PASSED, BUT DEFEATED:

Migration Move

And then sometimes you have to wonder about the unusual situations that Student Council sometimes wiggles itself into.

Yesterday, Council "the supreme student governing body," in the interest of promoting school spirit urged all students to attend the game at the University of Missouri this weekend.

In grandiose terminology (the dialect in which most resolutions are written) the motion explained that all students would be admitted who presented themselves at the gate.

In urging the student body to attend the Missouri game which is ordinarily called migration by most Nebraskans, the Council is in effect supporting or sponsoring migration.

The resolution was capped by a rather interesting anecdote which came in the form of an amendment made by Student Council Vice President Dick Weill.

His amendment read: "This (the resolution) is not to imply that Student Council is sponsoring an official migration."

The resolution though passed, in effect, was defeated.

Case For Responsibility?

Dear Editor:

Several articles in the last few days have mentioned "responsibility." As far as the Daily Nebraskan's concerned this word has become somewhat of a myth. Does the Nebraskan claim to be responsible? Responsible journalism would seem to entail accurate and thorough reporting of affairs and events, evaluating their importance and significance and placing them in their proper perspective, and refraining from publishing articles based on faulty judgment, lack of facts and depth of understanding.

As an average student I do not pretend or claim to be a newspaper critic. But I have been misinformed and misled by news articles, headlines and editorials in recent editions. In citing a few examples I would ask:

1. Did Lynn Corcoran and Steve Sydow show mature and careful thought in appraising discrimination on this campus?

2. Is "Big Iron's" pinning of special University interest?

3. When was the AWS Activities Mart finally held?

4. Do we have to be informed of the Alpha Lambda Delta pledges twice?

5. Was it the final decision of the Rally Committee to prohibit the CU band from playing their song as was initially reported in the Nebraskan?

Students have tolerated incompetency thus far. However, after reading the follow-up on Homecoming I for one can take it no longer. The coverage of the Homecoming Queen was a disgrace to our deserving Queen. Human interest is one thing but isn't this carrying it a little too far?

Couldn't the reporter think of anything more interesting than a new dress, a sore foot and Sunday laundry? Students who have not had the opportunity to meet our Homecoming Queen still know little about her now. Were there any attendants this year? Assuming the girl in the picture on the front page of Monday's Nebraskan is the Queen, who is standing beside her? Did anyone attend the Homecoming Dance?

Turning to the editorial page, other questions come to mind. Do the columnists have a sincere interest in expressing their views or are they merely trying to create issues?

To err is human but there have been too many mistakes, omissions and misrepresentations. Think what the University community wants and needs to read, Nebraskan staff. Are you failing in your responsibility to reflect and report accurately campus events and opinions?

Respectfully submitted,
 Susie Pierce

Dorm Rates

The news of the ten percent increases in dorm rates was brought to my attention about 11:20 Monday morning. That whispered conversation in class proved two points: 1) The only way to stay awake in my eleven o'clock class is to read the Nebraskan. 2) The idea of raised dorm rates isn't going to go over very big. It will be interesting to note the students' reactions. (The first comment I heard was "If that's the way they want it, they can keep their . . . dorms.")

Monday night I called sixteen organized men's houses to compare monthly house bills. The new dorm rates will be around $92 per month. The average among the sixteen houses was about $89. I think the figures are close enough to question the truth of the statement that living in a University dorm is less expensive than living in an organized house. Let's face it, anything over $90.00 per month for room and board is a large stack of money. Maybe we should ask where it is all going.

More unofficial statistics: Monthly house bills: Delta Sigma Phi, $82; Delta Sigma Pi, $75; Brown Palace Co-op, $56. These figures are nowhere near the dorm rates! Makes you doubt the efficiency of somebody somewhere. Any comments?

Words And Action

By Steve Stastny

Promises, promises! During the 1960 Presidential Campaign, Senator John F. Kennedy made many promises. President John F. Kennedy has not kept a great number of these promises.

"I value the American belief that the checks and balances required by our system were written into the Constitution." So said JFK on August 24 while campaigning in Alexandria, Va. Kennedy since has called the Constitution a document written for another age, and his aides refer to it as "archaic." His advisors call Congress a stumbling block and raise questions about the desirability of having Congress control spending as the Constitution directs.

On Sept. 1, JFK said that the members of the House should decide what the House rules should be. However, Kennedy has used threats, patronage, and promises to expand the House rules committee with members favorable to his program.

Kennedy assailed the high interest rate policy in home financing and suggested the adoption of fiscal policies to stimulate growth. (Sept. 5) Since then the Kennedy Administration has raised the FHA interest rate, extended mortgage terms so that a taxpayer buying a home will pay more than the original purchase price in interest payments.

In my judgment, an effective Attorney General with the present laws that we now have on the books can remove Mr. Hoffa from office." (Sept. 23) After Robert Kennedy's repeated efforts to nail Hoffa in court, he still reigns as head of the Teamsters Union.

On Oct. 12, JFK said that our balance of payments will be strong and that, "we can cease to worry about the outflow of gold." Under Kennedy, our balance of payments has steadily worsened, the outflow of gold has accelerated to such a dangerous point that other nations are worried about the value of the U.S. dollar.

Also on Oct. 12, while discharging troops at Little Rock, JFK said, "There is more power in the Presidency than to let things drift and then suddenly to call out the troops." Kennedy allowed things to drift at "Ole Miss", then suddenly rushed troops into Oxford, who violated the civil rights of many Americans in the vicinity.

At Miami Beach, on Oct. 18, Kennedy stated that we should not appoint ambassadors and others just because they have contributed to a political campaign.

However, nearly half of the "non-career" appointees to high Foreign Service posts aboard are big Democrat contributors. Typical is Matthew McCloskey, Ambassador to Ireland, who as treasurer of the Democrat Party grew fat on Federal building contracts.

"I am not promising action in the first 100 days alone—I am promising you one thousand days of exacting Presidential leadership. I want to be a President who believes in working full-time." (Nov. 5) In his first two years of office alone, JFK had been away from the White House 215 days, almost one-third of the time, vacationing, yachting, etc. at Hyannisport, Palm Beach, Newport, Glen Ora, and elsewhere.

These are only a small number of the approximately 500 major campaign promises which Kennedy made in his 1960 campaign. Since he has kept but a fraction of these pledges, it appears that promises mean one thing and performance another!

Dialogue For Vespers

By Roy Carson
 Versicle (chanted).
 O Lord, open Thou my lips. And my mouth shall show forth Thy praise.
 O, come let us worship the Lord, for He is Our Maker.
 Response (spoken)
 I am a self-made man.
 V. God created man in His own image.
 R. Clothes make the man, and the best clothes are seen in "Playboy."
 V. We are His Workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto Good Works.
 R. "Cover Girl" make-up will give you a lovely cover girl face.
 V. All things were created by Him.
 R. A General Motors engineer can create a solution to any of your pour problems.
 V. The sea is His, and He made it.
 R. Wherever you find water, you usually find Seagram's V.O.
 V. God created the heavens and the earth.
 R. Now is the time to act, to take longer strides, time for a great new American enterprise, time for this nation to take a clearly leading role in space achievement.
 V. By Him all things were created.
 R. Have you heard about that bunch of eggheads out in California that can create life in a test tube?
 V. Be filled with the knowledge of His will.
 R. This year these are the colors to crave.
 V. Thou shall not covet anything that is Thy neighbors.
 R. Be the first to have a '64 Pontiac, and be the envy of your friends.
 V. Let us love one another for love is of God, God is love.
 R. Love is lovelier with Arpege.

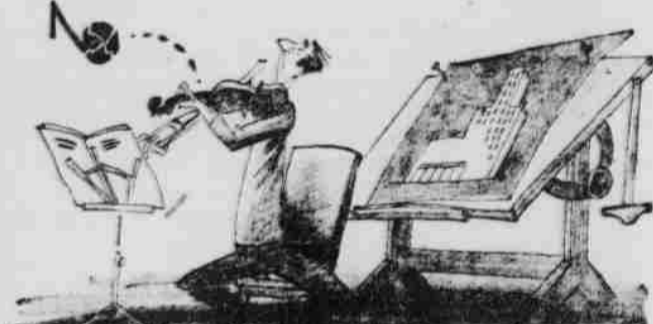

V. Whatever you do, do all to the glory of God, Amen.
 Glory be to the Father, to His Son Jesus Christ the Lord, to the Spirit who dwells among us, to the One God, forever, Amen.
 R. Our Fathers, who art in Madison Avenue, hallowed be thy names.
 V. Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name.
 R. May Thy work and influence flourish, and may Thy will be done in Lincoln as well as Manhattan.
 V. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven.
 R. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us.
 R. And for heaven's sake, our Lords, lead us into temptation, and deliver us from the Puritans.
 V. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.
 R. For Thine is the Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory—if not forever—at least until someone sharper than you comes along, Amen and Amen.
 V. For Thine is the Kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever and ever, Amen.
 V. Let us pray.
 Our Father show us who we are. Let us see the world and our place in it. Forgive our preoccupation with status, style, and popularity, and make us conscious of how we can serve You and help others. Keep the Holy Spirit with us to give us identity. In the name of Thy human Son, Amen.
 Glory be to the Father, to His Son Jesus Christ the Lord, to the Spirit who dwells among us, to the One God, forever, Amen.

I WAS A TEEN-AGE SLIDE RULE

In a recent learned journal (Playboy) the distinguished board chairman (Ralph "Hot Lips" Sigafos) of one of our most important American industrial corporations (the Art Mechanical Dog Co.) wrote a trenchant article in which he pinpointed our single most serious national problem: the lack of culture among science graduates.

Let me hasten to state that Mr. Sigafos's article was in no sense derogatory. He said emphatically that the science graduate, what with his grueling curriculum in physics, math, and chemistry, can hardly be expected to find time to study the arts too. What distresses Mr. Sigafos—and, indeed, all of us—is the lopsided result of today's science courses: graduates who can build a skyscraper but can't compose a concerto; who know Newton's Third Law but not Beethoven's Fourth Symphony.

phony, who are familiar with Fraunhofer's lines but not with Shelley's.

Mr. Sigafos can find no solution to this lamentable imbalance. I, however, believe there is one—and a very simple one. It is this: if students of science don't have time to come to the arts, then the arts must come to students of science.

For example, it would be a very easy thing to teach poetry and music right along with physics. Students, instead of being called upon merely to recite, would instead be required to rhyme their answers and set them to familiar tunes—like, for instance, the stirring Colonel Bogey March. Thus recitations would not only be check-a-block with important facts but would, at the same time, expose the students to the aesthetic delights of great poetry and music. Here, try it yourself. You all know The Colonel Bogey March. Come, sing along with me:

Physics
 Is what we learn in class,
 Einstein
 Said energy is mass,
 Newton
 Is high-falutin'
 And Pascal's aascal. So's Boyle.

Do you see how much more broadening, how much more uplifting it is to learn physics this way? Of course you do. What? You want another chorus? By all means:

Leyden
 He made the Leyden jar,
 Trolley
 He made the Trolley car,
 Curie
 Rode in a surrey
 And Diesel's a weasel. So's Boyle.

Once the student has mastered The Colonel Bogey March, he can go on to more complicated melodies like Death and Transfiguration, Sixteen Tons, and Boo-Hoo.

And when the student, loaded not only with science but with culture, leaves his classroom and lights his Marlboro Cigarette, how much more he will enjoy that filter, that flavor, that pack or box! Because there will no longer be a little voice within him repeating that he is culturally a dot. He will know—know joyously—that he is a complete man, a fulfilled man, and he will bask and revel in the pleasure of his Marlboro as a cult rolls in new gear—exultant and triumphant—a truly educated human person—a credit to his college, to himself, and to his tobaccoist!
