

Midwest Institute Course Begins Monday at Center

The fourth Midwest Institute for Young Adults will begin Monday.

The Institute, an eight week course for young adults who do not intend to attend college, will be held at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

According to Dr. Otto Hoiberg, director of the Institute, 26 young people have already registered for the course.

Young adults participating in the eight week course live in the Nebraska Center and attend classes there.

Dr. Hoiberg said that seven courses are offered in Agriculture and four in business. These are called the "Learn to Earn" courses. Additional courses are offered in music, art and public speaking.

Each student usually registers for six or seven courses. Dr. Hoiberg said that students receive no credit for completing the course since they do not intend to get a college degree, the experience is more valuable.

Dr. Hoiberg added that there is no age limit on people attending the Institute. He noted that more of the students are from 19-22 years old, but that last year one student was 37 years old.

'Final Blast' Hop Set Tomorrow

The second annual "Final Blast" sock hop sponsored by UNICORNS will be held tomorrow from 8-11 p.m. in the Student Union Pan American room for all University and Wesleyan students.

The Johnny Cox band will play for the event and there will be door prizes for those attending.

The purpose is to provide University students with a chance to celebrate the end of classes and to relax in an informal dance before getting into the study routine of finals, said Dick Goeller, publicity chairman of UNICORNS.

Cost of the tickets is 75 cents per person.

Also on tonight's agenda is Gilbert and Sullivan's "Overture." A three part series presents Gilbert and Sullivan, their lives and operettas.

Cronland Reschedules Adult Stocks, Bonds Short Course at Center

An adult short course in stocks and bonds has been rescheduled because of heavy demand for the course.

According to John Cronland, coordinator at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, the course has been rescheduled to start Jan. 29 at 7 p.m.

The course was originally scheduled to start last week, but was called off because not enough people registered. But on the night the course was supposed to start, 30 people who had not registered showed up, said Cronland.

Dr. Keith L. Broman, associate professor of business organization and management will lecture at the courses. He has special training in adult courses and conferences.

Cronland said the class will be filled on a first register, first served basis. Information on registration may be found by calling or writing Cronland at the Center.

Professors Analyze Learning

Students May Aid Research Project

Professors Robert Stake and Douglas Sjagien of the University Educational Psychology Department have been working on a U.S. Office of Education research project.

They have been working on the project—a study of the effects of involvement of the learner in his tasks—for two years. Special programmed textbooks and teaching machines as well as conventional materials are used in the experiment, according to Prof. Stake.

He said that efforts in the project have been to control and examine various influences on human learning in a laboratory situation, rather than to examine activities of usual classrooms.

This spring the two men will have 100 undergraduate students studying, under carefully controlled conditions, such topics as the English money system and alcoholic fermentation.

Prof. Stake said that most of the topics studied will be subjects which students will not ordinarily encounter. Students participating will be paid $25 for helping in the program.

Approximately 2 hours per week will be all the time students will spend on the project. Students interested in participating can apply in 107 Teachers College.

Despite patrols on the Red China border, 200 to 300 refugees reach Hong Kong every week. CARE has special $1 Food Crusade packages to help new arrivals and other needy Chinese families in the colony.
