

MAY QUEEN—Finalists for May Queen were chosen in elections last Wednesday. They are: Front Row: Ruthanne Read, Kim Pohlman, Pam Hirschbach and Marty Elliott. Back Row: Marty Anderson, Julie Westerhoff, Vicki Cullen and Helen Landis. Not pictured are Judy Tenhulzen and Gale Brannigan.

Coeds Vote Wednesday For May Queen, Maid

Ten finalists for May Queen were chosen in the all women's primaries. The May Queen and Maid of Honor will be chosen by a vote of all junior and senior women on Wednesday at All Women's Elections and the winners will be revealed on Ivy Day.

The finalists include: Marty Anderson, Alpha Omicron Pi. Her activities include Union Board of Managers, Union Program Council, Recording Secretary of her sorority, past president of Red Cross and a member of the 1962 Ivy Day Court.

Gayle Brannigan is affiliated with Pi Beta Phi. She is president of Pi Beta Phi in 1962. She is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, Young Democrats, AUF and Newman Club.

Vicki Cullen is a member of Gamma Phi Beta. Her activities include Builders past vice-president, Gamma Phi Beta past president, 1962 Ivy Day Court, Coed Follies skitmaster, Greek Week chairman, Spring Day executive committee, 1961 finalist for Honorary Commandant, Pi Sigma Alpha and Regents Upperclass Scholarship.

Marty Elliott is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Her activities include Iassels, 1962 Homecoming chairman, Cadence Countesses secretary, Alpha Lambda Delta, Sigma Alpha Eta, Pi Lambda Theta, dorm counselor, Cornhusker Beauty Queen finalist, 1962 finalist for Nebraska Sweetheart, 1961 Miss Navy and Lincoln Project.

Pam Hirschbach is a member of Chi Omega. She is AUF past vice-president, Chi Omega past president, Coed Follies skitmaster, AWS Board member, 1962 finalist for Nebraska Sweetheart and Kosmet Klub spring show.

Helen Landis is affiliated with Alpha Chi Omega. Her activities include Union past chairman, AUF past chairman, Alpha Chi Omega past chaplain and activities chairman.

Kim Polman is a member of Alpha Phi. Her activities include Aquaettes, Union past chairman, YWCA past cabinet member, Alpha Phi past treasurer and president, AWS vice-president, 1962 Ivy Day Court and Regents Upperclass Scholarship.

Ruthanne Read is a member of Pi Beta Phi. Her activities include Union past chairman, Orchesis past vice-president, 1961 Miss Air Force, Angel Flight commander and 1960 finalist for Miss Lincoln.

Judy Tenhulzen is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She is in the University Singers, Mu Phi Epsilon, Pi Lambda Epsilon, Kappa Alpha Theta past pledge trainer, Red Cross past chairman, 1960 finalist for Miss Lincoln and 1961 finalist for Miss Iowa.

Julie Westerhoff is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi. Her activities include AWS board member, past corresponding secretary of her sorority, Builders past secretary, Cadence Countesses and Lutheran Student Assembly past secretary.

SS Test Applications Are Due March 27

Applications for the Selective Service College Qualification Test to be given April 18 are now available at the Selective Service local boards throughout Nebraska, according to Lt. General Guy N. Hennig, State Director.

Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight Wednesday, March 27. The test will be offered at the University.

Test scores will provide local boards with evidence of aptitude for continued undergraduate and graduate study. The scores will not of themselves determine eligibility for deferment. But they are considered with other information by the boards in determining whether to defer.

Campus Calendar

TODAY
UNICORNS meeting, 332 Student Union, 7 p.m. Linda Jensen, Daily Nebraskan editor will speak.

TOMORROW
FACULTY SENATE, 4 p.m. Student Union.
FACULTY RECITAL, Leon Lishner, 7:30 p.m., Union Ballroom.

SIGMA XI annual business meeting, Dr. Robert B. Johnson speaker, 7:30 p.m., Bessy Hall Auditorium.

WEDNESDAY
RED CROSS mass meeting, 7 p.m., 333-334 Union.

Tickets Now Available For Air Force Ball

Tickets for the second annual Air Force Ball go on sale today at the Military and Naval Science drill hall, according to Terry Miller, Commander of the Arnold Air Society.

The tickets will be sold each day for two weeks from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., for the March 22 ball at the LAFF officer's club, Miller said.

The cost of a ticket for one couple is seven dollars, he said. That will cover a buffet style dinner and the dance featuring Bobby Lane's Orchestra.

Presentation of graduation sets to senior officers of the Arnold Air Society will be held at the ball.

Foreign Language Program Offered

Students at colleges and universities across the nation are eligible to participate in a unique foreign language program in Europe, offered this fall by Michigan State University in cooperation with the Foundation for European Language and Educational Centers of Zurich, Switzerland.

Twelve-week extensive language programs will be offered, beginning Sept. 30, in French at Paris, France, and Lausanne, Switzerland; in German at Cologne, Germany; in Italian at Florence, Italy; and in Spanish at Barcelona and Madrid, Spain.

Language students will reside with European families in order to more quickly gain linguistic proficiency and to understand more fully the people whose language they are studying.

Cost of the program varies between $750 and $850. Participants will leave New York for Europe Sept. 23 and return Dec. 23.

Applications or additional information may be obtained by contacting F. J. Mortimore, Kellogg Center, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

NEBRASKAN WANT ADS

FOR SALE

Smith-Corona portable typewriter, $30. Contact Jack Stout, 2511 S. St. Also, two 7.50x15 brand new white walls, $15 apiece.

1958 edition Encyclopaedia Britannica complete with 6 language dictionaries, atlas, and fitted bookcase. 1959-1962 yearbooks and research stamps included. Like new. $225. 406-0963 after 5:00 p.m.

FURNISHED APARTMENTS

Near University. Near 2 bedroom furnished apartment. Lovely view of Lincoln. Available Mar. 18. 432-8222.

WANTED

Independent off-campus students interested in joining a fast-growing campus organization (UNICORNS) designed to meet their needs and desires. Meeting in 332 Student Union, Mon. Mar. 11, 7:00 p.m.

PERSONAL

Latin American desires to meet people who are broad-minded, interesting and non-conformists for discussions of all kinds. Contact John Remos, 1712 L. St., 432-6868.

BRIDGE

If you like bridge you will like Duplicate. Student Union, Mondays, 7:15 p.m. and Sundays, 2:15 p.m. Entry 5.50. Free coffee and coffee. Come alone or bring a partner. Kibitzers welcome.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Man to share house with Grad student. Inexpensive. Convenient. Phone 438-428.

LOST

Show tote bag and pair of ski boots near music room, reward given if returned to music room attendant.

Ag Experts Give Garden Advice To Landscapers

People across the state are writing University Extension Horticulturists for advice on spring plant tips.

One of the first steps to take with an old lawn, the extensionists advise, is to clean up the dead grass so the young blades can grow.

Power rakes, rented for a few dollars for an afternoon, can give new grass a lot of breathing space, advise lawn experts.

The next step in growing a luxuriant lawn is finding out what nutrition it needs.

Kits for testing soil are available from the University Extension Service. The kits help in finding the soil's pH and fertilizer requirements.

An appreciation fund for Dr. Reinhardt has been established by Robert E. Morrison and other former students of his. The fund was set up "in appreciation and in acknowledgment of Dr. Reinhardt's many years of outstanding teaching and of the academic honor he has brought to the University of Nebraska through his internationally acknowledged excellence in the field of criminology," said Morrison.

At twelve he began to wander around some. He worked successfully: herding cattle in the Georgia mountains, laboring in a cotton mill, talc mine and clay mine. "Some of this sounds fantastic," he said, "but in those days, there were no child labor laws, and kids were exploited."

"I was a hobo, but I was never destitute. I never had to beg. As a hobo on the railroads, I was kind of lucky. I got to see America first."

When he was seventeen, Dr. Reinhardt decided that he ought to get an education. He read about a church school in Tennessee and applied there. "I was afraid that they wouldn't admit me because ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

Age Limit Forces Reinhardt To Resign By Year's End

By JOHN LONNQUIST
Nebraskan Staff Writer

The end of the present academic year will bring an end to the career of one of the University's most prominent faculty members.

At this time, Dr. James M. Reinhardt, professor of criminology, and one of the nation's foremost authorities in the field of sex offenders, will retire because of the University's mandatory age limit of 65, which he has escaped for three years.

An appreciation fund for Dr. Reinhardt has been established by Robert E. Morrison and other former students of his. The fund was set up "in appreciation and in acknowledgment of Dr. Reinhardt's many years of outstanding teaching and of the academic honor he has brought to the University of Nebraska through his internationally acknowledged excellence in the field of criminology," said Morrison.

At twelve he began to wander around some. He worked successfully: herding cattle in the Georgia mountains, laboring in a cotton mill, talc mine and clay mine. "Some of this sounds fantastic," he said, "but in those days, there were no child labor laws, and kids were exploited."

"I was a hobo, but I was never destitute. I never had to beg. As a hobo on the railroads, I was kind of lucky. I got to see America first."

When he was seventeen, Dr. Reinhardt decided that he ought to get an education. He read about a church school in Tennessee and applied there. "I was afraid that they wouldn't admit me because

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has written nine books, among them, Sex Perversions and Sex Crimes, and The Murderous Trail of Charles Starkweather.

Dr. Reinhardt said that at the end of the year, "I think I'll settle down and finish some writing projects that I've been interested in. I've gathered a lot of material on juvenile violence, some on almost perfect crimes."

"These almost perfect crimes are fantastic," he commented. "The men involved would almost certainly have not been caught had it not been for some little slip like drinking too much and then saying the wrong thing."

During his lifetime, Dr. Reinhardt has received many awards, among them the Distinguished Citizen award, Admiral in the Nebraska Navy and Distinctive service in the cause of justice. He has also been listed in three Who's Whos and in several other directories.

On graduation, he went immediately to teach sociology and criminology at Chicago College in Columbia, S.C., which was an exclusive girls college. He taught there for one year, before deciding to do some graduate work.

Due to scholarship changes, Dr. Reinhardt alternated between the University of Chicago and the University of North Dakota, where he finally

Dr. Hans Egon Holthusen, program director of the Goethe House in New York City, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Love Library discussing the dramatic theory of the German playwright Bertolt Brecht.

Brecht is the author of "The Three Penny Opera." The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Dr. Holthusen, a native of Germany, has been an independent writer since 1945. He has been at the Goethe House, the American-German Cultural Center and Library, since 1961.

His present tour includes lectures at Northwester, Washington, Kansas and Colorado universities. His lecture is being sponsored by the University chapter of Delta

Phi Alpha, honorary German fraternity.

I hadn't had any education." They did write back, however, and with some money given him by his grandfather, Dr. Reinhardt boarded a train and went to see Grandview Institute.

Grandview was a combination grade and high school. Reinhardt, being seventeen, applied for admission to the high school. "We can't let you go to high school," said the registrar, "we don't have any of your transcripts." "But heavens," said Reinhardt, "I didn't know what a transcript was."

They decided, after the secretary came to the boy's defense, that he should be given a chance. He enrolled, and three and one-half years later he graduated.

After high school, Dr. Reinhardt worked for seven years to earn enough money to go to college. He enrolled in Bera College, in Kentucky, where he completed his undergraduate work.

ly received his Master of Arts, and his Doctor of Philosophy degrees.

With his Ph.D. completed, he taught at a small college in West Virginia, the University of Oregon, and Wayne University in Detroit. In 1931 he came to the University of Nebraska where he has been ever since.

At the University, Dr. Reinhardt is presently teaching an advanced course in criminology, a seminar in personality and social adjustment, and an introductory course in criminology.

Dr. Reinhardt has had about 70 articles printed in professional journals and has