

A & S Candidates Give Views

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles to assist students in voting by providing them with information about their Student Council candidates. At the same time, candidates are given an opportunity to express their views. Today's article treats candidates for representatives from the College of Arts and Sciences.

Barnes
Tim Barnes, sophomore, feels that the Council should be a go-between in faculty and student relationships. He stressed that the Council should work with the students to regulate student affairs, not to dictate them.

The activities Barnes participated in are Spanish Club, German Club, Band and Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Brashear
Kermit "Buzz" Brashear, freshman, said that the Council should function as a representative body which reflects the views, ambitions and desires of the University students. "It must always serve the sincere interests of the student body in its dealings with faculty and administration and in its work as a supreme student governing body."

His platform includes a system whereby all representatives of a college meet for one hour twice a month to hear the views and wishes of their constituents. He suggests the creation of a scholarship and Aids Information committee to see that the student receives all information necessary to secure these aids. He also urges the continuation of the Senators Program.

Brashear's activities include Council Associates, IFC scholarship member, University Lutheran Chapel, and Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Brewster
Tom Brewster, sophomore, believes that the function of the Council is to express the opinions of the students body in an organized manner, and to serve as a liaison between administration and the student body.

More thought on the part of representatives before introducing indiscrete motions is the main part of Brewster's platform.

His other activities include secretary of IFC, Student Council Associates, NU-Meds, and Sigma Chi fraternity.

Cherny
Robert Cherny, sophomore, said that the functions of the Council were to accurately and effectively reflect the opinion of the majority of the student body and to responsibly mold student opinion.

He suggests the following innovations for the Council and the student body: elimination of the present system of representation and replacement with a system of proportional representation based on geographic districts; affiliation with NSA, abolition of compulsory ROTC; financing for Student Council by fees to be collected at the time of registration.

Cherny's other activities include intercollegiate debate, RAM GRAM editor and University Party for Progress Central Council.

Childe
James Childe, sophomore, believes that the Council should reflect and mold student opinion, supervise and initiate student activities, and provide for a communication among all parts of student body and interests.

His platform includes weekly student opinion polls with published results. Childe's other activities include, Yell Squad, Kosmet Klub worker, Builders chairman and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Miss Crosier
Cheryll Crosier, freshman, believes that the functions of the Student Council are to be the supreme student governing body which regulates and coordinates all phases of government and that promotes and maintains relations between faculty and students.

Miss Crosier suggests the following innovations for the Council and student body: four point grading system, book pool, quiz bowl and all finals for one type of class at one time.

Her activities include Builders assistant chairman, Union, Red Cross, Tassels, and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Miss Dort
Stephanie "Stevie" Dort, sophomore, said that the functions of the Student Council are to serve as a regulating body for the students and to act as an intermediary between administration and the students.

Her platform includes continuing the Senator's program by encouraging student body participation and promoting it through widespread publicity.

Miss Dort's other activities include AUF chairman, Project, Cornhusker section editor, and Delta Gamma sorority.

Miss Dow
Alice "Molly" Dow, freshman, believes that the functions of the Council are to be the supreme governing body which regulates and coordinates all phases of government for the students. It is also to promote and maintain relations between the faculty and students.

Her platform includes the following: a four point grading system, book pool, all finals for one type of class at one time and a quiz bowl. Her other activities include Union, Spanish Club, Project, Cornhusker, and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Halbert
Richard Halbert, sophomore, said that the function of the Council was to be the student's voice to administration by virtue of its being the supreme student legislative body.

He would like to see a more thorough study of fair representation, the rights of the University in regard to its actions which concern its "parental" status, reform of the Council "image" and more work in orientating the freshmen to the University campus.

Halbert's other activities include Council Associates, Red Cross, and scholarship chairman of Theta Xi fraternity.

Miss Hamsa
Barbara "Bobbi" Hamsa, freshman, said that the functions of the Council are to act as liaison between the administration and the student body to provide efficient government for the student body, and to review and approve campus organizations each year.

Her platform includes more effective communications between the Council and the student body, such as a booklet listing all the Council representatives and their colleges and interests.

Miss Hamsa's activities include Red Cross, Union, Panhellenic, People-to-People and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Miss Hrnicek
Jo Lee Hrnicek, freshman, believes that the functions of the Student Council are to coordinate, regulate and carry out student activities and programs for the benefit of the individual student, the study body and the University administration relationship, to represent and inform the student body, to work to raise the incentive of the students for self improvement in scholarship and other important facets while making them better people serving as American citizens.

Miss Hrnicek's platform includes a program whereby the representatives are required to report regularly to their housing units and regularly poll the students who they are representing in a plan to obtain more individual student opinion and make the student body more aware of the business of the Council.

Her activities include Union, NU-Meds and Alpha Phi sorority.

Miss Hunker
Harriett Hunker, freshman, feels that the functions of the Council are to act as a representative body to speak for the students and to help regulate 5384 college activities and lives.

She suggests a system, which familiarizes the student with the Council's activities and gives him a better opportunity to be a part of it, to be set up in each living unit. She also said that the student should be given an opportunity to study the ballot before he goes to vote in the Council elections.

Miss Hunker's activities include Alpha Lambda Delta, and Ivy Day Daisy Chain.

Kimball
George "Bud" Kimball, freshman, stressed that the Council should reflect student opinion, not form it.

His platform includes proportional representation and membership in NSA.

Kimball's campus activities include People-to-People, University Debate, University Party for Progress and social chairman of Seaton 1.

Korff
Glenn Korff, sophomore, feels that the functions of the Council are to serve in the regulation and coordination of government and to serve as an agency through which faculty student relationships may be maintained.

His platform includes a change in the structure of the Council Associate program and recognizing a need for more "honest representation." He points out that there is a need for monthly meetings for college representatives to meet with students from respective colleges to give reports and receive opinions.

Korff's activities include IFC, Council Associates, Kosmet Klub, NU-Meds, and president of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Kort
Tom Kort, sophomore, said that the Council acts as a liaison between the students and faculty and coordinates and regulates extracurricular activities. It also has the function of creating student awareness of major state and local issues and of expressing student views on such issues.

His platform includes publicizing Council work to the student body, making uniform reports to constituents by Council members, and re-vamping of the Associates to make it a more organized co-ordinate group.

Kort's activities include Kosmet Klub, Council Associates, secretary of Phi Eta Sigma, vice-President of University Lutheran Chapel and rush chairman of Beta Sigma Psi fraternity.

Lemke
George Lemke, sophomore, feels that the functions of the Council are to express student opinion, to have limited control over student organizations and to suggest possible improvements to administration when they are needed.

His platform includes changing the representation of Council members to district representation proportional to the number of votes cast in each district.

Lemke's activities include German Club, RAM GRAM, and University Party for Progress.

Miss Nore
Betsy Nore, sophomore, said that the functions of the Council are to be a sounding board of new ideas and to create student interest in varied areas and foster cooperation and coordination between the student body and the administration.

Miss Nore's platform includes having more student opinion polls and more publicity on the work of the Council for the students, thus promoting Council and student awareness.

Her activities include Tassels, Alpha Lambda Delta, AUF and Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Rood
H. Michael "Mick" Rood, freshman, believes that the functions of the Council are to interpret and carry out the will of the student body with as little timidity as possible and to work to improve the University.

His platform includes periodical meetings held by Council representatives in order to gain a better knowledge of the constituents' feelings.

Rood is a sports writer for the Daily Nebraskan.

She suggests a reform in the method of Council membership selection.

Miss Ryan's other activities include Spanish Club, Council Associates, Builders and Sigma Kappa sorority.

Miss Segrist
Susie Segrist, freshman, feels that the functions of the Student Council are to represent the feelings of the student body through the voice of the Council members.

Her platform includes a plan in which each of the college representatives would have a designated meeting time when students from their college could express their views so that the Council could serve in a more effective capacity.

Miss Segrist's activities include MMUN representative, Love Hall vice president and standards chairman, Spring Day Worker, WRA House Council, junior staff writer for the Daily Nebraskan, and Pi Beta Phi sorority.
