

Discussions To Define Americanism Sponsored by Local Radio Station

Beginning tomorrow, a series of fourteen programs based upon De Tocqueville's "Democracy in America" in cooperation with outstanding Nebraskans and KFMQ radio station will be broadcast from Bennett Martin public library starting at 8 p.m.

Every Tuesday evening through Mar. 5, KFMQ will broadcast an episode from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's recorded dramatizations of De Tocqueville's book.

Following the presentation, a discussion based on audience reactions will be broadcast from the auditorium of the new library at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to participate in such discussions of Americanism as the definition of democracy, the meaning of equality and the relationship of the civilian to military establishments.

Throughout the year the discussion topics will also range from the effects of equality on manners and morals, to prisons and prison reforms.

The discussion moderators, expert in the particular area to be explored, will moderate the part of the program involving audience participation.

Among those outstanding Nebraskans to participate are Dr. Carl Schneider, chairman of the University political science department; Governor Frank B. Morrison; Col. Clifford Moore, Commander of the Lincoln Air Force Base.

M. H. Sigler, warden of the Nebraska state penitentiary, Dr. Clifford Hardin, Chancellor of the University; Joe Seacrest, Editor of the Lincoln Journal newspapers; and Judge Paul White, Chief Justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court.

A spokesman of KFMQ commented, "This is the first time such an approach to community discussion has been undertaken, and it is expected to receive wide attention."

Continuing, he said, "Because of the prominence of the moderators, an overflow audience is expected, and it is suggested that an early arrival at the auditorium is advisable."

Union To Show Antique Cards

More than 50,000 antique greeting cards for all occasions will be on display in the Student Union Art Gallery during December.

The collection has been assembled by Hallmark Cards. According to the company, "The collection is the largest and most valuable collection of antique greeting cards in the world."

Many of the items in the display date back to the late 18th century.

"In the collection, the viewer can see the many-sided development of greeting cards since the first Christmas card was printed in 1843 by a middleclass Englishman," said a member of the Student Union Arts and Exhibits Committee.

Nebraskan Applauds

University Agronomist, Dr. John Lonnquist, who was honored recently at a banquet in Grand Island.

Lonnquist received a distinguished service award for his internationally-known work in corn breeding and research concerning the uses of corn amulose.

Schrekinger Emphasizes Individualism

Dr. Albert Schrekinger, professor of the Graduate School of Social Work, was the featured speaker at the Nebraska International Association general assembly Friday evening.

Schrekinger's speech was aimed at the new student on the American campus. "Different countries have different cultures," he said and when students are transplanted into the American culture, they inevitably will be affected in varying degrees.

Continuing, he said, "Consequently, they will have to apply themselves to the new culture."

"Foreign students should not expect much from the people around them," Schrekinger continued, "The American society is a self-made one, composed of self-reliant, self-orientated individuals."

"Therefore, each for himself comes as the first promise," he concluded.

Be Careful With Turkey Stuffing

Treat turkey stuffing with care, advise University Home Economists, to avoid contamination.

Stuff the bird just before roasting, says Emma Wood Gardener, foods and nutrition instructor at the University — otherwise the bacterial count may increase.

After serving, place the stuffing and gravy in small bowls in the refrigerator so they cool rapidly. Leftover turkey also should be stripped from the bones and refrigerated immediately, added Mrs. Gardener.

When cool, turkey, stuffing and gravy should be wrapped separately and tightly stored in the coolest part of the refrigerator and served within three days.

Gov. Morrison, Biegert Receive YD Support

University Young Democrats (YDs) have thrown their support behind Gov. Frank Morrison and National Committeewoman Maurine Bieger in the growing intra-party Democratic feud in Nebraska.

By unanimous resolution at a recent meeting, the YDs endorsed "Gov. Morrison and Mrs. Biegert as the true leaders of the Nebraska Democratic Party."

National Committeeman Bernard Boyle and State Chairman Russell Hanson came in for YDs' fire because they "have failed to provide the type of leadership needed for the Democratic Party in Nebraska," the resolution stated.

The YD resolution said Boyle and Hanson "have failed to offer their resignations in the face of growing discontent toward them in the party."

"Therefore," the student Democrats asserted they "fully support the actions of . . . (Mrs.) Biegert during the past week."

Mrs. Giegert called a Sunday meeting of the Democratic state central committee in Grand Island to discuss the party's future and evaluate the election's results.

The governor and Mrs. Biegert were wished "success in building a respected and responsible Democratic Party for the state of Nebraska."

YD President Gary Thompson said the resolution was adopted after a talk by John Kelley, administrative assistant to Gov. Morrison.

Kelley, however, had nothing to do with the resolution, Thompson noted.

Kelley said several Omaha Democrats did not vote for Dr. Thomas N. Bonner, Omaha University history professor who was defeated for Congress by Rep. Glenn Cunningham, because "they did not like Boyle."

NU Debaters Win Contests

The University's debaters had a busy weekend with eight teams debating in three different places.

At Kearney, Susie Moffitt and Judy Brumm won the debate category in the tournament. Twenty-two teams from ten schools entered the contest. Tom Chandler and Mike Culwell won three and lost one of their debates at this tournament.

At the tournament in Wichita, Kans., Dick Weill and Gary Pokorny reached the semi-finals where they won two and lost one. Steve George and Gary Radil won three and lost three of their debates at the contest.

Four beginning debate teams traveled to Vermillion, S.D. Susan Segrist and Judy Schneider were undefeated in this tournament.

Steve Durham and Norman Longmigh won two and lost two of their debates. Lyn Allen and Bill Wood won three and lost one. Jeene Anderson and Judy Pearce won one and lost three.

Students Attend Architects Meet

Three University architecture students are attending the student forum for the American Institute of Architects (AIA) in Washington, D. C.

The forum which began yesterday and lasts until Wednesday, is limited to juniors and seniors specializing in the field of architecture.

The three students selected to attend are: Garry Harley, president of the University AIA chapter; Richard Robinson, fifth year class director of the AIA chapter; and Allen Elliott, a fourth year student. The students were selected by upperclassmen in their college.

NU Departments Receive Grants

The University's departments of zoology and physiology have received a $9,263 grant from the U. S. Public Health Service for continuation of research by Dr. Benjamin W. McCashland.

This is the eighth year of the study, entitled "Adaptation of Protozoa to Metabolic Inhibitors." As part of the research, protozoa—tiny, one-celled animals, which are grown in increasing amounts of cyanide in solution—develop a resistance to this normally deadly poison.

In the research program, these problems are considered: why the protozoa react in this way; how and in what way the cells are changed, and whether the resistance is in any way inherited or just the reaction of each individual.
