

Morrison Proposes NU Seaton Debate

Although Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison has challenged his Republican opponent, Fred Seaton, to debate him on the University campus, "I don't think Seaton will take him up on it," Gary Thompson said last week.

The Young Democrats president told the YDs at a campaign strategy meeting that "I think all University students should know about it (the challenge)."

Thompson recalled that the Governor made his debate offer to him after last week's YD meeting in the presence of Student Council President Don Burt. Morrison said he feels that issues concerning the University are so important he will cancel any engagements to accommodate the Hastings publisher.

It has been proposed that the debate take place in conjunction with the University mock elections scheduled for Oct. 31. They will be sponsored by the Student Council, Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

YR president Steve Stastny reportedly was to have relayed the Governor's challenge to Seaton, but so far there has been no reply, Thompson said.

In other action, YD committee chairmen were named. They are Bruce Hollinger, membership; Roger Wait, publicity; Dennis Beeson, resolutions; and Larry Ramsey, program.

ICC Organizes Pledge Smoker

Plans for the Inter Co-Op Council's (ICC) pledge smoker were discussed at the group's first meeting of the year last week.

Syl Golka, secretary-treasurer of the organization, said that the smoker, scheduled for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Ag Union, will be an orientation for the freshmen on Co-op life.

The program will include a talk on the Co-op's financial system, and talks by Dean Fowles, assistant dean of student affairs, and Earl Dyer, ICC advisor.

Dyer will present the scholastic trophy for the member attaining the highest average last semester and show slides of all the cooperative houses. Information will also be given on the management, activities and food services of the co-ops.

Nebraskan Applauds

John Molinder, senior, and Gary Kearney, sophomore, were each awarded $500 scholarships and plaques by the Western Electric Fund.

Both are in the upper ten percent of their class and were awarded the scholarship for outstanding academic work in electrical engineering.

Sen. Otto H. Lieber, owner of Lincoln's Skyline Dairy Farms, was the 19th man since 1949 to be honored by the International Dairy Shrine Club.

At a banquet held Wednesday in Waterloo, Iowa, Lieber's picture was unveiled in the Club's traditional "Guest of Honor" ceremony. The portrait will hang in the "Dairy-men's Hall of Fame," at the Congress Show Grounds in Waterloo.

Raymond Lewis Linder, a former Nebraskan and Grand Island High School graduate, has been awarded a U.S. Steel Foundation Fellowship to do graduate work in zoology and physiology at the University of Nebraska.

The fellowship carries an annual stipend of $2,100 for two years to cover tuition, fees and other costs.

The student organization, American Guild of Organists, has announced new officers and plans for the coming year.

Mike Veak is the newly elected president; Susie Oberle, vice president; and Sara Wagener, secretary-treasurer. Plans for 1962-63 include a recital, a theory scholarship, and tours of the major churches in Lincoln. Bi-monthly meetings are held on Saturday mornings.

Anyone interested in the organization is urged to contact Miss Oberle, 432-4120.

Former Daily Nebraskan sportswriter and KUON-TV staff member, David D. Crane has been named technical adviser for the Industrial Components Division of Raytheon Company in Lexington, Mass.

Crane, a native of Cranford, New Jersey, graduated from the University in 1958.

NOW RECRUITER—LTJG James Pokorny, '59 graduate of the University, will serve on the Naval Officer Information Team at the Student Union this week.

Wiring Kaput?—Fuses Out, Alarms Fail—Students Late to Class

By BOB RAY
Ag News Editor

Fuses fizzle, and electric alarmclocks stop as overloaded wiring systems go kaput on campus.

According to Rollin Schneider, University Extension safety specialist, worse things than being late to classes because of electrical alarmclock failures can happen.

Careless maintenance, pennies in fuseboxes, octopus cord hook-ups, running wires over nails and under rugs are cause of many costly fires, says Schneider.

"Many Nebraska homes—and this includes fraternity and sorority houses—are 30 or 40 years old," says the safety specialist. "And they are still using the same wiring built in the 30's for today's electrical needs," he added.

in the house because seventeen girls are ironing dresses all at the same time, get out the flashlight and perform this simple four-point check on the electrical system:

- 1) Count the number of outlets. If you have more than two appliances on an outlet, you need more outlets per circuit.
- 2) Do you have more than a dozen outlets per fuse? If you do, you need more circuits.
- 3) Are the wires thick enough? For desk lamps and small radios wires are about 1/4 inch in diameter; for washing machines, stoves, and TV sets, you'll need 3/8 inch wires, irons, toasters, coffee pots and stereos are safe on 3/16 inch wires.
- 4) Is the system properly grounded? Usually there will be one wire leading to a rod in the ground where the other two come into the house. Often there will be a wire leading from the fusebox to a waterpipe, sometimes for double safety, you will find both.
