

Nebraskans Review 'Great Decisions'

Can eight big international problems be solved by small group discussions? The European Common Market will highlight an eight-week series of citizen reviews of American foreign policy which will begin Feb. 3, around the state, according to a University staff member.

'Messiah' Concert— A 500-voice Choral Union and the University Symphony Orchestra will present the traditional performance of Handel's "Messiah" Sunday at 3 p.m. in the University Coliseum. The public is invited and there is no admission charge. Prof. Earl F. Jenkins will conduct the performance.

Woods Stone Will Be Set

Cornerstone laying ceremonies of the half million dollar Nello Cochran Woods building will take place today at 11 a.m. The building is located immediately northwest of the new Sheldon Art Gallery, at 12th and R streets. Ceremonies will be held at the south entrance of the building. The structure will house offices and classrooms of the art department, and was constructed to complement the Sheldon Art Gallery. Speakers on the program include University Regent Dr. Ben N. Greenberg, Frank Wood, treasurer of the Wood Charitable Foundation and son of the late Nello Cochran Woods, and Prof. Duane Laging, chairman of the University department of art. Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin will serve as master of ceremonies.

Med College Given Grant

The University's College of Medicine at Omaha recently announced a $9,430 grant for improving methods of oxygenating blood, marking the fourth year of support from the National Heart Institute. Normally the lungs take carbon dioxide out of the blood and replace it with oxygen in the blood circulation cycle. In open heart surgery, however, a heart-lung machine performs this function and then releases the blood into the arterial pathways. Heart-lung machines now in use require a lot of Red Cross blood to prime the system, which is a costly use of blood. Dr. F. Lowell Dunn, chief of cardiovascular research and recipient of the grant, is working on a whirligig disc method which requires less blood and which may lead to an unusually efficient oxygenator.

Cecil Bromfield and Roger Jorgenson, sophomore medical students, are assisting Dr. Dunn in the investigation.

The big problem in oxygenating blood, reports Dr. Dunn, is to spread it into a very thin film so that carbon dioxide will be lost and replaced with oxygen without damaging the blood.

This may be done by blowing small oxygen bubbles into the blood, but many physicians hesitate to employ the method because of the fear of residual bubbles in the blood.

The disc-type oxygenator most widely used requires a considerable reservoir of blood into which flat discs slowly dip and bring up small quantities for oxygenation—a method exposing blood to a lot of foreign surface.

The whirligig disc method, explained Dr. Dunn, spreads the blood into a thin film and sprays it against a surface carefully shaped to prevent damage to the red cells. Many kinds of discs are being tried in the research. The surface and material exposed to the blood also must be considered in developing any oxygenator.

'Squirk' Is March Play

The national play-writing contest award-winning script, "Squirk," will be the next play produced by the University Theater.

Open tryouts will be held Monday from 7-9:30 p.m.; Tuesday, 3-5:30 and 7-9:30 p.m.; and Wednesday 3-5:30 and 7-9:30 p.m. in Howell Theater.

Dr. Joseph Baldwin, professor of speech and dramatic art and the director of the play, said that any University student may compete on an equal basis for casting, if he is eligible.

"Squirk," written by William Walden of New York City, a member of the administrative staff of the New York magazine, won the National Playwriting Contest for 1961-62. It will be given its first performance in Howell Theater in March.

Dr. Baldwin said that the early tryouts do not mean that they intend to rehearse steadily from now until March. "What we do need, since this is a new play in an unusual style, is to get an early study of the play, and some early rehearsals to help the director and designer arrive at the best artistic decision about the form and design of the play," Dr. Baldwin said.

"Squirk" was described by the director as a fascinating satiric comedy, calling for an expressionistic production.

Thirty-six roles are open in the play.

Language Requirement Is Modified

A foreign language requirement for the Ph.D. degree which has caused informal professorial debates for years at the University has now been modified by a vote of the Graduate Faculty.

According to Dean Roy Holly of the Graduate College, the old requirement — a reading knowledge of two foreign languages on a specified list — still stands for those who choose to meet it but others may qualify by demonstrating a reading knowledge of one foreign language and meeting one of the following three alternatives:

— Demonstration of a comprehensive knowledge of one foreign language (it can be the same as used for reading) by fluency and effective two-way translation; or — Demonstration of a mastery of a special research technique approved by the student's committee and the Graduate Council; or — Demonstration of an acquisition of knowledge, after enrollment in graduate study, in a field collateral to the student's major. Completion of at least 15 credit hours of study in the collateral field is expected.

The graduate faculty has also cleared the way for the University to offer study leading to the master's and Ph.D. degrees in adult education and to the master's degree in actuarial science.

"LET NOTHING YOU DISMAY"
One of a million carolers. And on Christmas Eve she will bring comfort, reassurance, joy to many.
Mrs. J. is blind. She has never seen the carolers... but eagerly she listens for their arrival.
Mr. H. is an invalid. His nurse invites the boys and girls in and serves them cocoa. Mr. H. loves their happy smiles as well as their joyous voices.
Little Paul R. broke his leg last Saturday. That's why he's not caroling this year. But they'll be around to sing "Silent Night" under his window. That one is Paul's favorite.
When you hear the carolers on Christmas Eve, pause and consider the Love that inspires their singing. That Love was born in a Bethlehem stable one holy night centuries ago.
