

'Sea Gull' Opening Night Scheduled for Wednesday

"The Sea Gull," final University play of the season, will open on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Howell Memorial Theater.

The characters of the play are conceived as a group of unique human beings belonging to a particular context of time, place, and social station.

Each is set in a peculiar history of its own and is distinguished by his own personal idiosyncrasies. They are represented as typical of humanity only in so far as their individuality chances to repeat a familiar pattern.

In similar fashion, the dramatic action concerns the particular activities connected with a specific country estate in Czarist Russia. These activities are carefully selected to create an impression of humdrum everyday existence.

They comprise such unexceptional items as the routine of farming, fishing, neighborhood visits, idle pastimes, tepid flirtations, and endless languid conversations.

Apart from Trepleff's periodic bouts with suicide, the most spectacular events are amateur theatricals, a lotto game, and an occasional family row.

Furthermore, the method of presentation is equally commonplace. The dialogue is casual and desultory. The stage business is made up of those incidental and spontaneous acts which constitute so much of common behavior.

The whole action reflects the haphazard drift of ordinary experience. The final purpose, however, is to present this transcript of life of two levels of significance. On one hand, it is a conscientious reproduction of the superficial appearances which identify it with recognizable reality.

On the other hand, it is an endeavor to suggest the attractions, the repulsions, and the tensions which exist beneath these surface appearances and, as in life, can only be inferred.

The cast for the play is: Irina Nicolayevna Arcadina, Madame Trepleff; Sue Guenther; Constantine Gavrilovitch Trepleff; John Christianson; Peter Nicolayevitch Sorin; Gordon Trousdale; Nina Mikhailovna Zaryechny; Nancy Wilson; Ilya Afanasyevitch Shamreyeff; David Heffelfower; Puline Andreyevna; Wil-Masha; Marya Ilyinshina; Sharron Purbaugh; Boris Alexeyevitch Trorin; Tod Moore; Eugene Sergeyevitch Dorr; Larry Long; Semyon Semyonovitch Medvedenko; Jerry Mayer; Yakov; Phil Boroff; The Maids; Sandra Watkins and Jeanie Dawson; The Cooks; Linda Mead and Sally Huggard.

C'est magnifique

By WENDY ROGERS
 Fashions in personalities change as often as hair-dos, with each era bringing forward those qualities and efforts that seem most admirable under the circumstances. Yet true charm is timeless. Publicized glamour and catch phrases blow away like a mist, leaving charm, the essence of simplicity and naturalness, as the true measure of womanliness.

"What is this invasion of the campus by buxom activity-hounds," means a glum male population. "What has happened to feminine charm?" Too often, in a frantic race to get to the next activity meeting on time, the female "gunner" charges forward with a mannish stride, hair flying, lipstick missing, dress wrinkled, and coat askew.

It's an easy thing to do — for a busy coed with an over-full schedule, there just isn't time for all the little feminine extras.

We'd better take time, girls. Our future depends on it. Picture if you will, date-time for an NU coed — she floats gracefully down to waiting Tom — dressed casually in a ROTC uniform with a butch haircut.

Horrifying, isn't it? But when our thoughts are on the Corn Shuck meeting in ten minutes, we often forget our appearance — and the same term can be applied.

There is no fast way to femininity — takes work, concentration, and often giant-sized effort plus a sense of humor and a true interest in people.

Secure in LOVE

Kathy is secure in her mother's love. Trust and peace gleam in her eyes. Happiness and hope shine in her face. But Kathy has her heartaches. She falls and skins her knee. Or she loses her favorite dolly. And then her eyes are flooded with tears. Mommy is always there to help. The knee is bandaged and kissed. The dolly is found. As Mommy's arm slips around Kathy, the tears are dried. Kathy is secure in her mother's love. When Kathy grows older her mother will not be able to love away the adult heartaches. But Kathy can turn to God. Her mother's love is but an echo of the Heavenly Father's love for His children. In faith and prayer, Kathy can find His all-sufficient help and feel beneath her His Everlasting Arms. The Church guides you to God. You can discover your destiny as His child. You can be secure in divine love.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
 The Church is the greater factor in earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
