

Six Ag Students Receive 4-H Club Scholarships

Six University students were awarded scholarships at the ninth annual University 4-H Club banquet held last night at the Nebraska Center.

The new scholars are the latest in a long line of students attending the Ag College since 1928 who have been awarded scholarships through 4-H Club work.

Newly announced winners are: Joan Skinner and Kenneth Cock, sophomores, $50 Frisbie scholarships.

Sandra Stork and Richard Jorgensen, freshman, $150 Watkins scholarships.

Linda Rickertsen, George Libal, freshman, $100 Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce scholarships.

Seven other students will be given checks covering scholarships announced previously. They include: Vicki Cline and Jerry Hill, freshmen, and Gary Fick, sophomore, $150 scholarships from Radio station KFAB, Omaha.

A new award by the club, to go annually to a former club member who is "Making the Best Better," was presented to Clayton Yeutter, University law senior and former president of the club. A 4-H emblem paperweight was presented to Yeutter as a personal token, and his name was engraved on a permanent plaque to be displayed by the club.

The father of three children, Yeutter operates a 2,000 acre ranch north of Eustis. At present, he is working simultaneously on a law degree and a Ph.D. degree in agricultural economics.

The 31-year-old law student is a member of the University's 3-man moot court team which is competing for the national moot court finals in New York City December 18. He has maintained better than an 8.1 grade point average in law and as an undergraduate for seven years.

Gardner Speaks At Conference

A University of Illinois agricultural official will speak at the annual University Professional Opportunities Conference today on the agricultural campus.

Dr. Karl Gardner, associate dean of agriculture at the University of Illinois, will speak at a luncheon in the College Activities Building at 1 p.m., according to Charles H. Adams, chairman of the event and assistant professor of animal husbandry.

Following the noon luncheon at 2 p.m., there will be three general sessions where students may hear discussions by representatives of 37 different fields in ag-business and home economics. Both students in the College of Agriculture and other colleges of the University are welcome to take part in the sessions.

Industry representatives will be available to discuss these job opportunities in a large number of fields.

Educational Television Reaches 157 Schools

Twenty-six television programs are broadcast each week to elementary and high school students in Nebraska through educational television (ETV). Teachers of these students receive 26 programs a month.

The programs are broadcast by the University's TV station KUON-TV. A total of 2,525 classrooms in 157 schools are equipped to receive ETV.

In a study of ETV, the pros and cons of the system were listed.

One advantage of ETV is that it brings superior techniques to the attention of supervisors and classroom teachers. Also, educational television brings about a re-evaluation of curriculum and course objectives and richer educational experiences than ordinarily possible under the conventional classroom format.

No Open Circuit
Open circuit television enables parents to watch the same educational programs as their children. Nebraska does not have an open circuit as yet, but five channels which will reach 95 per cent of Nebraska's population, have been reserved for this purpose.

Besides substantial savings in teaching positions and classroom space, more time is available for individuals if the teaching staff is not reduced, continued the report.

It was noted that television stimulated note-taking ability as well as the art of speaking clearly and distinctly in large classes.

Facilities Inadequate
Difficulties of the program were sighted by the study. Classroom facilities are inadequate since school cafeterias and auditoriums were not designed for television showed.

Finding, recruiting and training studio teachers is difficult and it is hard for the classroom teacher to adjust, to be trained for the techniques of handling large classes.

The report also noted that curriculum revamping, to take full advantage of television possibilities, is quite complex in adjusting to the varying abilities of students.

The final problem, according to the report, is that the quality of the output can only be as good as the quality of the input. A mediocre teacher on television communicates her mediocrity to a much wider audience than she would in a classroom, it explained.

Non-commercial educational television began in Nebraska on Nov. 1, 1954, when KOUN-TV had its first broadcast. Morning educational programs were telecast.

In the summer of 1956 an agreement was made between the Fund for Adult Education and the University's Board of Regents to grant $100,000 from the Fund to the University for the purchase of television equipment.

In 1957 KOUN-TV began programming from its own studios in Temple Building with equipment provided by the fund donated by the John Fetzer Foundation.

Council Formed
The beginning of instructional television led to the formation of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television, Inc., under which 34 Nebraska school systems now participate in the instructional project.

Last spring Congress passed a bill, signed by President Kennedy, allotting $32 million from federal funds for ETV to the states on a matching basis.

In May, 1961, the Nebraska Legislature passed Legislative Resolution 26 endorsing the study of extension of ETV throughout the state.

STATE-WIDE ETV-The map shows the proposed five additional channel areas, in addition to Channel 12, Lincoln, which will provide educational television to 95 per cent of Nebraska's population.

On Registration

All Junior Division students are reminded by Mrs. Irma Laase at the Registrar's office to follow specific registration instructions already mailed through the Junior Division.

Mrs. Laase also noted that a $25 deposit is not necessary for second semester registration.

ANNOUNCING THE 1963-1964 AFFLERBACH FELLOWSHIPS*

BACKGROUND OF THE COMPETITION: No matter how much time our People in Naming spend thinking up just the right color names for our shirts (Maize, Stone Green, Peat Blue, etc.), the Eagle Secret Shoppers inevitably report that you choose your Eagle shirts with such statements as "Gimme six of them greenish ones" or "Could I bother you for two or three dozen of those stri-ped ones." Our problem is in selecting names which will capture the imagination of the shirt-buying public. NATURE OF THE COMPETITION: The 10 Afferbachs for 1963-64 will go to those persons suggesting the best names for our colors. Imagination-capturing names, like Well Red, Long Green, Charlie Brown, or Navel Orange. You may wish to inspect our shirts—for inspiration, if not purchase. Eagle shirts don't always have an Eagle label—some fine stores sew in their own—but if you write us, we'll suggest your nearest Eagle Shirt Color Inspection Station. STIPEND: The grand prize winner will have his (or her) choice of a Traveling Afferbach (a grand all-expense-paid weekend at the Bush House in Quakertown—an exciting chance to become acquainted with the natives—many of whom are us, including Miss Revera Afferbach, herself) or a Stationary Afferbach (a dozen Eagle Button-down shirts). The 9 other Afferbachs will consist of a grant of four Eagle Button-down shirts. Each, that is. RULES: The competition is open to all students and faculty members at schools, as well as to those who have filled in the coupon below.

*This, actually, is Eagle's second competition in as many years. Those of you who partook of the first, that is, what to do with the pocket on a Shirtkerchief, will doubtless be excited to learn that the book containing many of your letters to Miss Afferbach has now been published by the Macmillan Co. and is now available at your bookseller. We have called it Dear Miss Afferbach, or The Postman Hardly Ever Rings 11,342 Times, and the price is $4.95.
