

NU Hires "Slush" Expert Bandilius To Bolster Sagging Athletic Support

Bandilius Arrives In Time for Beer

Chancellor Hardley today announced that Tippy Sie had obtained the services of Bunny Bandilius, noted slush fund expert from the Colorado School for Mentally Retarded.

Hardley stated, "The University is proud to have someone who can handle it's under the table work. Recent unhappiness on our athletic teams has been due to misappropriation of funds."

"We're sure the legislature will now give us more money to deal properly with our handout problem."

Bunny, railroaded out of the School for Mentally Retarded, arrived on the 8:05 freight in time to catch the annual "O" Street Beer Bust and Pretzel Twisting Bee held on Olds corner.

In commenting on the situation at Nebraska University, he said, "I'm sure I can help out in my best capacity."

"At Colorado, they wanted to put handcuffs on me to keep me out of the till. Here, I'm assured much better treatment."

"They tell me my assistants will be the scape goat and all I have to assure the administration is that my fingers are not filled with Elmer's Glue All."

Commenting on the athletic situation which brought on a near riot, he stated that the OAT's fraternity would not be held responsible and that payoffs would still be made on time to their members.

"How can I cut them off, with Spif Hardley winning the International Piano and Twinkle Toes contest and also doing well in the new game, "Grab Pass." I'll have to increase the subsidies he's presently obtaining."

After the meeting in which Bunny placed second in turning the quickest "Q" in the Pretzel Twister's fine arts section, a donation was taken up to buy a few necessities for the newly named administrator. "Pinch a penny a day" Line, after taking his 10%, gave him $1.32 for a new bib and matching bonnet.

Bunny, sobbing, said, "Thank you for your generosity and kindness, I'll never forget it." He was promptly cheered by the departing 10:06 freight hobo's who are going to scout for extra funds for Nebraska this year.

ELUDES ARREST—Ray Nob, speedy Nebraska sprinter, is shown as he eludes the Lincoln police Saturday. Nob, better known around jock circles as "The Turtle," was the only member of the notorious NU tracksters using dope to escape from the haughty hands of the police.

Cindermen Hauled In On Narcotics Charges

Six members of the Husker track team were arrested in Lincoln yesterday for illegally possessing and selling habit forming narcotics.

Lincoln police chief Joe Cawol revealed that Nebraska hurdlers Fred Milkie and Ron Wore, sprinters Don Negdan and Steve Thumper and distance men Mike Blemming and Ray Stovelens were all found in possession of the drug in a raid on a notorious apartment house late Friday night.

The drug was a strong heart stimulant and is very habit forming. Only a few thousand dollars of the narcotic were found in the apartment wrapped up in a stuffed rabbit. The main supply was found later in a red Corvette convertible parked in front of the building.

All those involved said that their first experience with the drug came just prior to the Big Eight Indoor Track meet March 3. All indicated also that some of the coaches and some members of the Botany department had been planning to help the tracksters take the indoor this year and were willing to do anything possible to aid this.

As a consequence of this statement several members of both the coaching staff and the Botany dept. are under surveillance.

Cage Talent . . .

Lush to Scout Africa, Amazon

Tippy Sip announced that his head basketball coach, Merry Lush, has been rehired for the coming year as head scout for foreign talent.

In making the move up into the administration, Merry stated that he was pleased with the advancement and although unhappy about leaving the coaching scene, he felt that it was for the best interest of all parties concerned.

He immediately made plans to tour the Amazon to find anybody over 7 foot who can play the bongo drums with the toes since Merry feels that the University must have more diversification in sports.

Merry said, "If we can come in first in the bongo drum division, it should offset our consistency of placing last in basketball."

Merry, ten time beer chugging and cigar chewing champion, was also preparing to scout the African pigmy regions to replace his stock of 4 footers. "In order to win games nowadays, you have to have a bad little man."

Lush stated that this may take time and not to look for immediate results. In the midst of a tiddly winks game with Casey Dull, he wouldn't make any further comments.

Meanwhile, Tippy Sip continues to look for a cage mentor replacement. Tippy considered three candidates strongly: Rob Brokop, 27 time I.M. all-star; Heal Boser, present head coach at Mecca High; and Pretty boy Let.

Lippy stated, "Brokop has the height, Boser, the lip and vocabulary, and Let knows the material."

In handing Bud, Brokop has the capacity, Boser, the mouth, and Let, the experience. This will make it a tough decision."

Inside sources say that Tippy will ask aid in making his final decision from the Bobsey Twins, Beck and Bry, and head cloak and dagger man, Rag McPick.

When Coach Nate Hates, present frosh head man, was informed of the new prospects, his only comment was, "I'll be glad to work hand in hand with any of these men to enable us to have a perfect winless season."

"Merry just didn't try hard enough except in his own personal activities. I know that Lush could have done it if he would have tried. I hate to see him go."

Lippy stated that the deci-

Faculty Has Orgy April Fool's Eve

One hundred and eighty seven members of the faculty have been put on social probation for holding an April Fool's Eve Orgy on March 30th.

"We had it planned for the night of the thirty first," said ringleader professor Caveman Morrison, chief printer's devil of the Journalism school for hacks, "but after the Silverwater speech, we got to house for our regular TGIF gathering and just decided we couldn't wait for Saturday night."

THE SUNDAY "PINK"

Grid Jocks Injured In Hob-Mob Fight, Fire

There is already a spring football injury list.

Nebraska's new grid instructor Fearless Fanny already has a big headache, even before the initial spring football session billed for Monday.

A few of the Husker grid prospects couldn't wait for the Monday head-pounding on the practice field and got into a little pounding affair of their own Saturday night.

And to top it off, two '61 starters will be out of action awhile with second degree burns from a fire in their room last night.

Six of Fanny's boys got together for an unofficial N-Club function last night . . . at the Hob-Mob. It was reported that, after each had "sipped quite a lot 'too much' suds," two of the jocks took sides in the controversial NAS problem and a fight resulted between two tackles—220 pound Fairy Nogood and 225 pound Slob Moans.

When four others took sides (with Nogood and Moans—not the NAS issue) quite a battle resulted.

Tyrone "Tiger" Slobberman, a 210 pound senior guard and All-American potential Stil "Flunder" Mornton, sided with Moans and were hospitalized with broken jaws.

It was reported that Jim "Beam" Hudge and Frillie Foss, both nursing bruses, sided with Nogood.

The names of Minus "Hairless" Carriage and Menace Stew-me, both Husker lettermen and counted on by Fanny in the backfield, were added to the injury list last night.

The room-mates were burned in a fire which resulted from a forgotten cigarette left on Carriage's thirteen volumes of scrap-books.

Both are reported in good condition at the Lincoln Hospital but will probably not be in action for a couple weeks.

Coach Fanny expects Nogood, Hudge and Slobberman on the practice field late next week but says he may have to drop Mornton, Foss and Moans from the spring roster.

TENNIS ACTION—Althea Rib-some, tennis star, is shown serving a tennis ball with her tennis racket in a tennis match on a tennis court witnessed by tennis spectators on her recent tennis visit to Nebraska.

Net Queen Criticizes Hig's Boys

Althea Rib-some, who recently visited the Nebraska campus, has complied with NU tennis coach Hig Squarebottom's request of her opinion of the Husker tennis team.

Althea, world-famous tennis star, in a special letter to Squarebottom described the Husker netters as nothing better than a "bunch of fat, beer-bellied, poker-playing playboys who don't know which end of the racket to use."

Miss Rib-some, on her recent visit to the Husker campus, took several days out to scout the NU tennis team, affectionately known as the "Pussies of the Court."

During this visit, Miss Rib-some challenged the number one Husker netter Hoot "the Sluth" Gibbo. "The Sluth" was so effective with his "twist" serve, under-the-knee two-handed scoop shot, and drop-off, out and away ball that Miss Rib-some was lucky to gain a tie in the five hour grueling ten sex match.

Coach Squarebottom termed Althea's letter preposterous because "My boys are all clean-living, well-trained, A-1 athletes."

Commenting earlier about the Rib-some-Gibbo match, Squarebottom said "Gibbo would have won but Miss Rib-some hooked the Hoot."

Brokop . . . 'Prodot' Blunder Good for 'Star' Award

Rob Brokop is the NEVER-ON-SUNDAY's Star of the Week for his sterling performance in the recent Tech-Northeast high-school Class A championship game.

Brokop's acute ears were very influential in forming the outcome of the game. Upon hearing the comments from the Tech bench, Brokop immediately sprung into action to earn the coveted Star of the Week title.

When the action became quite tense in the final moments of the game and Tech was called for a technical foul from the bench referee Ron Prodot (alias Ron Befer) went to the Tech bench and announced, "I'm not used to calling technical fouls and I don't want to in this game." But he did.

Instantaneously Brokop sprung into action. The clumsy 6-7 arbitrator, in an attempt to arbitrate, knocked over the tech drinking cup.

"Damn you Brokop" announced the Tech coach. Then ref Ron Prodot, mistaking this for a curse against himself, immediately slapped another technical on the Tech crew giving Northeast the game.

For this outstanding action above and beyond the call of duty Brokop receives ours and Omaha's congratulations.

Some may ask what a 47 year old man was doing at a high-school basketball game in the first place but this is beyond the limit of our discussion.
