34 Letters Nominate Dr. Clifton

Dave Wolz, Ellen "Herbie" Nore, Jon Burt, and Dr. Donald Clifton have been nominated for Outstanding Nebraskan.

The letter nominating Scholz said, "If an outstanding Nebraskan is a conspicuous one, then the qualities that Dave Scholz possesses must go unrecognized." The letter noted that Scholz has been first vice-president of the Student Council, president of R A M council and a member of the Engineering Executive Board.

"Dave represents a type found on all too few campuses," the letter read, "His membership and offices in the UCCF cabinet, University Band, and seven honoraries, merely suggest the personality so quietly efficient that it often goes unnoticed."

Herbie Nore "has balanced an exercise of leadership, high intellectual curiosity, love of culture, and service to the University in her college career."

Miss Nore has been a member of the AWS board for three years and a member of the Student Council from that body. She has been vice president of Orchestra and a Builders chairman, in addition to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Sigma Rho and Alpha Lambda Delta honoraries.

"Herbie is one of the best examples that NU has to offer of a student who is interested in knowledge purely because of intellectual curiosity and not for personal advancement or recognition." Miss Nore was in the 1962 Ivy Day Court, received a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, and was awarded the American Association of University Women's Award.

Don Burt has also been nominated for Outstanding Nebraskan.

The nominating letter said, "Don has served his community by serving as President of the Student Council, Public Relations chairman of IFC, Student Council representative, Pi Sigma Alpha honorary, Lincoln Project and secretary, alumni secretary and pledge class treasurer of his fraternity Phi Delta Theta and treasurer of the Inno-cents Society."

After his freshman year at Pennsylvania, Don came to Nebraska and maintained a high grade average during the past three years. He holds a IFC scholarship awarded on the basis of financial need, scholarship and activities.

Some 34 letters have been received by the Daily Nebraskan office nominating Dr. Donald Clifton, associate professor of education, for Outstanding Nebraskan of 1963.

One letter stated, "Dr. Clifton's greatest contribution to the University and the people of Nebraska is his untiring personal interest in every individual with whom he meets."

"As a member of the faculty he has helped to keep our university an outstanding school. He advises both graduate and junior division students. He is the faculty advisor for Children, Orthopedic, and Family Projects of the Nebraska Human Resources Foundation. He also sponsors All University Fund, Teachers College Doctoral Club, and International Students.

"He has contributed to civic affairs as past president and district governor of Rotary, and as such originated a program of exchanges between businessmen of different nations. He has recently been honored by being asked to serve on the Board of Counselors by the International President and has received the Community Service Award.

"During World War II he flew 24 combat missions and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross."

Another letter said, "Dr. Clifton, although an extremely busy professor, is definitely interested in more than the primary intellectual and academic training of the student body. Dr. Clifton believes in training young students to be both the academic and community leaders of tomorrow." Another letter stated, "Through his speaking efforts he has given the students at the Nebraska Vocational Technical School a better feeling towards the University."

Alumni To Return For June Meeting

Two native Nebraskans, Nebraska poet laureate John Neihardt and Samuel Waugh, international bank advisor and financier, will speak at the second annual educational gathering of University alumni and friends.

Neihardt, who will speak Thursday, June 6, at the 6 p.m. dinner at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, is nationally known for his "A Cycle of the West," and "Black Elk Speaks: Being the Life Story of a Holy Man of the Ogalala Sioux."

He will address the assembly on "Nebraska Heritage." Waugh, of the class of 1915 at the University, has been honored by awards of gratification from six foreign countries since leaving his chairmanship and presidency of the Export-Import Bank. He has served as assistant secretary of state for economic affairs and is currently Washington consultant to the International Department of the Bank of New York.

He will speak on "The European Common Market" Thursday, June 6, at 2 p.m. at the Nebraska Center.

He has served as chairman of the State Murals Commission in 1950, is a trustee of the Nebraska Art Association, has received a number of honors from the University and has served the University as trustee of the University foundation.

Two Ag Students Receive Grants For Canada Trip

Two University students have been given $75 each to help defray travel costs to an international conference in Winnipeg, Canada.

Calvin Messersmith and Leroy Svec were selected by the Ag Exec Board to be the University's delegation to the International Agricultural Students Conference in September at the University of Manitoba.

Alan Dexter, of the Exec Board, says that the delegates will give slide shows and educational talks to clubs on Ag Campus when they return.

The Students Conference will review and compare courses offered at various universities, with special emphasis on philosophies, aims, and nature of programs.

Classes on the College of Agriculture campus will start on the half-hour next semester, according to Dr. Adam Breckenridge, vice chancellor.

The purpose for the change, said Breckenridge, is to make possible a plan which will provide bus service between Ag and City campuses for students and faculty.

The bus will make a round trip between the two campuses each hour, leaving the city campus at five minutes after the hour and from the Ag campus at five minutes after the half-hour. The campus to campus run will take 15 minutes.

The tentative schedule calls for an inter-campus bus starting at 7:05 a.m. at the city campus and ending at 4:50 p.m. on the city campus, Monday through Friday.

Student tokens will be sold by the comptroller, 12 for $1. Those persons not purchasing tokens in advance will pay 15 cents per ride.

The bus will stop on Ag campus at Keim Hall, the Ag dormitories and the Nebraska Center. City campus stops will be at Nebraska Hall, Women's Residence Halls, Nebraska Union and Burnett Hall.

Carl Donaldson, business manager, says that the bus service is expected to alleviate some of the traffic problems on the two campuses.

Journalism Honors Presented At J-School Awards Banquet

Recognition for outstanding academic work in journalism, scholarships and awards were made at the annual University School of Journalism Awards Banquet last Saturday evening.

Special recognition went to Sen. Don Thompson, Jack Hart, editorial page editor of the Lincoln Journal; and Bernice Rothenberger of the editorial staff of the Lincoln Star.

The men were given specially designed plaques for their service as consultants for the class depth report on the public power in Nebraska.

Gold depth reporting rings went to the members of the class for their work in the course. They include And a Anderson, Norman Beatty, Cloyd Clark, Ed Duckworth, Donald Ferguson, Judy Harrington, Linda Jensen, Robert Krall, Sandra Lyster, Nancy Ostberg, Margrethe Plum and Paul Hensley.

Special gold rings were also presented by the students to Neale Copple, associate professor of journalism, and Mrs. Emily Trickey, research assistant, for their instruction and aid in the depth reporting course.

Scholarships presented were:

J. C. Seacrest Scholarship — $1,000 made annually by Cooper Foundation, to Don Ferguson for graduate study;

J. C. Seacrest Partial Scholarship — $275 to Paula Warner for special summer session at Radcliffe College;

Harry T. Dobbins Memorial Scholarship — $100 to Susan Smithberger, sophomore showing greatest professional promise during first two years of journalism;

James E. Lawrence Memorial Scholarship — $250 to Grant Peterson, junior planning career and showing greatest promise in broadcast journalism;

KOLN-TV Scholarship in Radio and Television — $250 to Grant Peterson; Nebraska Daily Newspaper Advertising Scholarship — to Sharon Johnson, student showing greatest professional promise in advertising;

Nebraska Weekly Newspaper Scholarships — $250 to Larry Fauss, and George Peterson, students showing greatest promise in the weekly newspaper field;

Edna Obrist Award, certificate to Kay Casey of Plattsmouth, outstanding woman student in the field of advertising;

Theta Sigma Phi of the Year, to Honey Lou McDonald;

Alan Marshall Memorial Award, certificate to Cora Briggs, outstanding magazine student;

Surprise awards went to Dr. Robert Cranford, professor of journalism at the University, for his work on Four Point Sell Nebraska Program and to Miss McDonald for the outstanding story in the Big Swede Series, written by journalism students for the Oakland Independent and a Swedish publication.

Kappa Tau Alpha initiates, national scholastic honorary society of upper 10 per cent of juniors and seniors in J-School were: Kay Casey, Sue Isaacson, John Morris, Wendy Rogers and Jane Tenhulzen.

Senior advertising students who represented the School of Journalism at Advertising Club meetings were: Pamela Holloway, to the New York City Advertising Club and Lori Bredeson and Kay Casey, to the College Awards Program.

Slote Is Named For Text Survey

Prof. Bernice Slote of the University's English department has been named a member of the textbook survey committee of the National Council of Teachers of English.

She will assist in surveying practices and procedures in states and local school districts relative to textbook selection and adoption.

The NCTE consists of approximately 82,000 members at all levels of education.

Talent Mart Planned Next Fall By Union

The annual Talent Mart, sponsored by the Student Union music committee, will be held the second week of school next fall.

The purpose of the Talent Mart is to make a composite list of talented students on the campus who are willing to perform for civic groups throughout the school year.

Several of these groups are willing to pay for entertainers, thus enabling students to earn money while performing a service to the community.

Each person or group who wishes to have their name added to the list will try out before five judges, who will rate their performances. Anyone who tries out will be placed on the list (without the

Ross To Discuss Parking Increase

In a special meeting at 4 p.m. today, Student Council will discuss a motion passed earlier to oppose the suggested parking fee increase to $10.

G. Robert Ross, dean of the division of Student Affairs, and Carl Donaldson, University business manager, will speak on the Administration's recommendations for the increase.

Donaldson said that he was basically not interested in the price of parking, but wanted suggestions on how to cope with the priority system in giving out the parking spaces available next fall.

The purpose of the $5-10 increase is to partly pay for the buying of some of this land to be used for parking lots and I also believe that the student parking fee should pay adequately the expense of the upkeep, said Donaldson.

Donaldson pointed out that the student pays for the stalls, not the space or location.

Previously I was against eliminating freshman from the students who could have cars because it was just a question of walking far enough, he said. Now I would have to say I would like to see them low on the priority list, he continued.

Now that we do not have enough space, what would the students suggest as priority among the commuters (county and local students, faculty and staff), asked Donaldson. Right now these suggestions are more important than the fees, he said.

There are several areas open to relieving parking space problem, but the question is which to do, he continued. I am not in favor of raising the parking fee to where it would force much of the student body to use commercial transportation, the Ag-city campus bus will help the situation we hope, and I am not sure how to go about organizing a car pool among the Lincoln students.

Dale Redman, parking committee chairman of the 1962-63 Student Council, said, "we all know and agree that the present parking fee does not pay for the maintenance of the lots and I do not believe that anybody objects to paying $10 for top rate lots."

"But, we cannot obtain any budget of where the money from the fees is to be spent, he pointed out. Early last fall, I talked with Donaldson and Capt. Masters of the Campus Police and it was decided at that time that the $5 parking fee should pay for the maintenance and improvement of the lots. This is why it was brought before the Council in November.

"The first I heard about the $10 fee was from former Council President Don Burt in the latter part of March. At that time a Council Roundtable was called and the Administration was asked for copies of the grand plans for the University so we could tell where possible permanent parking lots would be located. We have not seen these, said Redman.

"Dean Ross told me that the reason for the $10 increase was to help purchase land, he said.

The reasons that the parking committee opposes the increase to $10 are as follows:

"We are unable to obtain a budget to determine exactly how the money is to be used. The situation as to where parking lots will be next year is very fluid.

"Taking this situation into account, the committee cannot condone the use of parking fund money to purchase land which, in a short time, will be turned back to the University for parking facilities."

"The committee does not oppose the additional raise in fee as such, but we do object to the additional $5 dollars being taken out of the students' pocket with no assurances as to how the money will be spent," said Redman.

"We do realize the need for additional parking facilities and consequently would support the additional raise if the money were to be used specifically for permanent lots," he said.

NU Will Pay Lincoln Board For Lab Use

The University agreed Thursday to pay the Lincoln Board of Education $22,500 annually for 12 years for the use by Teachers College of a proposed grade-school laboratory.

The Board of Regents approved the agreement on recommendation of Vice Chancellor Adam Breckenridge who explained that laboratory facilities now used by Teachers College are out-moded and that use of the Lincoln facility would solve the problem at a "bargain rate" and without the necessity of capital outlay by the University.

Breckenridge said Lincoln's proposed $775,000 Clare McPhee laboratory-school at 15th and G streets, will be one of the finest facilities of its kind in the country.

It will be equipped with closed-circuit television for instructional use, observation rooms, and special science and reading rooms.

Use of the Lincoln laboratory-school, the vice chancellor said, will enable the University to release space in Bancroft Hall at the University, now used for a laboratory school, to other purposes. Several applications for the space are now under study.

NU Yearbook Ready Sunday For Students

The 1963 Cornhuskers will be distributed Sunday afternoon, according to Cynthia Holmquist, editor.

Students who would like to pick up their yearbooks should bring either their receipt or their student I.D. to the south party room in the Student Union, between 2 and 5 p.m.

They will also be distributed each day during finals from 12 to 4 p.m. Approximately 200 extra Cornhuskers have been ordered and may be purchased for $6.

Extension Division Changes Location

The extension division will be located in 101 Architecture Hall for those wishing to register for the summer session.

It will remain there for registration instead of in Nebraska Hall as listed in the summer session booklet.

VISITS REFINERY

DEAN TRAVELS — Dr. Merk Hobson, Dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture at the University, was one of 17 educators from 17 colleges and universities throughout the United States who visited Phillips Petroleum Company's offices and laboratories in Bartlesville, Okla., and its manufacturing facilities in the Phillips-Borger, Tex., area May 14 to 17. This was the twelfth year that Phillips officials have hosted college representatives.
