Student Council Okays New Associates Plan

By JIM MOORE
Nebraskan Staff Writer
The new Student Council associates program came alive yesterday as Sue Moffitt, chairman of the associates committee, announced forthcoming plans for the selection of members.

"Living units eligible for representation will receive a letter concerning the representatives during the next week," explained Miss Moffitt. "The letters must be returned to the Student Council office with the names of the persons nominated from each house by Oct. 17," she said.

Persons from each living unit must sign up for interviews outside the Student Council office as soon as possible.

Interviews will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday of next week.

In other business, Steve Honey, Teachers College representative, moved that a committee be set up to study the flow of student traffic in the major campus buildings and that recommendations be made to the Division of Student Affairs.

Steve Christensen, Law College representative, suggested that Don Burt, president of the Council, write to the president of the University of Mississippi Student Council expressing sympathy with their problem and hope that a peaceful solution might be found.

The problem of the June Commencement is also being studied by Council. Dave Scholz, chairman of that committee reported, "The only possible solution may be a split commencement, but the basic problem still exists as to where it could be held."

"There are many advantages to holding Commencement in Pershing, but most students prefer the coliseum," Scholz commented. "Either place can accommodate approximately the same number of people," Scholz concluded.

The Student Council committee for the study of the reapportionment issue will be chaired by Dick Weill, Burt announced. Anyone wishing to serve on the committee is asked to call either Dick Weill at the Sigma Alpha Mu house or Burt at the Phi Delta Theta house.

★ ★ ★ Parking Board Meets Tuesdays

The Parking Appeals Board meets at 5 p.m. every Tuesday in 339 Student Union.

A student wishing to protest a parking violation should file an appeal with the University Police, and then plan to attend the next meeting of the Appeals Board.

Written appeals may also be acted upon, if received before the meeting by Dale Redman, at the Delta Upsilon house.

Dr. Glenn Conservative In Estimate

Dr. Lyman Glenn who supervised Nebraska's 1960 study of higher education was conservative in estimating future college enrollments at the University.

The California political scientist's enrollment projections indicated the University and the four state teachers colleges could expect an enrollment this fall totaling 13,431. Enrollment however, is actually 15,877.

According to his report, not until 1965 were the state schools expected to have as many students as they do now.

At the present rate, the schools may reach the 20,811 enrollment Dr. Glenn estimated for 1970 by 1965.

Current enrollment at the state schools with Dr. Glenn's prediction for this year in parentheses: University of Nebraska, 10,401 (9,188); Chadron State, 901 (797); Kearney State, 2,255 (1,662); Peru State, 783 (553); Wayne State, 1,537 (1,321).

Sororities Begin '62-'63 Open Rush

Open rush officially began yesterday. All girls on campus interested in pledging must be carrying a scholastic load of at least twelve hours.

Upperclass coeds must have at least a five or "C" average. Open rush will last until the end of the school year, according to a Panhellenic representative.

During open rush, formal rush parties are not held but coedates and dinner invitations are allowed. All girls interested in going through open rush may sign up any time in the Panhellenic office on the third floor of the Student Union.

Jr. IFC Hears Sub Rosa Talk

Bill Buckley, secretary of the Interfraternity Council (IFC), told new Jr. IFC members Tuesday night that joining the organizations is not to be done so for 'activity points.'

Don Ferguson delivered a speech on sub rosa fraternities and their damage to the Greek system at Nebraska. The speech is given in context on the editorial page of today's Daily Nebraskan.

Buckley told the group that Nebraska's IFC is the best in the Big Eight, and one of the best in the United States. He added that serving in the Jr. IFC is a service to the Greek system not to be taken lightly.

NSEA Meets Will Feature Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson, nationally syndicated editorial columnist will be one of eight speakers appearing at the Nebraska State Education Association (NSEA) district conventions Oct. 25 and 26.

Pearson will address the District 1 convention in Lincoln and the District 2 teachers conference in Omaha Oct. 25.

Samuel Brownell, Harold Kessinger, Sen. Gale McGee of Wyoming, and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania will also speak at various conventions throughout the state.

Samuel Brownell, past U.S. Commissioner of Education and Yale University graduate will speak in Lincoln Oct. 26.

Harold Kessinger, national known publisher, educator and bank president will also appear in Lincoln on Oct. 26.

IFC Chooses Hix As Rush Chairman

By GARY LACEY
Nebraskan Staff Writer
Jim Hix, Sigma Phi Epsilon junior, was named rush chairman of the Interfraternity Council (IFC) last night.

In his interview Hix said that he would set up a group of Nebraska fraternity men to canvass the state, especially the western part, in an effort to convince high school seniors to come to the University and become fraternity men.

He said he would reach this goal by talking to high school principals and administrators and to youth in high school activities.

Parents, he noted, should also be convinced that fraternities are not only social clubs.

Other Business
In other council business: John Nolon, Bill Buckley, Jim Hix and Jerry Dickinson were named to attend the National Interfraternity convention to be held in Cleveland, O. the latter part of November.

Giving a rush report, Dave Smith said that applications of interest in Chi Phi and Theta Chi fraternities will be available in the IFC office

KK Meeting

The Kosmet Klub meeting for skitmasters concerning the Fall Show skits is scheduled for next Thursday, instead of tonight as was previously stated.

Rag Correction

It was incorrectly stated in yesterday's Daily Nebraskan that Henry Krous replaced Eugene Baille as activity director of the RAM Council. Baille has replaced Krous in that position.

at the end of the week. Some time in the future the men who signed the applications of interest will be invited to a smoker and will be rushed by members of Chi Phi and Theta Chi, according to Smith.

Councilmen passed a resolution backing up the administration's policies concerning the conduct code of the University. The executive committee of the council is meeting with G. Robert Ross, dean of Student Affairs to insure that the IFC will have the right to voice an opinion in faculty senate legislation against any member of the IFC.

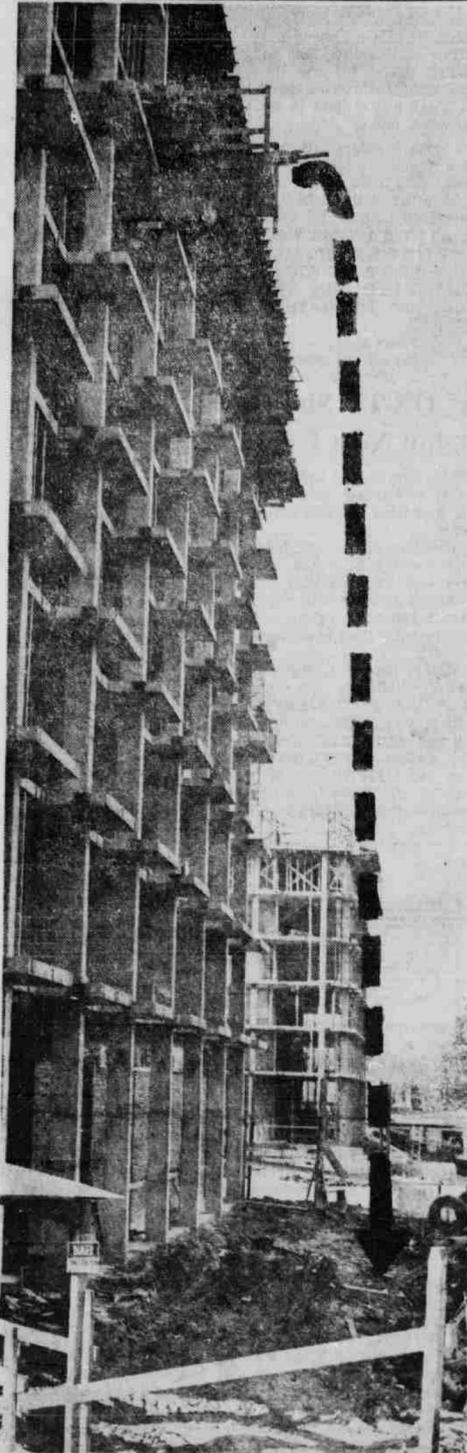

Initiation
A motion to leave the decision of initiating a man below a 5 average in any fraternity up to the council as a whole as opposed to the executive council was also passed. The approval of the executive body is still required, but the council can override an executive decision by a two-thirds affirmative vote.

Seven new amendments to the Jr. IFC constitution were confirmed by the councilmen. Most of the amendments were made to establish new committees.

John Nolon, president of the council, asked members to advise their pledge classes to be more discreet on pledge sneaks. He pointed out that the administration has needlessly been upset recently by the sneaks.

In a survey taken last spring of all the fraternity houses, pledge sneaks were deemed necessary to the unity of a pledge class by almost every fraternity, according to Nolon.

The Sigma Chi representative thanked all the fraternities for their cooperation during 'Derby Day.'

—Fatality on Campus— Seventy Foot Fall Kills Tower Laborer

By KAREN GUNLICKS

A laborer on the Twin Towers died yesterday after falling approximately 70 feet from the east side of the south section of the building.

The accident occurred at 9:30 a.m. William Manning, age 22, 3240 No. 48, whose home is in Bessemer, Ala., landed on his back and bounced about six feet after hitting the ground, according to Joe Whitlatch who observed the fall.

Manning was in the process of stripping forms on the top level at the time he fell. E. H. Masters, captain of campus police, said. He was throwing what is known as "hi chairs" from the building. "Hi chairs" are metal rods with hooks on them and are used for supporting the iron rods which re-enforce the concrete.

According to witnesses Ed Engblom, Adams, Nebr., Marvin Van Vorren, 325 B and Edward Meyers, Panama, Nebr., Manning was tossing several bundles of the "hi chairs" when one of the hooks caught in his pants leg and jerked him off of the tower. He was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Following the accident, all workmen stopped working for the day. This is common practice when a man loses his life on the job, explained M. S. Landers, superintendent for Lippert Brothers Co. of Oklahoma City, contractor of the building.

Safety precautions will be more strictly enforced in the future, Landers said. "There is a tendency for the workmen to become relaxed in their observance of the safety rules as the job progresses," he concluded.

Band Day To Be Telecast

Saturday's 25th annual KUON-TV, the University television station. Those televising stations are: KETV, Omaha; KGIN-TV, Grand Island; KHAS-TV, Hastings; KHOL-TV, Holdrege; KHPL-TV, Hayes Center and KNOP-TV, North Platte.

Lincoln Health Chief Emphasizes 'Houses Must Comply With Code'

By SUE HOVIK
Nebraskan Staff Writer
Many houses can comply to the University Health Code on space requirements if they would just use the space they have more efficiently stated E. W. Simpson, Chief of Lincoln's Environmental Health and Safety Division.

He explained that for two students sleeping and studying in the same room, the first student must have 70 square feet and 50 square feet for each one thereafter. This is a total of 120 feet for the two students.

If the two students sleep in one room (a dorm) and study in another room, they each require 40 square feet in each place for a total of 160 square feet. "It is more costly to maintain dorms and separate study rooms," said Simpson.

Simpson commented that he inspects the organized houses twice a year. Around Thanksgiving time, he inspects the houses on food service, storage, garbage and trash facilities. The bad area in every house is the trash and garbage area according to the Public Health Chief. "It is a never ending problem," he admitted.

In the spring he re-inspects the kitchen and food facilities plus the rest of the entire building including electrical wiring, bedrooms, bathrooms and trunk rooms. "I know that this is not often enough and I hope to do it four times a year when I get additional staff," said Simpson.

Reports of the findings are mailed to the house president, alum advisor and Division of Student Affairs, he explained. On occasions they are sent to the house-mother.

Simpson encouraged houses to have an alumni advisor go through the house with him so that he can explain the criticisms in his reports. "This means more and they are more likely to make the needed changes," he said.

Simpson said that houses correct the violations in operational items immediately, but the larger ones involving more expense take more time. "You can see that houses are complying with the health regulations set up by noticing the new additions that have been built or are being built by the houses," he explained.

Organized houses have three more years in which to make corrections so that they meet the Health Code.

Simpson added that off-campus housing is not being inspected now for two reasons: A lack of time and staff members, and the condition of some of the off-campus housing. He added that 1,000 University men live in 500 private homes in Lincoln and that there would be the problem of what to do with the ones that would have to move out of the buildings that might be condemned.

"I would like to see surprise fire drills which are timed in all the houses," Simpson emphasized. Possible fire hazards are also high points on his check lists.
