

Students Question Masters

Broad Training Is Emphasized

A broad education best prepares today's student for the future, say Nebraska's Masters.

"For the first four years in college," said Chris Christensen, "I think that a youngster should get a broad exposure to subjects like literature, economics and political science. If you have a broad exposure in the liberal arts you're better equipped for life."

Christensen, speaking at a press conference in the Union yesterday afternoon, said "It's not only knowing your business, but knowing human relationships." In all fields, according to Christensen, students need a broader approach, too many students try to specialize too early, he said.

"People with a broad education in liberal arts are able to adjust better at some point in their life," said E. H. Dohrmann. "These people will usually be the leaders". A technician or a scientist is concerned solely with his particular field, he doesn't have the interest in other people, in why they think the way they do, he continued.

"Unbelievable progress has been made in this institution," said Persey Spencer. "I think that the student body is much more mature than the group I came down here with."

According to Spencer, many of the businessmen with whom he has come in contact have business jitters concerning what will happen in five, ten or fifteen years. This is because they have knowledge of the conditions around them.

"I've found in this student body that they have an awareness of the things around them, but they don't have the 'jitters' of typical older men. These people who are going to run the world seem to have a pretty steady hand," he said.

"Students are smarter than when we were in school," said Judge Leslie Welch.

"It used to be easier to get by when we were here, there was less competition," Welch added that the young lawyers he meets nowadays seem much better equipped than any of his day.

Judge Welch liked the boys' questions better. "To be honest," he said, "there were too many girls. I like to converse with one of them, but 30 or 40 of them is too many, I got a little tongue-tied."

"I don't know how much the students will get out of this program," observed Spencer, "but the so-called Masters will get plenty out of it. For me it has been a kind of orientation."

"I'll have to take home some clippings of the newspaper," added Spencer, "so I can prove to my wife that I was busy out here."

Harrington Wins Journalism Honor

Judy Harrington received the annual Nebraska Press Women's scholarship citation Saturday as the outstanding woman senior in journalism at the University.

The award was made by Mrs. Richard Ferguson of Friend, chairman of the NPW scholarship selections committee, at a morning session at the Lincoln Hotel.

According to Mrs. Fae Montgomery of Morrill, president of the group, the honor consists of a cash grant and a certificate. The winner's name is also inscribed on a plaque displayed in the J-School office.

Miss Harrington ranked seventh nationally in William Randolph Hearst Foundation competition last year and is currently the leading scorer in 1962-63 competition.

STUDENT SERVICE CENTER?—Vicki Elliott serves canned drinking water from the supply in the basement of Burnett Hall. Over vacation a two weeks supply of survival rations were installed for 9,000 University students, faculty and employees in campus buildings designated as civil defense fallout shelters.

Survival Rations Go To Fallout Shelters

Enough survival rations for 9,000 University students, faculty and employees for 14 days were stored last week in the buildings designated as civil defense fallout shelters on the city and Ag campus.

According to George Drake, deputy civil defense director of Lincoln and Lancaster county, the University shelter areas of Avery lab, Burnett Hall, Love Library, Morrill Hall, Nebraska Hall, the Nebraska Union, the Nebraska Center, Piper Hall, Richards Hall and the Sheldon Art Gallery, were filled with survival rations and supplies.

The supplies included food, in the form of survival biscuits similar to the much publicized Nebraskit, water, medicine, sanitary kits, and radiation detecting equipment.

The total amount of the shelter stock in the ten University buildings is in excess of $20,000, according to Drake.

Corps Slates Shorter Test On Saturday

A new, shorter Peace Corps Placement Test will be administered for the first time Saturday in more than 800 communities across the nation. It will be given at the main Post Office in Lincoln.

The new test, to be given on an experimental basis, consists of half-hour sections on general aptitude and modern language aptitude. All applicants who have any knowledge of French or Spanish must remain to take the appropriate language achievement test of one hour's duration.

The Peace Corps now requires transcripts from every candidate. The need for the language aptitude and achievement tests has increased, Dr. Henry said.

The new test will be given at 8:30 a.m. To be eligible to take the exam, candidates must have submitted a questionnaire to the test site with them.

Cash To Be Given To Essay Winners

Winners of the Latin American Essay Contest will be announced tonight at a public presentation at 7:30 in 234 Student Union.

First prize for the best essay on "What Should Be Done To Strengthen Democracy in Latin America" is $75 presented by the Lincoln chapter of the American G.I. Forum.

Second place winner will be awarded $25 by Dr. Roberto Esquenazi-Mayo, associate professor of Romance languages.

The award presentation will include musical selections instrumental and vocal by the Music Department.

Engineers' Open House—

Visitors Will View Student Exhibitions

An estimated 10,000 visitors are expected to attend the 68th annual Engineers' Open House tomorrow from 2-10 p.m. at the University.

In 1894, E-Week was originated as a one night open house, and in 1913 the faculty set aside a full week for the event.

This year E-Week includes a convocation on "Creative Thinking in Engineering," a field day at Pioneer Park, and a banquet and dance at the Lincoln Hotel on Friday.

E-Week has progressed to where it has achieved a representation of skill and cooperation among the students. Visitors to the open house will see principles of engineering transferred into exhibits. The public is invited to attend, and there is no admission charge.

Louis Lamberty, a senior majoring in chemical engineering, and Joe Wills, an architecture major and University of Michigan graduate, are the co-chairmen of the student-sponsored program.

The purpose of the Open House is to give engineering students a chance to convey to the public what engineering is, said the chairmen. The students have constructed equipment, set up displays and perfected demonstrations which exemplify basic engineering principles as well as complicated industrial processes in an endeavor to fulfill this purpose.

Mystics Announce Hough Will Emcee Ivy Day Festivities

Dr. Robert Hough, associate professor of English, has been selected Master of Ceremonies to preside over the traditional Ivy Day festivities.

Hough, a cum laude graduate of Pomona College, Cal., received six college letters and served as captain of both the baseball and basketball teams. He received his masters degree from Columbia University and his Ph. D. in English from Stanford University.

Hough was honored as "outstanding Nebraskan" last semester by the Daily Nebraskan. He is serving as faculty adviser to Student Council and Scrip literary magazine, and is a faculty member of Publications Board. He has aided in the development of the English Honors Program, and has written several magazine articles.

Senior soloist for Ivy Day is Gail Galloway. She was selected by Mortar Board on the basis of service to the University, the school of music, and her ability. She will sing the traditional song, "Here we plant the Ivy" while the presidents of Mortar Board and Innocents plant the ivy vine.

Miss Galloway is president of Mu Phi Epsilon music sorority, president of Music Intersorority Council, and corresponding secretary of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

She has had leads in the Yankess, "Oklahoma," and "Carousel." She has also appeared in the University Theater Productions, "Cosi Fan Tutti," and "Street Scene."

NU Faculty Member Receives Fellowship

A University staff member, Barnett McClendon, is one of 30 language instructors in the nation selected to receive a fellowship under the Fulbright-Hays program for six weeks of study abroad this summer.

McClendon, a staff member at the University since 1957, is completing work for his Ph.D. degree and will study this summer at Burgos, Spain. The fellowship provides tuition and travel.

The Ivy and Daisy Chains have been selected to carry the traditional chains in the Ivy Day ceremonies on May 4. The members are chosen on the basis of service and contributions to the University and to their living units.
