

NU's Carlson, Claridge On All-Big Eight Squad

All Senior Line on Mythical Team

By RICK AKIN
Sports Editor

Seven seniors, all on the line, dominate this year's Eight football team even though underclassmen took all of the backfield spots.

In the back field, Dennis Claridge, Nebraska junior quarterback grabbed the leadership spot in close race with Dave Hoppmann, the Iowa State offensive standout.

Claridge led the surprising Huskers by gaining 370 yards on the ground and 829 yards through the air.

Three sophomores, Gale Sayers, Jim Grisham and Johnny Roland, grabbed the other three backfield spots on the mythical team.

Sayer, Roland Sops

Sayers, 190-pounder from Omaha, and Roland, 191-pounder from Corpus Christie, Tex., carried the load in their teams' bid for conference honors with both carrying the ball a majority of the time.

Grisham, from Olney, Tex., was a surprise to the Big Eight as he led the Sooners to the championship. He picked up 234 yards in Oklahoma's two most important games this season, Missouri and Nebraska.

At the ends are Conrad Hitchler and Ken Blair. Hitchler is noted more for his defensive ability than pass catching and should make a strong bid for All-American by some of the experts.

Blair Receiver

Blair, on the other hand, is a pass-catching specialist and along with teammate, John Flynn, did most of weak Colorado's receiving.

He is the only player from a second division team to make the team.

Tom Hertz from Missouri and Dwain Carlson, from Nebraska hold down the guard spots. Carlson was co-captain of the Cornhuskers and was tough as nails from his line-backing spot or from his weak-side guard position.

Hertz Anchors

Hertz anchored the tough Missouri line, the best phase of the Tigers' play this season.

At the tackles are Jerry Wallach, from Missouri, and Dennis Ward, from Oklahoma. Wallach, an ex-marine from Fenton, Mo., played alongside Hitchler which made running around the left side of the Tiger line a near impossibility.

Ward, a senior from Bartlesville, Okla., led a speedy but small Oklahoma line which allowed opponents only 13 points in conference play.

Wayne Lee, 211-pound senior from Ada, Okla., rounds out the team at center. Lee will also see action at the Orange Bowl where he and Ward will try to bring Oklahoma and the Big Eight a victory over Alabama, a national powerhouse.

Huskers Lose Out In Triple Dual

Nebraska's wrestling team suffered a decisive defeat at a meet with three midwest wrestling powers at Terre Haute, Indiana, Saturday.

Bloomsburg Teachers of Pennsylvania, defending NAA champion, won the meet easily as the small school took 24 of 29 matches. Indiana State took second place as Wisconsin and Nebraska trailed in that order.

The young Husker squad was beaten in all three of their duals. They lost to Bloomsburg, 26 to 4; Indiana State, 28 to 8; and scored Wisconsin 16 to 15.

Steve Walenz, a sophomore seeing his first varsity action, was undefeated during the afternoon. Mike Nissen was also undefeated and along with Ken Fox and Walenz scored most of the Scarlet's points.

Big Eight Season Ends Sooners Down Okie State

Big Eight champion Oklahoma completed its finest regular season since 1953, defeating Oklahoma State for the 17th straight time Saturday at Stillwater, 37-6.

The Sooners won their 7th consecutive contest and their 8th of the season by scoring three times in the first quarter. Oklahoma moved 68 yards to score five plays after the start of the game.

Quarterback Monte Deere again led the Sooner offense, scoring on a 22-yard run and throwing for three touchdowns.

Club Schedules Judo Exhibition

Sachio Ashida will compete against the entire University Judo club in a judo exhibition in the Union Ballroom Thursday. This may be the last appearance of Ashida in an exhibition of this type since he is leaving the University after this semester.

The exhibition will consist of about 200 basic and advanced techniques, holds and throws. There will be a demonstration of combat techniques against knives, guns and swords. Chuck Yamakawa will give a karate demonstration.

Donations given at the time will go to supporting the U.S. Olympic judo team in the 1964 olympics.

South Dakota, Iowa and Minnesota are sending people to this exhibition to find out more about the Nebraska Judo Club, which Mr. Ashida organized.

Ashida started in judo at the age of 12. By the age of 16 he had received the Black Belt, the highest degree of proficiency in Judo application. At the age of 19 he was the youngest member of the Board of Examiners of the Black Belt Federation of America and was the top judoist in the United States.

The exhibition is sponsored by the Union Entertainment Committee.

Houston To Be Foe After Cagers Drop Red Raiders, 68-66

Nebraska's spirited basketball team led by a thirty point output by Charlie Jones eased by Texas Tech, 68-66, at Lubbock, Tex., last Saturday night for a season-opening win.

The Huskers rallied with less than two minutes left in the contest with two field goals by Jones and a game-winning hook-shot by big Bill Vincent with seven seconds remaining in the game.

The Scarlet cagers will continue their southern trip when coach Jerry Bush's roundballers meet a tough Houston quintet at Houston tonight.

Jones brought the 8,300 partisan crowd to their feet with 1:42 remaining and the Huskers trailing 66-62. The smooth guard then tipped in a missed shot, seconds later stole the ball from Royce Woolard and with 70 seconds left, hit the lay-in to tie the ball game 66-all.

Timeout

With 26 seconds left a missed shot by Tech's Sid Wall was taken by Nebraska and time out was immediately called.

The Huskers played for the final shot and Vincent's hook coming inside the keyhole came with a mere seven seconds left in the game giving the contest to the invading Huskers.

Bush's cagers hit 53.1% of their field goals compared to 40.4% for Texas Tech. The Huskers came on in the second half with a creditable 61.9% after holding a slight 38-37 intermission edge.

At this point the Raiders took the lead and held it until returning letterman Jan Wall and Jones each hit two free throws with 63 seconds left to give the Huskers 1 28-37 half-time lead.

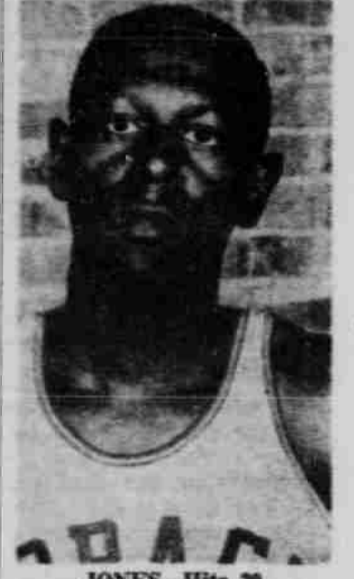

Tech couldn't find the range in the third quarter as they went scoreless for nearly three and a half minutes while the Huskers ran up a 58-47 difference.

The Raiders came back and tied the contest 60-all and then with 4:30 remaining took a three point lead.

Jones and Harold Denney traded baskets to make it 65-62 before Jones missed a free throw and Tech began to stall to protect its three point margin.

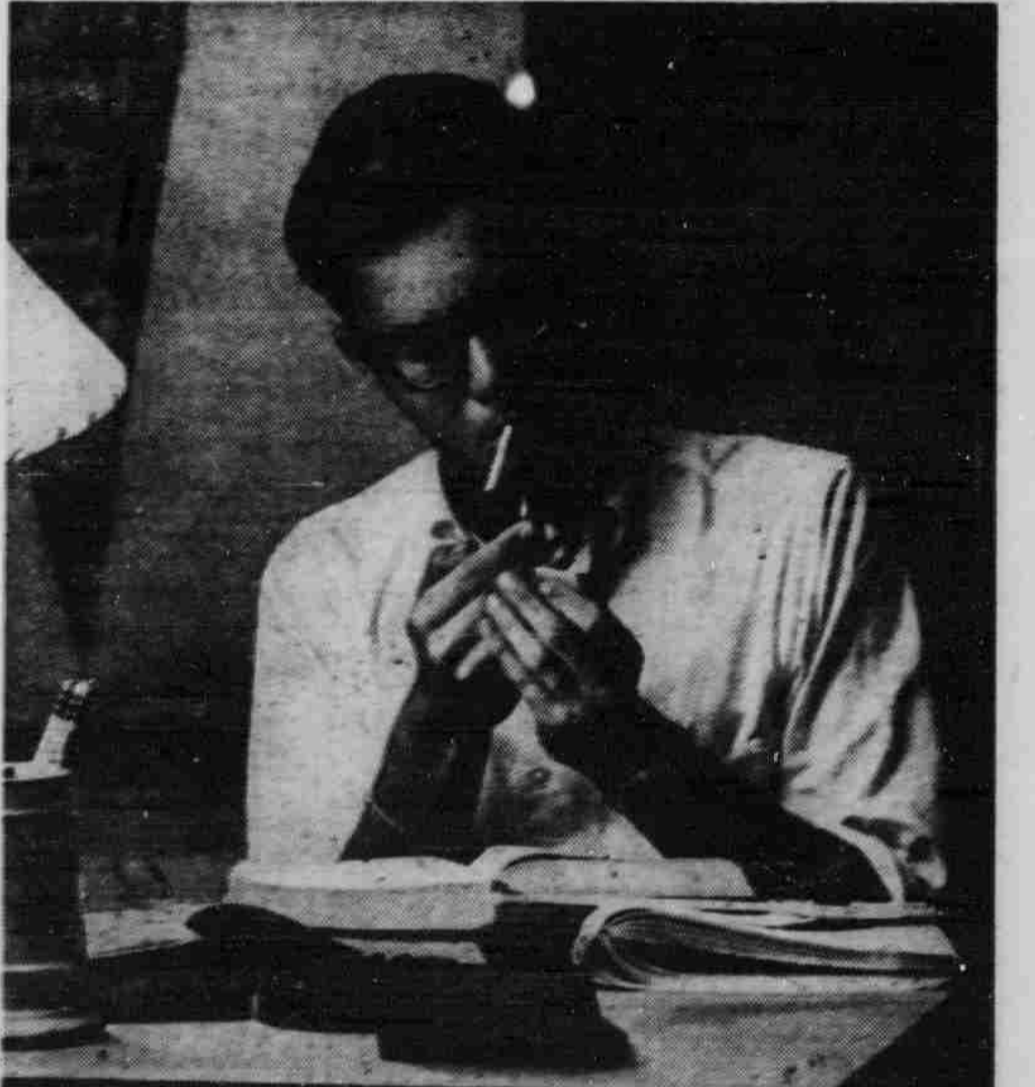

A charity toss by Glenn Hallum with 1:53 left came before the Huskers could gain possession and install their game winning rally.
