Man, Eclipse Permanent

A new exhibit, depicting early man looking at an eclipse of the moon, was opened to the public Sunday at the State Museum Morrill Hall. Funds for the exhibit were contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Behlen of Columbus. Wade Cox, under the direction of Dr. Edward I. Fry associate professor of physical anthropology and Dr. Schult of a vertebrate paleontologist, carefully constructed the man to appear similar to the Asian cave dwellers of Middle Ice Age. Artist Cox first constructed the model from clay and then cast it in special fiberglass. Museum director, Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz said the exhibit is part of a new series of displays that will eventually go into a Hall of Space and Time. This first series represents man's early interest in the sky and universe.

Integration Problem Unsolved

Negro Spokesman Against Violence

By Frank Partsch Senior Staff Writer

Prathia Hall, a member of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), told a group of University students last week that many southern Negroes are afraid to register and vote because of social, economical and political oppression by election officials and law officers.

In a resume of the work of the SNCC, Miss Hall listed Civil Rights legislation, more voter registration and education of the voters to pass literacy tests as the main goals of the organization.

"Many times, out of fear, the people slam their doors in our faces," she said, "and when a man finally walks out of his 'shotgun house' (so called because of its poor condition) he knows that he is risking the loss of that house, his job and maybe even his life."

Many cases of racial injustices, according to Miss Hall, have never made the press. She cited many examples of murders, beatings, and unlawful arrests that she and other members of the committee have witnessed which were never reported. Many of these crimes were in retaliation against the Negro's attempts to register.

SNCC, indicated Miss Hall, is composed of students who give a year of more from their educations to help provide a non-violent channel by which oppressed Negroes can gain rights which have been withheld from them.

Although their work is primarily in the South, Miss Hall admitted that there are racial problems in the North and East as well, and that her visit to Lincoln is to campaign for civil rights legislative support.

SNCC has been attacked by segregationists who call them radicals and communistic, says Miss Hall.

In answer to these charges, she said, "Communist? What is more American than the right to vote? I don't need the Kremlin to tell me that I don't like to see a man beaten because he wants to vote."

Election Today Names Queen

Elections for Homecoming Queen will be held today from 8 to 6 p.m. on both City and Ag campuses.

On City campus the elections will be held in the main lounge of the Student Union. There will be 2 lines to speed the voting.

On Ag campus elections will be held near the entrance of the Union.

Students are to vote for three candidates and in order to vote student ID's must be presented.

The Queen will be crowned by Chancellor Hardin at the 6:30 pep rally on Friday, and her attendants will be presented.

The ten finalists are: Jancee Benda, Alpha Omicron Pi; Carol Bieck, Gamma Phi Beta; Polly Brown, Delta Gamma; Carol Lea Klein, Independent Woman's Association; Bonnie Knudsen, Pi Beta Phi; Sandy McDowell, Alpha Xi Delta; Mary Morrow, Kappa Alpha Theta; Joanie Skinner, Alpha Chi Omega; Becky Yerk, Alpha Phi; Sally Wilson, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

These ten will ride in the rally parade Friday night.

For the parade Lincoln and University police will direct all automobile traffic on the following route: beginning at 17th and R., west to 14th; north to S.; east to 16th; north to Vine, where the traffic will be routed east and west out of the University residence.

The Queen and her court will be introduced to the capacity crowd at the homecoming football game at 2 p.m. Saturday. All tickets for this game are sold out, according to Jim Pittenger, asstant to the director of athletics.

At the Homecoming dance on Saturday the Queen and her Attendants will again be presented. The dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at Pershing Municipal Auditorium. The Lee Castle and Jimmy Dorsey orchestra will play for the occasion.

Several organizations are preparing for a record number of returning alumni and friends for Homecoming.

George Bastian, executive director of the University of Nebraska Alumni Association, said that the Southern California chapter of the Association has chartered a special airliner to carry about 100 alumni to the University from the Los Angeles area.

White Mums Help Finance MB Activities

Part of the collection of traditions connected with the University's Homecoming game and dance are the mums sold each year by the Mortar Boards.

In addition to adding color to Homecoming, the mum sale provides finances for such Mortar Board projects as all women's elections and the graduate seminar which informs senior women of the opportunities of advanced study. This year's seminar will be held on Nov. 13.

To encourage participation in University activities, Mortar Boards speak to freshmen women before the Freshmen Activities Mart and help compile a comprehensive list of University organizations.

Most of the mum sales profits will be used to continue the Mortar Board scholarship program. An emergency fund of $300 is kept on reserve for foreign students, and a $300 fellowship has been awarded to a graduate woman student.

Mortar Board recognizes outstanding scholarship by presenting awards to the top women scholars in each class at the annual scholarship luncheon.

Working with the Innocents society, the Mortar Boards present programs to various civic groups across the state to encourage out-state support for the University. Ivy Day, marking its 75th anniversary this year, is also jointly planned by the two senior honoraries.

Innocents Set Traffic Route For Displays

The tour route for homecoming displays has been announced by Bill Ahlschwede, Innocents Homecoming chairman. The route will begin at 7 p.m. at 17th and R streets, proceed east to 16th street and north to Vine street.

One-way traffic will be in effect all along the route. To facilitate traffic movement, no parking will be allowed on either side of the streets involved Friday afternoon or evening. Cars in violation will be towed away, according to Ahlschwede.

University officials and city police anticipate a larger turn out than in previous years, so it may be necessary to keep the displays in operation later than 10 p.m. Displays will be expected to be in operation until the display route traffic is dissolved, said Ahlschwede.

Winners and trophies for the best homecoming displays in each division will be announced and presented at the homecoming dance. Displays will be checked for rule infractions Friday afternoon. Judging will be Friday evening.

Used lumber in displays will be evaluated at half price, according to Ahlschwede.

Journalist Speaks On Racial Issue

Thomas R. Curran, vice-president and general European manager of United Press International in London, told journalism students Tuesday, "The British are becoming much more tolerant of the U.S. racial problem."

Curran, a former NU student himself, went on to say that "London has been having similar troubles of its own, particularly with Jamaican immigrants who have come to London in search of jobs and were unable to find them."

When questioned on British feelings toward the Negro drive for equality, Curran said Londoners believe that Negroes are "certainly entitled to it."

The London newsman also commented on Africa's troubles, attributing them to

"communications and personnel." Said Curran, "African countries are very sensitive to what is reported about them, whether it's true or not." Interviews were described as "very difficult to arrange."

Curran was born in Lincoln. While attending high school and the University (1920-24), he served as a telegrapher and correspondent for United Press Association, Associated Press and International News Service.

Panhellenic Seeks New Suggestions For Greek Week

Panhellenic began making plans for Greek Week at their meeting Monday. Representatives will be asking their respective houses for volunteers to work on the various committees.

Some of the committees are: Greek games, Greek week ball, booklet, seminars, teas and open houses, exchange dinners, street dance, marathon and recognition dinner. President Susie Walburn pointed out that anyone with good new ideas or alternate ideas for any of these should volunteer.

Ann Kezor was chosen as Panhellenic's candidate for AUF activities queen.

A Panhellenic rush booklet was suggested as a replacement for the booklets put out by each individual sorority. It was pointed out that it would cut the expense immensely. Representatives are to talk to their rush chairmen and chapters to find out their opinions before more research is put into the possible program.
