

Spirit, Enthusiasm Mark Track Squad

By JAN SACK
Sports Staff Writer
As the indoor season draws near, spirit and enthusiasm ride high among the Nebraska trackmen and their coaches, Frank Sevigne and Ike Hanscom.

They remember all too well the Big Eight Indoor Championship last year when Nebraska played the bridesmaid's role to perennially powerful Kansas. The Scarlet lost to the Jayhawks by 11/12 of a point.

Coach Sevigne is looking forward to a rough conference this season. He definitely counts the Huskers as one of the favorites, but they will have their work cut out for them as Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma hold similar hopes.

Fleming a Winner
Fleming won the two-mile indoor race with a clocking of 9:17.6 and Moore breezed the high hurdles in :07.4 for first place and then ran second in the lows with a :06.9. Wilke won the lows in :06.9 and grabbed second in the highs behind teammate Moore.

Sevigne has 31 men on the varsity team this year. Seven are seniors, 11 juniors and 13 sophomores. Like last year the Huskers' biggest stronghold is in the track events.

Sevigne said Victor Brooks, Tom Saunders, Harry Krebs and Jim Murphy will not be eligible to participate until second semester. They will see their first action against Oklahoma State.

Knaub Back
Senior Ray Knaub will lead the sprint corps. The Scottsbluff speedster has clockings of :06.2 for the 60-yard dash.

Gil Gebo, junior from New York City, heads the 440 and 600-yard men. George O'Boyle, Dick Strand and Jim Murphy, all sophomores, and Tom Saunders, junior from Columbus, will strengthen the Cornhuskers.

The middle distance crew boasts of such strong names as Ray Stevens, senior from North Platte; Bill Kenny, senior from Waterloo, Ia.; John Portee, junior from Newark, N.J.; senior Clarence Scott from New York City and Jim Wendt, sophomore from Kenosha, Wis. Stevens' best 880 time last year at 1:54.7 puts him in a favorable position.

Two of the top hurdlers in the Big Eight bolster the Nebraska title hopes. Moore will receive plenty of support from Fred Wilke of Omaha who placed in both hurdle events in the conference last year.

Wilke leading the high jumpers has cleared the bar at 6-4. Sophomores Jack Cramer, Ken Cook, Sam Samyelson and Harry Krebs and juniors Juris Jesifers and Wesley Paulsen will lend support.

Jim Pile, a sophomore, and Jesifers are the Scarlet cindermen in the pole vault. Shot putters include sophomore Dick Hotze and junior Roland Johnson.
