Martin Replaces Hallgren

Dr. J. Winston Martin has replaced Frank M. Hallgren as associate dean of Student Affairs.

Hallgren was recently appointed director of the Placement Division.

Dr. Martin came to the University from Washington State University, where he has been assistant dean of men since 1958. Previous to his job there, Martin was administrative assistant to the dean of students at University of Missouri and associate secretary of Missouri University's YMCA.

When questioned as to the purpose of the Student Affairs division, Dr. Martin said one of its main goals is to help the student get the most out of his education and at the same time make him aware of the work of which he is capable.

NU Gets $21 Million For 1963-64 Budget

By GRANT PETERSON
Senior Staff Writer

The University will have an operating budget of $21,007,800 for the 1963-64 fiscal year.

Based on appropriations made by the legislature and approved by the Board of Regents, the new budget exceeds last year's total by $1,626,833.

For the biennium, 1963-65, the University requested $36,991,987 from the state's general fund. The legislature appropriated $31.6 million, a $5.4 million cut.

Of this year total available funds, $15.4 million comes from the general fund, $2.8 million from student tuition and $1.85 million from federal sources. Miscellaneous sources make up the balance.

Dr. Joseph Soshnik, vice chancellor for business and finance, explained that the new budget is designed to accomplish these major aims:

- Provide funds to serve enrollment increases.
- Provide increased support for University libraries.
- Provide five new full-time teachers at the College of Medicine.
- Strengthen the teaching staff of the College of Dentistry, primarily through conversion of part-time positions to full-time.
- Increase support of the University Hospital to permit addition of 25 or 30 new teaching beds during the biennium.
- Continue the vegetable crop research program previously budgeted in the State Department of Agriculture.
- Accelerate the ground water study work of the Division of Conservation and Survey.

Dr. Soshnik said the budget follows the general recommendations the legislature accepted from its budget committee early in July and that as it now stands, the University budget is closely comparable to the detailed estimates included in a letter the University received from the chairman of the legislative budget committee after the close of the session.

The budget, he said, conforms precisely to the legislature's earmarking of funds for vegetable crop research to be done by the Agricultural Experiment Stations and for the ground water and other work of the Division of Conservation and Survey.

Faculty salary increases in the budget, Dr. Soshnik said, were made on a merit basis, not across the board. According to the legislature's budget committee, salary increases averaged about 7%.

Major building projects for which the legislature appropriated funds included $2.5 million for expanding and improving University Hospital at the College of Medicine in Omaha. If matched by federal funds, the College of Dentistry will receive $1.75 million.

Chances for federal matching, both on the Dentistry and Hospital projects seem good. Last week Congress passed necessary basic legislation to provide federal funds.

An additional $1.5 million was provided for construction and equipment of a new music building, while $650,000 was made available for an animal husbandry laboratory.

UNTIL SNOW FLIES

DEAN ROSS SETS PACE—G. Robert Ross, vice chancellor of student affairs, carries on an Innocents Society tradition by buying the first ticket and beanies for the society's dance from Bill Gunlicks. The dance is slated for tonight at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Tradition has it at the University that all freshmen must wear beanies until Nebraska wins its first football game or until the snow flies.

YWCA Freshman Camp Registrations Due Sept. 25

The Freshman Camp registration deadline has been extended to next Wednesday, Sept. 25, campus YWCA Director Betty Gabehart has announced. Students may register and pay their fee of $13 in room 335B of the Nebraska Union, she said.

The camp, a weekend retreat sponsored by the campus YWCA, will be held at Camp Kitaki beginning Friday evening, September 27, and continuing through Sunday afternoon, September 29.

The seventy freshmen, 35 men and 35 women, who attend will have the opportunity to formulate their thoughts and ideas concerning their roles in the University and in later life.

Judy Keys, chairman, said, "the camp is designed to open new areas of interest and to provide a new start for a freshman on his way to a clearer understanding of himself and the world around him."

Four members of the University's faculty will speak about campus and academic life and will present challenging and controversial ideas which may provide the basis with which to begin a discussion, Miss Keys said.

The speakers are: G. Robert Ross, dean of student affairs; Dr. Alan Pickering, university pastor, Christian Churches; Dr. Robert Hough, associate professor of english; and Dr. Robert N. Manley, instructor in history.

There will be discussion

'Miss Rush' To Be Picked

This year, for the first time, the University will have a Miss Rush Week.

She will be chosen from pledge class representatives from each sorority, and the winner will be announced at the Sigma Phi Epsilon parking lot hop Saturday night.

The girls will be judged on complexion, posture, personal care, taste in clothing, projection, poise, and personality. Judges are Mrs. Fred Wells, Mrs. Eleanor Crosier, Frank Halgren, director of placement and Robert Gibson, dean of the College of Pharmacy.

The candidates are: Jenny Freeman, Alpha Chi Omega; Marilyn Carlton, Alpha Delta Pi; Candy Sasso, Alpha Omicron Pi; Diane Smith, Alpha Phi; Elaine Thomas, Alpha Xi Delta; Janet Connell, Chi Omega; Tori Haynes, Delta Delta Delta; Candy Wheeler, Delta Gamma; Barb Pflasterer, Gamma Phi Beta; Barb Smith, Kappa Alpha Theta; Jane Walla, Kappa Delta; Robyn Brock, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Diane Pocht, Pi Beta Phi; Kathryn Roerkasse; Sigma Kappa, and Roberta Layton; Zeta Tau Alpha.

Lacey Will Head 'Nebraskan' Staff

Gary Lacey, a Scottsbluff senior majoring in journalism, has been named editor of the Daily Nebraskan for this semester.

Lacey, a member of Delta Tau Delta, has previously served as managing editor, copy editor and staff writer for the Daily Nebraskan.

John Morris, a McCook senior will serve as managing editor. Morris is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, a journalism major and was news editor last semester.

Sue Hovik from Sioux Falls, S.D. will serve as news editor. Miss Hovik is a senior majoring in journalism and is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Mick Rood, a sophomore from Bellevue, will be sports editor and Larry Asman, a Lincoln sophomore, will serve as assistant sports editor.

Marv McNeff, a junior from

Fullerton, has been named ag news editor.

Arnie Garson and Patty Knapp, both from Lincoln, will serve as copy editors.

Senior staff writers will be Grant Peterson, Gothenburg; Susie Smithberger, Stanton, and Steve Sydow, Omaha.

Gary Miller, St. Joseph, Mo., Shari Johnson, Lincoln, and Frank Partsch, St. Paul, will serve as junior staff writers.

The photographer will be Hal Foster from Bellevue.

John Zeilinger from York will serve as business manager for the third consecutive semester. Bob Cunningham, Lincoln; Bill Gunlicks, Kearney; and Pete Lage, Omaha have been named assistant business managers.

The circulation manager will be Mike Jeffrey, Lincoln and the subscription manager will be Jim Dick, also from Lincoln.

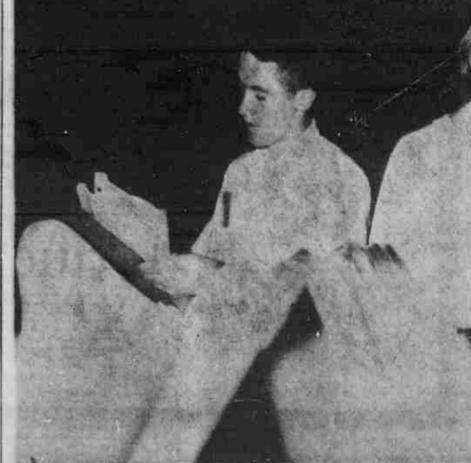

Kivett Replaces Dr. Aeschbacher

Marvin Kivett has replaced Dr. W. L. Aeschbacher as director of the Nebraska State Historical Society. Aeschbacher resigned to become director of the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kansas.

Kivett, a native Nebraskan, has been museum director of the society since 1949. Previously, he worked with the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C.

A University graduate, Kivett has a masters degree in anthropology. He has conducted archeological and historical research in Nebraska.

He has written articles on the prehistoric inhabitants of the plains area.

ONE STEP CLOSER TO CLASSES

WHIZ THROUGH FORMALITIES—Before entering the full swing of campus life, Dick Owen, junior, and Bobbi Hamsa, sophomore, take care of the technicalities of becoming a registered student of the University. With the recently installed system of pre-registration, most students find that registration, takes at the most one short half hour.

Hardin Tells New Students To Be Proud Of University

A record-breaking University freshman class of 3,000 received an assignment Wednesday morning from Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin: "Be proud of your University."

The new students gathered in the Coliseum to begin a round of orientation activities which continued throughout the week.

"Successful people," Chancellor Hardin said, "usually have great pride in the organizations with which they are associated."

"Each of you intends to be a successful student at the University and most of you will be—so be proud of your Cornhusker affiliation," he said.

The Chancellor said the University rates the 1963 freshman class as the best prepared group it has received and predicted that a record proportion of it will earn degrees.

The prediction is based on the improved preparation being given by high schools, on the high scholastic standing of entering freshmen, on greater student determination to stay in school, and on the "University's continuing policy to do all we can to help you succeed", he said.

Remarking that many people regard the near-at-hand as common place and glorify the distant about which they know less the Chancellor said, "I hasten to report to you that the University is a distinguished institution of higher education."

He pointed out that it has long been affiliated with the Association of American Universities, an elite academic society composed of 41 of the nation's high-ranking colleges and universities.

Weekend Weather

Weekend weather in the Lincoln vicinity will be partly cloudy with occasional showers or thunderstorms. The highs should range around 75.

Alum Head Takes Full-Time Chores

George Bastian of Lincoln, president of the University Alumni Association last year, will take over the administrative reins of the organization on a full-time basis, effective immediately.

Announcement of his selection to succeed Arnold Manson who resigned as Alumni Association Secretary was made by Milton Ebers, president of the association.

For 19 years Bastian was associated with the Stuart Investment Company of Lincoln. He was named executive vice president there in 1949 and resigned from the firm on July 1 this year.

He is a member of the trust advisory committee of the National Bank of Commerce, Trust and Savings, Lincoln; vice president of the Board of Trustees, Bryan Memorial Hospital; and a director of the Standard Reliance Insurance Company, Lincoln. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Pre-Game Rally Set For Tonight

The pep rally for the South Dakota game will be held at 6:30 tonight on the north steps of the Union. The entire football team and Coach Devaney and the board will be present. Speakers will include Devaney, game co-captains John Kirby and Dennis Clairidge and Vice Chancellor Adam Breckenridge. Cheerleaders and pom-pom girls will be introduced.

Navy Information Offered in Booth

The Navy ROTC Department provided a general information booth for new students in the main lobby of the Student Union during New Student Week.

The display, which was staffed by upperclass members of the Navy ROTC program, also offered a booklet on the Navy ROTC contract program for freshmen.
