

NU Keeps Top Big 8 Statistics

Kansas State's 146-yard aerial effort against Missouri last week-end moved it to the top of the Big Eight Conference in team passing, but Nebraska still retains lead spots in the other major team statistical categories through 4 weeks of play.

The Huskers lead the league in rushing and total offense and team defense — positions they've held since the first of the season — and it's only in passing that the Nebraskans fail to rank either first or second among Conference teams.

Nebraska has averaged 266.7 yards on the ground and 341.7 over-all offensively and limited four opponents to an average of 188.5 yards to cash in on the leading spots in those departments.

Behind Nebraska in total defense are Missouri with a 219.5 average and Oklahoma at 258.3.

Kansas State replaced Kansas as the passing leader by a 28-yard margin, 381-353, marking the third pace-setter in that division in as many weeks.

The other lead spots in team statistics go to Missouri in rushing defense with a 95.2 average and Iowa State in pass defense with 87.2. Nebraska stands second in each with 97 and 91.5 averages, respectively.

Colorado, putting together another fine offensive showing of 324 yards against Oklahoma State, ranks behind the Cornhuskers in rushing and total offense. The Buffs have averaged 224.5 yards per game on the ground and 285.7 over-all through four contests. Oklahoma, with three games, is third in both departments with a 208.6 rushing average and 280.6 over-all.

There are two new faces among the Big Eight Conference statistical leaders—Iowa State's Tom Vaughn in rushing and Missouri's Gary Lane in total offense — and most of the supporting positions received a wholesale reshuffling through last week's play.

Vaughn gave notice he's eyeing a return of Conference rushing honors to Iowa State — where they rested four straight years before being interrupted last season by Kansas' Gale Sayers — by out-dueling Sayers in the Cyclones' 17-14 win at Lawrence and taking over top spot in the league rushing race.

The 5-10 junior letterman posted 138 yards on 23 carries and brought his four-game total to 364 yards while Sayers tapered off his league-leading pace with 81 yards in 16 attempts to drop to second with a 341-yard total.

Others among the top five rushers are Willie Ross, Nebraska, 287; Bill Harris, Colorado, 281; and Rudy Johnson, Nebraska, 251.

Sophomore Quarterback Lane completed 10 of 17 passes for 173 yards and chipped in 64 more on the ground (including a 50-yard touchdown dash) to wrest the Conference total offense from Nebraska's Dennis Claridge. Lane's four-game total stands at 297 yards — 140 by running and 257 by passing — while Kansas' Steve Renko is a scant five yards behind with 292. Claridge, leader since the first week, is third with 269, followed by Vaughn and Sayers with 364 and 341.

Renko retained his hold on the passing leadership with 94 yards against Iowa State, 65 of them coming on a last-ditch effort, and now has a 334-yard total. Kansas State's Larry Corrigan moved up from fourth to second with 146 yards on 15 completions against Missouri and has a 286-yard total. Claridge is third with 261 and Lane fourth with 257.

Other individual statistical leaders are pass receiving — Dick Limerick, Iowa State, 14 catches for 204 yards; punting — Doug Dusenbury, Kansas State, 23 punts with a 42.3 average; punt returns — Virgil Boll, Oklahoma, three returns with a 19.3 average; scoring — Bill Harris, Colorado, 30 points.

K-State Wants Skein To End At Nebraska

Nebraska's Cornhuskers face their second conference foe of the '63 season—a much improved Kansas State squad.

Coach Bob Devaney referred to the '63 K-State team as "a much better team than the one we beat at Lincoln last year . . . we know we'll have to bounce back from our first defeat or we'll be in deep trouble."

'Star' Jeter Wants Both Offense, Defense Work

Sophomore end Tony Jeter is the Star of the Week winner.

Jeter, equally adept at offense or defense, threw a key block at the Air Force 45 that enabled Rudy Johnson to complete a 76-yard touchdown run early in the second half. Dave Theisen's kick tied the score at 7 to 7.

Jeter was one of the players praised for strong play by Coach Devaney after the game.

Virginia, Jeter, like many students, wanted to go to college in another part of the country. At Weirton he lettered four years in football, three in basketball and baseball, and one in track.

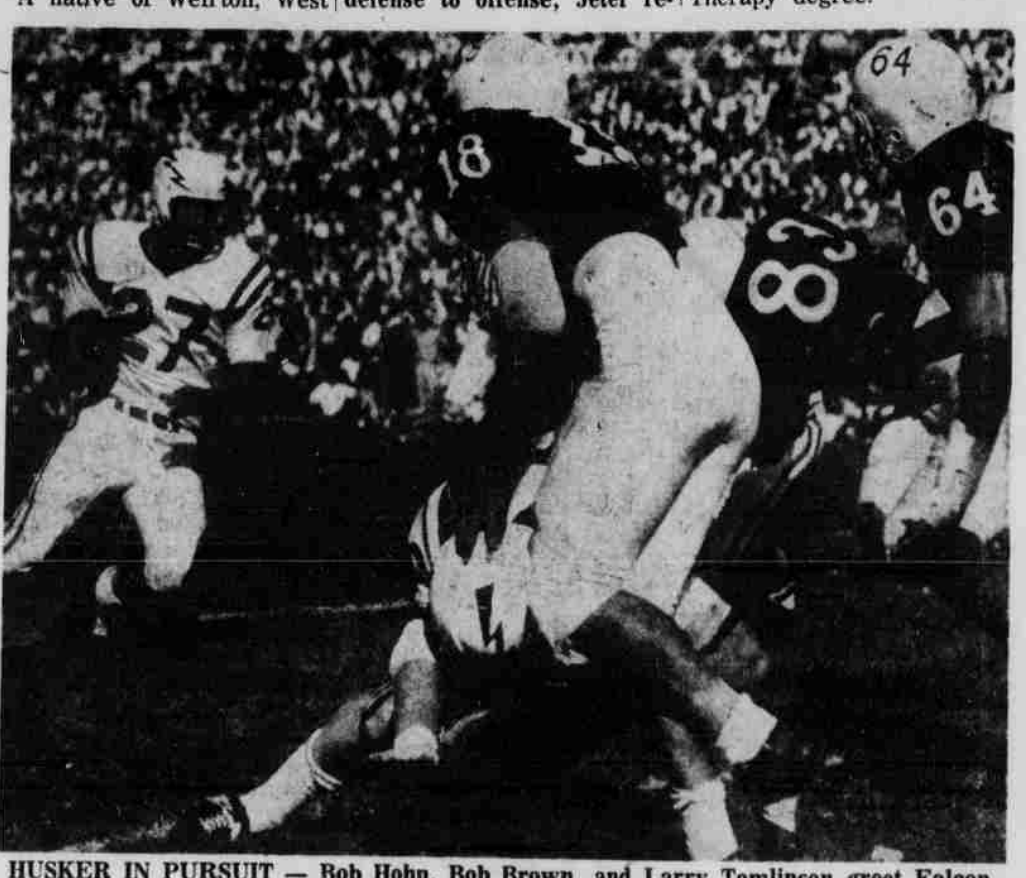

Jeter made three unassisted tackles against Air Force. Against Iowa State the week before he made three unassisted tackles and five assisted tackles. For the season, Jeter's eight unassisted tackles rank him in a tie for third on the team with co-captain John Kirby.

Asked whether he prefers defense to offense, Jeter replies, "They're equal to me. I'll play where I'm needed. I just want to play."

The rangy right end, who stands 6' 2½" and weighs 203 pounds, has the rather dubious distinction of being the first "Star" in a Nebraska loss. Queried about Air Force quarterback Terry Isaacson, Jeter said, "That quarterback is a very elusive guy to hold down. You need three guys on him, and if he can't pass, he runs."

Jeter, who has just turned 19, is in a course which will be culminated with a Physical Therapy degree.

Higginbotham To Check Team Rosters

Mr. Higginbotham would like to see the PTP soccer coach at his office in the Men's Physical Education Building.

ALL intramural managers are reminded that Friday is the deadline for checking team rosters against the house or dorm rosters. Names, addresses, phone numbers, and hours carried should be listed.

Do this in Room 115, Men's

Physical Education Building. Failure to accomplish this checking will bar a team from tournaments and may make players ineligible.
