

Qualified Juniors May Participate In NU Program at U of Mexico

Qualified students may now attend El Colegio de Mexico in Mexico City under a special program and get full credit for their course work.

Dr. Roberto Esquenazi-Mayo of the department of romance languages said a special junior year program of study in language, literature, history and international relations has been planned.

Under the program, University students who qualify may take special courses at El Colegio under several distinguished faculty members and other outstanding Central and South American professors.

Students accepted for the Mexican study program will receive intensive language instruction in June 1963, before the semester begins in July. The students will live with Mexican families and the group's activities will be under the supervision of a resident faculty couple from the University.

Dr. Esquenazi said that while some scholarship assistance may become available for travel, students must assume responsibility for all expenses for the year, expected to be approximately

Dean Notes Public Image Of Sororities

"We don't realize that public relations are the sum total of what we say and what we do," Frank Hallgren, associate dean of the Division of Student Affairs told Panhellenic Monday.

Talking to the sorority presidents, Panhellenic delegates and publicity chairmen, Dean Hallgren said that at different times with different groups people act differently.

He said that the sorority image is conveyed by the alumnae, faculty members, housewives, cooks and bus-boys. These people give ideas to others on what they see and thus the sorority image is formed in the eyes of outsiders.

Dean Hallgren told Panhellenic that he believes the general public is misinformed on sororities.

He said that greeks can help their public image by recognizing that a group's public relations are based on what it actually is.

To help improve the public image of sororities, the Dean told the delegates that they must be sure their programs are in keeping with their goals and aims.

The dean cautioned the women against being a success because their ideals are noble and present activities are a success. "There is no indication that these things will remain so," he added.

Dean Hallgren concluded by saying that sorority women should be careful what subjects they place emphasis on when talking to outsiders.

In the business meeting, Panhellenic gave individual voice consent on the innocents questionnaire concerning joint house Homecoming displays.

Some of the delegates thought the entry fee was high. General comment also favored announcing names of the display judges previous to the judging and the criteria the displays are judged on.

Some of the delegates also expressed a desire for small and large house divisions in the joint division.

Panhellenic unanimously passed a motion by Carla Tortora that the organization actively support and participate in the Senators Program. Jeanne Carlson announced that Independent Women's Association Council and Junior Panhellenic will attend the Panhellenic Christmas Party next Monday.

—Dedication Planned— Woods Cornerstone To Be Placed Friday

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for the half-million dollar Nelle Cochrane Woods building on the University city campus will be held at 11 a.m. Friday.

The structure, northwest of the new Sheldon Memorial Art Galleries, 12th and R streets, will house the offices and classrooms of the art department.

The ceremonies will be held at the south entrance of the building and in case of bad weather will be moved indoors.

Speakers will include University Regent Dr. Ben N. Greenberg, Frank Wood, treasurer of the Wood Charitable Foundation and son of the late Nelle Cochrane Woods, and Prof. Duard Laging, chairman of the University's department of art. Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin will be master of ceremonies.

The three-story building, constructed to harmonize with the Sheldon Art Gallery, is being financed in part by a $250,000 grant to the University Foundation by the Woods Foundation.

The building was named after Mrs. Nelle Cochrane Woods, who played an important role in the growth of the Nebraska Art Association. She was a 1893 graduate of the University and was a trustee of the NAA for 21 years. In 1932 she served as president. She died in 1950 at the age of 80.

Honored guests will include members and friends of the Woods family, trustees of the Nebraska Art Association, University Regents, and the staff of the department of art.

Contents prepared for inclusion in the stone are a brochure describing the foundation, the photograph of Nelle Cochrane Woods, a picture of the present art faculty and a list of names of the University art faculty members from the founding of the department, a history of the Nebraska Art Association, copy of the agreement between the Woods Foundation and the University, a photo of the actual cornerstone laying, and newspapers of the day.

Free Baby-Sitting

J-Schoolers Compile Book

University journalism students compiled, wrote, edited, and sold advertising for the 1962 yearbook of the Lincoln Ad Club, The Sig, which was distributed yesterday.

The club, which stated in the yearbook that its high priority item is "education for advertising," turned over the project to the advertising and magazine students.

The students, who worked under the supervision of Robert Bogue, lecturer in advertising, and the late Alan Marshall, magazine writing and editing professor, were:

Advertising—Paula Warner, Pamela Holloway, Lori Bredeson, Ginger Frazier Jensen and Jay Azimzadeh.

Writing and Editing—Joan Brown, Bess Day, Dennis King, Judie Waser, Tomilee Hughes, Sue Isaacson, Judi Lee, Larry Wardell and Sandra Lyster.

The cover photograph, a night scene of Lincoln, was taken by Rosemary Smallwood, also a student at the school.

Printing, paper and binding for the book were done gratis by printers and paper suppliers who are members of the Ad Club.
