

Three New Lots Ease City Campus Parking Problem

Campus Parking Problem

Business Manager Carl Donaldson announced Friday the addition of 550 new parking stalls to ease the parking problem on city campus.

The largest of the three new lots is under the viaduct north of the stadium, where 425 stalls are now available. Seventy-five stalls are located north of Nebraska Hall between 16th and 17th streets and about 35 are south of Vine Street between 16th and 17th.

Captain Eugene Masters of the University Police said the 550 new stalls will more than compensate for the 460 student parking stalls which were changed this year to faculty and employee stalls. These stalls were located along the streets within the campus.

Approximately 100 new stalls will be available north of Twin Towers when construction equipment storage space is cleared.

Students may purchase a parking sticker for $5.00 from the campus police and must have this sticker to park a car anywhere on campus. Male students living within eight blocks of campus must use Area 2 parking before 3:00 p.m. on weekdays. Off-campus students and women use the Area 1 facilities. These regulations will be enforced starting today.

Captain Masters said that the University is now in the process of acquiring additional lots both on city and ag campus to cope with the increasing number of cars on campus.

University Extension Offers College Credits World Wide

The University Extension Division, the largest and oldest of its kind in the nation, has been designed to give part-time students an opportunity to earn high school or college credits by correspondence.

The Division is an administrative agency, according to G. B. Childs, associate director, and it makes courses available from the colleges and departments of the University.

The Extension handles four types of courses: college correspondence, high school correspondence, evening classes, and off-campus classes.

The evening classes and off-campus classes are taught by University instructors in Nebraska communities. The division holds engineering and graduate medicine classes in Omaha.

The college correspondence enrolled 3,000 students in the year ending July 1, 1963. The majority of these students are from Nebraska and most of them are also connected with the University.

The high school program offers high school courses, to adults working for their diploma, college applicants with deficiencies, and children living in areas where it is impossible to attend a high school. Over 15,000 students from 50 states and 80 foreign countries took part in the high school program last year. By percentage breakdown, 20 per cent were from Nebraska, 40 per cent from other states, and 40 per cent from overseas.

The services of the extension division, which is self-supporting, are not only in classes. Among the other services offered are a film library, traveling art libraries, community service projects, and the sponsoring of local lectures and discussion groups. It also provides a course for people filing for United States citizenship.

Add-Drop Procedures Outlined: Deadline To Add Classes Oct. 4

By SHARI JOHNSON
Junior Staff Writer

The process of dropping and adding classes is one big problem which is faced by most students at sometime or another during their college years.

For the student who had decided to go through this process, there is only one aid and that is to be familiar with the University's drop-add policy. There are five steps that must be completed before a student can drop or add a class.

1. Get a drop-add worksheet from the Registrar's Office.
2. Take the worksheet to your advisor and get his approval and signature on the completed worksheet.
3. Take the signed worksheet to the dean of your college for his signature. There is only one exception: students in the College of Agriculture need only their advisor's signature on the worksheet.

4. Take the worksheet to the Coliseum (beginning this Monday) and pull the class cards for the courses you are adding.

5. Pay the drop-add fee of $2.50. However, fee is waived if the University has made a mistake in your registration. But, you must have proof either from your advisor or from Mrs. Irma Laese in the Registrar's Office.

After October 4th, no courses may be added and after October 18th, to drop a class you must take your drop-add worksheet to the Registrar's Office instead of the Coliseum.

Dean Lee W. Chatfield, director of the Junior Division, said the number of drops and adds at the freshman level last fall declined substantially over the previous year (1961-62).

Chatfield said he believes the improvement in the registration procedures has accounted for some of the decline in drops and adds last though it is too early to predict what the drop and add experience will be this fall, he does not look for a reversal of the downward trend recorded last year.

One factor working against large numbers of drops and adds, he pointed out, is that students who are registered for courses they can use effectively in their programs have ample reason for hesitating to make switches because there are few open sections left to choose from.

"The best general advice," he said, "is to stick with the class assignments you have. The prospect for getting something better—or easier—is not bright."

Concert Sales Begin Today

Tickets for the Community Concert Association's 1963-64 season will be on sale at the Student Union or from sellers on campus starting today, and will be available until Oct. 11.

This season's concerts include The World of Benny Goodman on Nov. 19, The Philharmonica Hungaria Orchestra on January 25, The Roger Wagner Chorale on March 3, and the Bayanihan Philippine Dance Company on March 25.

The Union Music Committee is sponsoring the concerts and will give each seller one free ticket for every ten he sells. Student tickets are five dollars and non-student tickets are eight dollars for the four-concert season.

Meeting for ticket salesmen is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. in 334 Student Union. If it is not possible to attend, contact Vicki Dowling.

Chi Phi's Near Charter Number

The addition of 8 more men to the Alpha Theta Chi chapter of Chi Phi Fraternity would be enough for the house to obtain its national charter. The colony's house roll currently lists 26 men.

One of the first fraternities at NU, the local Chi Phi chapter obtained its national charter in 1932. A high rate of armed service enlistment during the war forced the house off campus in 1943. The Chi Phi's recolonized here last February when they obtained the old Zeta Beta Tau house.

Nationally, the Chi Phis have 34 chapters and list Dr. Roscoe Pound, Dean of Harvard Law School and a University of Nebraska graduate, as one of their original founders.

ADPi's Host Coffee In New House

Alpha Delta Pi Sorority held an open house and coffee hour in their newly redecorated house after the Nebraska-South Dakota State Football game Saturday afternoon.

Thirty-four girls now occupy the house, formerly Terrace Hall Co-operative, filling it to capacity. The sorority has leased the house from the University for two years, until a new house can be built.

The Alpha Delta Pis colonized in the spring of 1962 with sixteen women and received their charter in the spring of 1963. The NU Chapter is the 105th national Alpha Delta Pi chapter. For the past year, members have lived in various women's residence halls on both city and ag campuses.

The national Alpha Delta Pi organization sorority financed the redecoration of the first floor of the house.
