Outer Space—

Gardner Explains Goal Of World Cooperation

"In the space field, there has been a breakthrough in the area of conversation" between the United States and the Soviets, according to Richard Gardner, deputy assistant secretary of state for International Organizational Affairs.

Gardner, speaking before the Great Plains Assembly on Outer Space, held last weekend at the Nebraska Center, said that "Two years ago the United Nations couldn't even get a space committee started.

cooperation, the Russians began to change their attitudes.

A week of talks in Rome between the U.S. and Russia concerning the peaceful uses of outer space, concluded last Wednesday. "Just as we don't want to go it alone, we also don't want to go it bilaterally. Our objective is world-wide cooperation," commented Gardner.

If the use of outer space is done under the auspices of the United Nations, many nations will agree to cooperate because they will not be compromising their political independence, according to Gardner.

Also the world body would be able to disseminate information to the newly developing nations, thereby hastening their advancement.

Gardner observed that these attempts at international cooperation "serve the national interests of the U.S. and other countries," by providing a way to exploit the enormous possibilities which were opened with the space age, by strengthening and widening cooperation on a free world basis and by strengthening the U.N. as a force for peace by binding its members together through ties of "common interest."

Livestock Judges Slated To Instruct At Two-Day Clinic

Four outstanding livestock judges will be on the Ag campus next week to instruct at a livestock clinic for county fair judges.

Dr. Donald Good, professor of animal husbandry at Kansas State University, is well-known in Nebraska. He has judged at Ak-Sar-Ben events.

P. K. Pratt of Walnut, Iowa, is a pioneer in production testing of Angus.

Stan Anderson, of the American Angus Association of Kansas City, Mo., was formerly coach of a winning livestock judging team at Texas Tech.

Willard Waldo, of De Witt, is a veteran Duroc breeder. He will teach swine judging at the two-day clinic, next Monday and Tuesday.

Clinic arrangements are being made by Dave Williams, university extension livestock specialist and R. B. Warren, professor of animal husbandry.

get Lots More from L&M

more body in the blend
more flavor in the smoke
more taste through the filter

It's the rich-flavor leaf that does it! Among L&M's choice tobaccos there's more longer-aged, extra-cured leaf than even in some unfiltered cigarettes. And L&M's filter is the modern filter—all white, inside and outside—so only pure white touches your lips. L&M's the filter cigarette for people who really like to smoke.
