Bldg.)

On the top of the building will be a Heavenly Body class conducted by the Kappa Swigma, the A Turkey O's and the Phi Delta Prides. The instruments being installed will be focused on the sun decks of the zoo, the AOPiggie house and the Kappa Awful Thirsty house.

Directly below the Heavenly Body class will be the Bureau (pictured above) which will provide the class with information on what may be expected to be seen that day. Hardley commented that this would eliminate wasted time on the part of the students' of the class.

The second floor of the building will be used for tricycle training. Hardley decided this would increase the quality of the races on Lust Day and make them more competitive.

The ground floor will be used as a training arena for pledge trainers. It will be painted red and a new heating system installed to make the atmosphere more realistic. Hardley is giving them hell.

Maternity-Paternity Week Fulfills Concrete Goal

This year's Help Week project for members of the maternity-paternity system was to discover a new method of removing the bods from the arena during Greek games.

Good Greek Games to amuse the NU Greek savages is the ace number-one primary goal underlying the concept of a Greek Week, stated John Noles, Intermaternity Council spokesguy.

"On the whole, however," quoth Noles, "Greek Week is the result of a belief on the part of maternity and sorority members that greek-letter organizations are CONTINUALLY FULFILLING A POSITIVE GOAL on the campus and in the community.

Contineth Doger Panderson, stoolman of the IMC love affairs committee, "Greek Week, and the vents which constitute the week, are designed to be representative of the work that goes on ALL YEAR LONG in maternities and paternities.

"By combining these representative events into one, we are able to see more clearly a general overview of Greek life and the DIRECTION IN WHICH IT IS MOVING."

However, he noted, the members of maternities and paternities realize that their goals and ideals must be coincidental with those of the society in which they live.

Capon Burt, chief of the propaganda-blackmail division, pointed out that "the complete success of Greek Week LIES IN THE PARTICIPATION OF EACH HOUSE."

In a memo to all Greeks, Burt outlined the rules for the Greek Games:

—Chariot race: freshmen in harness, Percherons at the whip. The wheels must both be on the same axle, and there can be only one wagon tongue.

—Women's Tug 'o War: an anchor chain will be used, if you've got twelve men in your house who can lift it, you win.

—Men's Tug 'o War: members of the IFC versus all other greeks — if we find a rope long enough.

—Pyramid Race: three men carry two more on their shoulders while the sweetheart of the house sits on top. Everybody is on water skis. The object is to get your six participants to Oak Lake and back with out falling down.

—Women's tricycle Race: all the air will be let out of the trike tires. The race begins at the field house and ends on the third floor of Ferguson Hall. Any coed receiving help will be scratched.

Cornflake Center's Goal Is Ending All Education

Great new strides have been taken to make the Cornflake Center for Ending Education on our Campus the most outstanding of its kind.

The Hall of Juveniles is planning some coeducational conventions to help students forget the aims of education and to encourage having a good time.

The International Don Juan Association will be meeting at the Center this weekend.

Painstaking Kissyface, president of the group, will be the principal speaker. Pelvis Brestly will also attend the session and show the members the newest techniques in twisting.

The local Bikini Club will have a tea at the Center scheduled for same time the Don Juans are having their midnight snack.

"Mink" is the password for the girls, of whom many cannot say anything else.

The girls, all top pledges of sororities, flunked out of their classes with flying colors and were absorbed by the Center's promoters.

"Ending education" is our goal," explained the director of the Cornflake division.

Signs Posted

"Signs to the effect have been posted," he added.

"We also have our flakes sing a song: 'Down with Education,' whenever milk is added. The words come out to the melody of 'Downward Satan's Warriors.'"

Currently nearly 400 youth from the nation are attending the Platonist Youth Fellowship Conference here.

Platonism is next to fergonianism they claim. A few demonstrations are in order.

April 24-25, the Nebraska Nutty Institute Workshop for Youth is scheduled, at which time some 350 youths will undergo psychoanalysis and treatments.

Adult Wing

The adult wing of the Center also has some outstanding events scheduled.

The Fulbright Scholars will meet this week to discuss ways and means of discouraging the promotion of education. The group is afraid and has adopted a goal to keep the number of scholars at status quo.

A meeting of Health Service officials from small colleges will meet to ponder and share ideas of germ-warfare to keep the students out of colleges.

A tax seminar is scheduled for the 24th and 25th. Emphasis will be on how to shrink the tax returns and fool the government.

Reading Improvement

Reading improvement for business and professional people will be held at the end of the month and again in May.

"There is nothing harder than to make people forget how to read," said the director of the session. "We're after a complete illiterate state, so we've got to make reading difficult. We're proposing a bill in Congress this year."

"The bill asks for permission to print books without invisible ink," he explained.

Evening entertainment is planned for every night, informed sources revealed.

To find out what they are, they added, one would have to enroll in one of the courses or attend a session.

—EXPOSE— Curtain of Secrecy Falls From Around RRTC Brigade

Welcome to your first RRTC class of the year, all you little cadets, my name if Major Rassmother and I am an instructor here at the Rab-el Rousing Tree Climbers brigade here at—ah,—at—well my last assignment was with the nurse's corps in Germany.

I have been in the—ah, the—ah, Army for eleven years; I am six foot four feet tall and my fighting weight is 123 pounds—all dynamite by the way—and the first little cadet who calls me "slim" or "long tall Sally" gets two demerits.

My name is Colonel Raul, no relation by the way, and I have served many years in the tricycle corps. Men!! The tricycle corps needs you!! Doesn't it Major Rassmother? Ah, who wants to wake up Major Rassmother? Careful, don't touch his bad arm, he fell off a barstool during maneuvers the other night, he got carried away watching The Big Picture on TV.

Are there any conscientious objectors here? Put your hand down, Major Rassmother, that's in extremely poor taste, and besides, you know you are supposed to muzzle stuff like that.

Say, does anybody know where we can get a barstool with seatbelts in it? No? Oh, well, I guess that's just wet ammo to you, Major Rassmother, for God's sake wake up, Rassmother.
