

Idaho Coach To Succeed Bush

NEW COACH—Joe Cipriano, present basketball coach at the University of Idaho, will replace Jerry Bush as head of the Husker cagers.

Joe Cipriano, present head basketball coach at the University of Idaho, has been named to succeed Jerry Bush at the University.

Tippy Dye, athletic director at the University, said that there had been three or four candidates for the job, but that "Joe has exactly what we need at Nebraska."

The post was left open by the resignation of Bush on February 20, after he met with Dye. At the time, the Huskers were 0-9 in conference play and sitting in the conference cellar.

The addition of Cipriano to the coaching staff at the University is the second major sport which has received a new mentor under Dye's program. The other, was the replacing of Bill Jennings by Bob Devaney as football coach. Devaney, with basically the same team, bettered Jennings' season effort of 4-5-1 with a 9-2 record, including a 36-34 win over Miami University in New York's Gotham Bowl last December.

Cipriano played for Dye from 1951 to 1953 at the University of Washington. All of these years were championship years, and in '51 and '53 Washington also won the NCAA championship.

Cipriano was a standout on Washington's championship teams, and was named to the All-Pacific Coast team his senior year. Before enrolling at Washington, he was an all-state high school athlete from little Nooksak Valley High School in northern Washington.

After his graduation, from the University, Cipriano, known as "Slippery Joe" during his playing career, coached high school and AAU teams and the Huskie freshman team. He then began his three year stay at the University of Idaho.

He coached a high school in the Seattle area, and the Buchanan Bakers, an Amateur Athletic Union team. As a playing coach with the Bakers, he toured Hawaii, Europe and the Far East, and went on to win an AAU championship.

Cipriano coached the freshman team at Washington from 1957 to 1959.

The University of Idaho, under Cipriano, has had a steadily improving basketball record. His first year as the Vandals coach resulted in a win-loss record of 10-16, compared to the previous season's 3-13. The following year's record was 13-13, and last season, Cipriano produced a team which won 20 and lost six.

He visited Lincoln during the Nebraska State High School Basketball Tournaments. This week he will attend the Junior College Basketball Championships at Hutchinson, Kan. He plans to be in Lincoln early next week.

Concerning his new coach, Athletic Director Dye said, "From your knowledge of his abilities we know that he is an excellent coach and that he possesses the tireless energies required in the modern game of basketball. He has the two most needed ingredients. He is a natural leader and he can interest the type athlete we want to enroll at Nebraska."

Cipriano is married and has three children.

Ex-Coach Bush has spent nine years at the University and had nine losing seasons. His record at Nebraska was 81-127, though former Bush-coached teams had won 129 and lost 58.

Bush's best year at Nebraska was in 1958, when he finished 5th in the Big Eight with a 12-13.

Bush was an All-American in 1937 and 1938 at St. John's University. He played professional ball at Ft. Wayne, Akron and Rochester.

At the time of his resignation, Bush had no definite plans for the future. He is presently attending a major collegiate basketball tournament in Louisville, Ky., and was not available for comment.

LACK OF SECOND TO MOTION KILLS PAPER INVESTIGATION

Grant Goes To Support TV Library

A second-year grant of $123,801 to support the newly established Great Plains Regional Instructional TV Library was approved yesterday by the University Board of Regents.

The grant from the U.S. Office of Education was among a total of $624,181 in research, training and fellowship grants presented to the Regents.

Director Paul Schupbach, said the TV Library, the only one of its kind in the country, now has available seven courses on videotape for use by schools throughout the 12-state area.

Among these courses, ranging from 18 to 30 lessons are basic electricity, children's literature, earth and space science, social studies, physical education in two parts and psychology.

Among other grants, all from the U.S. Public Health Service, were:

$19,379 for a training program for cytotechnologists, directed by Dr. C. A. McWhorter of the department of pathology, College of Medicine.

$29,220 for research by Dr. D. M. Pace, professor of zoology and physiology, on the REGENTS MEET — At yesterday's meeting of the University Board of Regents, Val Peterson saw his motion concerning the investigation of the Daily Nebraskan based on recent charges made by ex-senator Ray Simmons of Fremont defeated. Simmons charged the student newspaper with excessive liberalism in editorials and cartoons during the past five semesters.

Board Increases Staff At Institute

The University Board of Regents yesterday announced the appointment of two staff members for the Eugene C. Eppley Institute for research in cancer and allied diseases at the College of Medicine in Omaha.

These are the second and third staff members appointed to serve on the institute, which is slated for completion this June.

John Lambooy has been appointed professor of Chemical Pharmacology. He will head the Section on Biochemical Pharmacology in the Eppley Institute.

He has been on the faculty of the University of Rochester, N.Y., since 1946 and since 1956 has been associate professor of Physiology at that University. He obtained his B.A. and M.S. degrees at Kalamaazoo College, M.S. at University of Illinois and his Ph.D. at the University of Rochester.

John Foley will join the staff as assistant professor of Medicine and will carry out his research in the Section on Clinical Pharmacology of the institute.

He is an honor graduate of both Canisius College, B.A., and the University of Buffalo, M.D. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota.

Dr. J. Perry Tollman, Dean of the College of Medicine, said that "We are most fortunate to gain the services of two men who have so well demonstrated their potential in the field of research. With Dr. Henry Lemon, director of the institute, they will form the nucleus upon which we can build a staff for the Eppley Institute."

The institute was made available through a $650,000 gift for construction and $1,850,000 for endowment of the program, by the Eugene C. Eppley Foundation. In addition to the Eppley gift, $800,000 from the U.S. Public Health Service and $350,000 from the College of Medicine building levy were applied toward construction costs.

It will be totally devoted to research and will not be a treatment center.

Regent Peterson Sought Group To Weigh Charges

By SUSAN SMITHBERGER
Nebraskan Staff Writer

A motion to investigate the policies of the Daily Nebraskan failed to receive a second at the Board of Regents meeting yesterday. Regent Val Peterson made the motion.

Peterson moved that "The Board of Regents request the president of the Nebraska Press Association appoint a committee of three to weigh charges made recently against the Daily Nebraskan and to make public its findings."

The charges referred to in the motion were those made by Ray Simmons, Fremont attorney and former state senator. Simmons issued a 32-page booklet charging that University students are being "indoctrinated with controversial and extreme political philosophies."

The Daily Nebraskan favors liberal political views while playing down the conservative side, charged Simmons.

"The Daily Nebraskan is not a free newspaper but is an adjunct of the University of Nebraska under the authority of this Board," said Peterson.

"The editors must realize that their policies reflect not only on themselves but also on the University and has a dollar and cent relationship to the University."

Regent B. N. Greenberg, president, brought forth the policy of the Board of Regents concerning student publications. The policy was established in 1918 and reaffirmed in 1961.

The statement says: "It is the declared policy of the Board that publications under its jurisdiction shall be free from editorial censorship on the part of the Board . . ."

Peterson had previously called for an investigation of the Daily Nebraskan. At that time he said, "As chairman, I would suggest either Hyde Sweet of Nebraska City or Earl Marvin of Beatrice."

In a letter to Dr. William Hall, director of the School of Journalism, Sweet said, "It would be quite disagreeable to me to be involved in any such inquiry and I am against it heartily."

"My theory is that unless those kids preach treason or sedition let them blow off steam," said Sweet. "I am sure in due course they'll come down to earth if, for that matter, they ever left terra firma in the first place."

"Please get it from me that I am 'agin' any participation such as mentioned above and, of course, I am heartily in disapproval of censorship of any kind," Sweet continued. "I still stand for the First Amendment to the Bill of Rights."

Greenberg presented the letter to the Board of Regents.

In a joint statement, Dr. Hall and Neale Copple, advisor to the student newspaper, said, "We are pleased with the decision of the Board of Regents upholding the long-standing principles of press freedom at the University."

"Our opposition to the suggestion was based entirely upon the circumstances of this case. We understand Peterson's reason for suggesting the study."

Stromer, Marvel Suggest Merger Of State Schools

By SUE HOVIK
Nebraskan Staff Writer

"Nebraska must either decide to strengthen a concentrated effort in higher education or continue to weaken a separate one," restated Sen. Marvin Stromer, in reference to a board of education that would cover both the teachers colleges and the University.

Senators Stromer and Richard Marvel introduced two plans to the Legislature calling for a board of education to govern the state schools of higher education. One of these would be proposed by supporters of the bill at the next Legislative session if it were passed.

Plan A calls for the University and teachers colleges to merge in "The University of Nebraska." The government of this institution would be in a board of higher education.

The general government of the University and state teachers colleges would be vested in a board of higher education according to Plan B.

Sen. Stromer said that the idea of a merged university is not new. California, New York and Minnesota all have forms of this, so it is not conceivable that it shouldn't happen at Nebraska, he explained.

"The legislator said that Nebraska should combat the growing idea of a State University of Nebraska before it finds itself in the havoc which has happened in the neighboring states of Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota. These states had a university and state university and developed a rivalry and split available higher education funds."

"The University has compacted now with other Big Eight schools to locate students for education in fields the University does not carry," said Sen. Stromer. He said that we should look at our own efforts in the field of higher education.

"We're throwing out something the people can think about," said the senator.

People of Nebraska have trouble appropriating money for higher education and we're going on the belief that those who suffer the most are the students because of a cheapened faculty which becomes second rate, he continued.

"It is not an effort to get back the funds we think we should have, but rather an effort to get the largest return on the money spent on higher education," explained Stromer. The dollar spent would equal the dollar returned, he said.

The budget for higher education would go to one board which could spend it where needed, rather than two boards, he said.

The bill is an independent effort and is not Governor Morrison's bill, emphasized Sen. Stromer.

Existing efforts in such fields as journalism and dentistry will not be duplicated elsewhere under the centralized program, but new ventures would be placed in the area concerned, said Sen. Stromer. This will help prevent a possibility of faculty raiding within the state.

He said that when students get into the junior, senior and graduate levels, it costs two to five times as much to educate them as it does in the lower grades.

Kansas spent a large sum of money to have an independent panel of advisors review the higher education institutions in the state and report on the possibility of a merger. The Nebraska legislator said that Kansas took bold steps towards this by including the University of Wichita in the University of Kansas. The University of Kansas City has petitioned to join.

Sen. Stromer questioned why Nebraska didn't benefit from the Kansas study.

Ahlschwede Will Chair Spring Day

The Student Council interviewing board has selected 11 persons to serve on the Spring Day committee this year.

Those selected were: chairman, Bill Ahlschwede; men's games chairman, Dick Van Sickle; men's assistant games chairman, Dennis Swanstrom; women's games chairman, Joan Beerline; women's assistant games chairman, Ron Einspahr.

Others chosen were: secretary, Ann Kosman; assistant secretary, Carolyn Daubert; treasurer, Jean Probasco; publicity chairman, Trudy Erwin; assistant publicity chairman, Sara Rankin; and trophies chairman, Ron Wilton.

Those selected are subject to the approval of the Student Council at their meeting today.

Law Students Near Tourney End

Like to compete in a two-year-long Moot Court tournament?

The next ten days mark the end of one such tourney for 10 members of the University Law College.

As the surviving members of a tourney bracket that once included all of their sophomore classmates, the law students are now down to the final brief and the semi-final rounds of argument.

Awards will be given for the outstanding team, outstanding brief and outstanding oral argument.

The rounds are conducted exactly as an appellate court proceeding with the public invited to attend.

Semi-final rounds are Friday, Monday and Tuesday in the Moot Court Room of the Nebraska Supreme Court and will be heard by Judges: Harry Spencer, Robert Brower and Leslie Boslaugh of the Supreme Court of Nebraska.

Contestants in Round One, Friday, at 7:30 p.m., are Clayton Yetter and Gil Grady vs. Fred Kaufmann and Guy Bush.

They are arguing the case of Righteous R. Robert, Secular Sam, and John Jovial, plaintiffs, vs. State Board of Election Canvassers, State of Lancaster. The complaint is brought under the civil rights provisions of the United States of Allen.

The object of the suit is to test whether the Regent's District's of the University of Lancaster invidiously discriminate against the plaintiffs who are residents of Omaha, Lancaster.

Judges for the Friday night round will be John Baylor, Judge, Nebraska Court of Industrial Relations, C. M. (Barney) Pierson, Chairman, Grievance Committee, Nebraska State Bar, and Robert Barlow, President of the Lincoln Bar Association.

"The importance attributed to these contests is illustrated by the fact that these men who are extremely active and busy members of the legal profession are willing to devote their time to aiding the University's Legal Education program by judging their contests," said Renny Ashleman, chairman of the senior round of the Thomas Stinson Allen Moot Court competition.
