Ivy Day Draws Students, Alums To Ceremonies

The revelation of the May Queen and her court, the masking of Mortar Boards, tacking of Innocents and Ivy Day songs will attract students, alums and parents to tomorrow to the Ivy Day ceremonies.

The 1963 May Queen and her court will reign over Ivy Day from a new throne which will have a walnut finish with wide, circular steps, according to Cynthia Holmquist, Mortar Board.

The time schedule for the ceremonies has been revised and the court will be presented at 11:30 a.m. and will reign throughout the remainder of the day.

Men's and Women's songs will alternate to add more variety to the program and the awards will be presented at intervals, according to Miss Holmquist.

Dr. Robert Hough, associate professor of English has been selected Master of Ceremonies to preside over the traditional festivities. Senior soloist is Gail Galloway. She was selected by Mortar Boards on the basis of service to the University, the school of music and her ability.

The schedule for the ceremonies is as follows:
 10:45 a.m. Carillon plays
 11:00 a.m. Selections by University Band
 11:10 a.m. 1963-64 Mectar Boards and Innocents enter
 11:15 a.m. Welcome by Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin
 11:20 a.m. Planting of the Ivy by Nancy Miller and John Nolan, presidents of Mortar Board and Innocents
 11:25 a.m. Entrance of Ivy and Dater chains, Ivy Day Court, May Queen and Maid of Honor
 11:30 a.m. Mortar Board and Innocents recess
 11:35 a.m. Sigma Kappa, "Sing We Now of Sigma," song leader Claire Koehrkasse
 11:45 a.m. Sigma Nu, "Marty Hymn," song leader Joseph Colgan
 11:50 a.m. Towne Club, "I Whistle A Happy Tune," song leader, Rosalee Files
 11:55 a.m. Beta Sigma Psi, "Brother's Sing On," song leader, Roger Quashnover

Senator To Address Law College Tuesday
 State Senator William Brandt of Unadilla will speak at the University College of Law Tuesday at 10 a.m.
 Senator Brandt will meet with classes in legislation and will speak on the attorney's role in the legislative process.

Elections Set For Monday At Union Polls

One polling place for the Student Council elections Monday will be placed in both the Ag and City Unions, according to Steve Honey, chairman of the elections committee.

The Ag Union poll will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and the City Union poll from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Students must vote for the total number of representatives their college is allowed. Only students officially enrolled in a college are eligible to vote.

Candidates will not campaign within 15 feet of the buildings in which the polls are located, Honey said, and all campaign publicity must be removed by noon Tuesday after the election.

Ivy, Spring Days Bring 1:30 Hours

Associated Women's Students Board (AWS) has announced that there will be 1:30 a.m. hours for all University women both tonight and tomorrow night because of Ivy Day and Spring Day.

There will be no overnights or out-of-towns granted without special permission, according to Sally Larson, president.

Union Schedules Student Art Sale

As part of the Student Union's Spotlight on Culture, the Union contemporary arts committee is sponsoring a Student Art Sale on May 15, from 9:50-3:30 p.m. in the Pan American room of the Union.

Works to be sold include paintings, sculptures and ceramics. Prices of the works have been set by the individual artists.

Tug Of War Begins Spring Day Games

Spring Day 1963 begins today on the University Ag campus with the Men's Tug of War at 1:30 p.m. Afternoon classes have been dismissed for Spring Day events.

The committee has planned many fun and exciting games for this traditional event," said Bill Ahlschwede, chairman of Spring Day.

Women's games will include in addition to the tug of war, an obstacle race, a pile on hay bales contest, a woman's distance throw and a roller skating relay.

Shrouded in mystery is the couples' mystery event, the last game of the day.

Men's games will include a push ball contest, tug of war, bicycle steeplechase relay, pillow fight and log throwing.

Student Council is charging a one dollar entry fee to each participating organization this year.

CITY . . .

OPPOSITION to the proposed annexation of the Antelope Creek Dam area was voiced Monday in the city council meeting by property owners in the area. The owners own property ranging from one to fourteen acres in size and hence are fearful of taxes if the area is annexed by the city.

STATE . . .

ONE THOUSAND PERSONS packed the legislative chambers Monday to hear three and one-quarter hours of discussion concerning the economic and religious implications of a Sunday closing ordinance. Support for the bill, which would recognize Sunday as the established day of rest in the state and prohibit the merchandising of certain department store commodities, came mainly from retailers, and opposition mainly from Seventh-Day Adventists.

DIANNE SCHILLING, was thrown from a car in which she was riding and killed. The 14-year-old girl, along with eight others also in the car, was picked up by a tornado and thrown more than 200 yards. The incident occurred three miles west of Auburn to the family of Mrs. Fred Schilling, which was apparently traveling back to their home in Vandalia, Ill.

LEGISLATURE'S budget Committee had a visit from twenty-nine Nebraska citizens Wednesday. The people were assembled in support of the University of Nebraska's budget requests for the 1963-1965 biennium. Alumni and even persons who had never attended the University spoke strongly in favor of all facets of the University's operations.
