Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Fraternity-A champions, placed two men on the 1963 Daily Nebraskan All Fraternity intramural team.

The five on the mythical squad consist of Mike Stacey, Phi Psi, and Keith Seick, Phi Delt, at the forwards; Duke Papas, Sig Alph, and Homer Uehling, Sig Ep, at the guard positions; and at center is Ernie Bonistall, Sig Alph.

The team is well balanced with the outside shooting of Mike Stacey, averaging 17 points a game, and the backcourt shooting of Duke Papas; in close the squad has the scoring punch of Ernie Bonistall covering the center spot. The squad averages 15 points a game but their height is not spectacular, averaging only 6'1".

The second squad is led by Dennis Claridge, Sig Alph, and Bill Buller, Sig Ep with their fine shooting. Rounding out the squad is Bob Witte, Sigma Nu, John Jepsen, Phi Psi, and Larry Tomlinson, Kappa Sigma.

Mike Stacey, a senior in political science, made both the All-Independent team and the All-University team the past two years. This year he averaged 17 points per game for the Phi Psis.

This 6'3½" forward earned his freshman basketball number at the University and had a brilliant high-school career at Weeping Water High School.

At Weeping Water Mike lettered in basketball four years and three years in football. As a senior he made All-State in basketball and was All-Conference in both football and basketball.

Mike's biggest sports thrill was scoring 39 points in the first half of a basketball game against Murdock, but then the coach didn't let him play the second half in order to avoid a horrible slaughter, and Mike's brother held the county record of 41 points in a game!

After graduating Mike will go to the University of Minnesota to get his Masters Degree in political science.

Ernie Bonistall averaged nearly 20 points per game in helping Sigma Alpha Epsilon to the fraternity "A" championship. He made the third team last year.

Ernie played varsity and freshman football for a total of three years at the University. This is also his third year in varsity baseball. He lettered every year. Ernie also played freshman basketball here.

This senior in personnel administration is 6'2" tall and weighs 195 pounds. Next year he is going to the American Institute of Foreign Trade in Phoenix.

Coming here on a football scholarship, Ernie had a brilliant high-school sports record in Williamsville, New York. He was All-Western New York in football, basketball, and baseball.

Junior Keith Seick, an All-State basketballer from Lincoln Southeast, is 6'2" tall and weighs an even 200 pounds. He also made the first team last year.

Keith played freshman basketball and is also a letterman in baseball. He is a pitcher and is on the team again this spring.

At Southeast Keith won two letters in both football and basketball and three letters in baseball as the Knights took two state championships.

Seick is in business administration and intends to go to law school after graduating. His most exciting sports experience came when he was a sophomore in high school. That year Southeast, with seven sophomores in the starting lineup, defeated fabulous Jan Wall and his Northeast teammates for the baseball state championship.

Leo (Duke) Papas, a Sig Alph freshman, hails from Sioux Falls, South Dakota. After myriad accomplishments in sports at Washington High School there, Duke received a football scholarship to the University and earned his freshman numeral last fall. Next year he'll advance to varsity.

Duke, who is 5'11" tall and weighs 175 pounds, lettered in football, basketball, track, tennis, and baseball (a summer sport) at Washington High.

Duke's most memorable sports experience came during his senior year at the South Dakota state basketball tournament. In the semifinals, Washington trailed Sisseton by 13 points with only 3½ minutes to go, but won the game.

A business student, Duke will probably go into personnel management.

Homer Uehling, a senior in agricultural economics, is a solid 5'11" and 200 pounds.

Homer earned his freshman numerals here in both baseball and basketball.

At Oakland High School he lettered in basketball, baseball, and track. As a guard, he earned four basketball monograms and was a pitcher in baseball and discus thrower in track.

Homer's biggest sports thrill is being selected to the All-Fraternity first team this year.

After graduating, Homer plans to farm in the Uehling area.

Here's Sports

March is nearly over and with the coming of spring attention shifts from the long winter basketball season and other winter sports to the spring sports—outdoor track, baseball, golf, tennis, and spring football.

Looking back over the long winter months the most prominent feature was the Big Eight track championship which came to rest with the Huskers. The Husker squad, who were just barely favorites in the meet, walked away from the nearest contender, Missouri, 47-35½. The squad picked up four gold medals with 46 of the points coming on the track; the only other point came from Rudy Johnson who picked up a fifth place in the broad jump.

This event was closely followed by reminiscences of an exceptionally long cage season accentuated by losing ten straight Big Eight games and the Bear's resignation.

The squad started out strong winning some of the early games but when they went down to Kansas City for the annual Big Eight tourney, the team fell apart seemingly, and wound up in seventh place edging Oklahoma for the spot.

Then came the Big Eight race with the Huskers dominating the cellar chair losing every game but the upset victory over Oklahoma State. The squad ended the season minus a coach and possessing a 6-19 season record.

Wednesday afternoon Husker basketball hopes surged with the announcement that Joe Cipriano, current basketball coach at Idaho, has the head post here at Nebraska. Cipriano built a winning squad at Idaho in three years starting his first season with a 10-16 mark and this past season winning 20 and losing only 6.

The other major event of the Husker winter was the swimmers who captured second place in the Big Eight conference race behind powerful Oklahoma. The Sooners swam to a 120-100 victory over the Husker squad but the Huskers walked away with six gold medals and three Big Eight records.

The Husker matmen finished last in the conference but Husker Mike Nissen finished an undefeated dual record in three seasons to highlight the squad's efforts. The gymnastics squad finished their season with a 12-1 mark and retained its Central College championship crown at Mankato, Minnesota this past weekend.

But as I said in the spring the young man's fancy turns to other things as the old saying is told; but this column will stick to the sports endeavors and leave other areas of action to the students at large.

The outdoor season will open next weekend with the Husker baseball squad traveling south for a three game series with Tulsa. Last year the squad finished with a 15-11 record and, opening their series last year with Tulsa, the Huskers swept the series, 8-5, 6-5, and 6-5.

Main problem for the baseball team this season is the lack of hitting. Their brochure states that they will have a strong pitching staff headed by Ron Havecost, a left-hander who topped the ERA column with a 2.21 average. Out mound will be Ernie Bonistall, Keith Seick, and Jan Wall. The infield appears strong with Dave May at first, Ron Douglas at second, Tom Ernst at short, and Dale Anderson at third.

The spring golf and tennis season will open in two weeks with meets with Creighton, the golf squad traveling to Omaha and the tennis team meeting Creighton on its own court.

Spring football practice will start the first of April, starting Devaney's second season as head mentor at Nebraska. Last year he startled Husker fans with an amazing 9-2 record, taking the Huskers to New York and a Gotham Bowl win over Miami and Mira 38-34. Everyone now is expecting Devaney to lead the team to a first place conference finish this year but there is some concern about lack of depth next season.

Nebraska lost some good ends this year in Comstock, Huge, and Donovan and will have trouble finding depth to replace them; also gone will be Thunder Thornton, Dwain Carlson, and Tyrone Robertson.

Loss of these players will definitely hurt the Huskers chances this fall in seeking a league championship. Maybe the problem can be resolved by the upcoming freshmen squad if they develop and gain experience soon enough.

Switching back to swimming for a final thought, coach Cal Benz will take seven to the NCAA meet next weekend at Raleigh, N.C. But now the squad will be minus its top backstroke, Bill Henry who cut his arm after the Big Eight celebration and had to have several stitches taken and is out of action for the meet. This could hurt the team's effort at the big meet.

Henry was entered in the backstroke distances and his absence on the medley relay team will boost their time up another 1½ seconds as Ludwig will probably have to swim the backstroke in his place and he is already entered in several other events.

These letters stand for Air Force Officer Training School—a three-month course for those who realize they want to become Air Force officers, but don't have enough school time left to enroll in AFROTC.

We prefer our officers to start their training as freshmen, so we can commission them directly upon graduation. But right now we're accepting applications for another fine way to become an Air Force officer—OTS. We can't guarantee that this program will still be open a year or so from now. As an Air Force officer, you'll be a leader on the Aerospace Team, serving your country while you get a flying headstart on the technology of the future. The U.S. Air Force sponsors one of the world's most advanced research and development programs—and you can be part of it. If you're within 210 days of graduation, get more information on OTS from the Professor of Air Science.
