Angry KU Invades For Reversal Try

Big Eight leader Nebraska will meet revenge-minded Kansas University Saturday in a must game for the Huskers.

Last year both teams entered the game with identical conference records... Nebraska, fresh from a nationally televised defeat by Missouri, upset the Jayhawks 40-16. While fans awaited the running explosion of Kansas Gale Sayers, Nebraska's Willie Ross scored touchdowns on runs of 32, 26, and 4 yards.

ranks 12th in the Nation in the rushing charts.

A sell-out crowd of 38,000 will watch the Parents Day spectacle. Many fans will get their first look at Gale Sayers since he played in the 1961 Nebraska Shrine Bowl. The highly touted Sayers played prep football at Omaha Central where he set an inter-city scoring record two years in a row.

Devaney's all time coaching record stands at 50-13-5 for a .771 percentage. The Dunkel system selected Nebraska by 3 points. New York's Will Grimsley predicts a 24-14 win for the Huskers but adds "the Cornhuskers are still living on borrowed time after last week's squeaker."

UPI's Steve Snider forecasts a 21-17 win for the Huskers. A win Saturday will give Devaney a 16-2 record at Nebraska.

Basketball Now?

With the Husker football team in the midst of the Big Eight title fight, a spiel on basketball seems a little out of place, but keep in mind that the first game is four weeks away.

Although the wins may come in bucketfuls, the Huskers are going to be interesting and fun to watch.

In the past few years Nebraska has used a conservative game, going with a give-and-go style when Jerry Bush took the reins. Such a style was the most effective, with the material the Coliseum Bear had.

But now, with Joe Cipriano in his first year as coach, hopes of running for points seems to be taking shape. And, though this is a big transition from the perennial style, a few of the cagers seems to be making the adaption well.

Namely, Bob Cebrun, Earl Wright, Jim Yates and Neil Nannen.

Cebrun, a transfer, appears to be the most polished. He has the moves, a nice touch from outside and, from early and short viewings, gives the impression of a floor leader.

Last year a court general was sorely missed. Nannen showed signs of it, but not since Rex Swett graduated two years ago has a definite leader been apparent.

Cipriano has little trouble in seeing the weaknesses. "Defense and rebounding," he says. "We are going to start working on that."

Rebounding could be an all but insolvable problem. Last year's leaders in this category, Ivan Grupe and Bill Vincent (whose tragic death also put a crimp in the scoring plans), are gone.

Yates, out last year, looks like the top man off the boards and Cipriano is also pleased with his ability to go with the running, fast-break game.

Back to Football

The Sunflower State may be sick of Fred Duda come Saturday. The sophomore quarterback looks as though he will get the nod to start for Scarlet and Cream with Dennis Claridge on the shelf with a bad thigh.

Duda proved himself in the 28-6 win over Kansas State and let's hope that he establishes himself further against the Jayhawks.

One thing that makes Duda impressive is his ability to get away from rushing linemen when he can't find an open receiver.

A quick look at the statistics shows that Fred has lost only two yards rushing (80 gained); a commendable feat for being but a sophomore. He has hit 9 of 22 passes for 117 yards.

Prediction: I started out the week optimistic, but now that the chips are down I'm not so sure.

With a squinting eye: NEBRASKA 21, Kansas 10. (Sayers great, middle of line weak, we'll soon see.)

Although Ross has yet to score a touchdown for the Huskers this fall, it can be assured that the Kansas defense will be determined not to allow Ross the free access to the goal line that he had last year.

Soph Fred Duda is expected to assume starting quarterback duties as Denny Claridge is still a doubtful starter for the game. Ironically enough in last year's game, Claridge was limited to handing off the ball. He had suffered a sprained ankle in the previous week's game with Missouri.

The Cornhuskers enter the game leading the nation in rushing offense. Help for the Cornhusker rushing game will be expected from senior fullback Rudy Johnson who Jayhawk coach, Jack Mitchell said it is difficult to prepare for the Nebraska game because "They do so many things so well and have such good personnel."

Since 1917 the Huskers have won 34, lost 10 and have tied in the Kansas series.

Devaney is expected to add another win to his all-time coaching record Saturday. National prognosticators pick the Nebraska over Kansas University in a vital game for the Husker title hopes.

Sayers Returns Wanting Victory On Husker Turf

How does a man feel when he returns to his home state to play "their" state university?

Gale Sayers, second-leading rusher in the Big Eight, said, "I just want to try to play my regular game. If you try too hard, you start bobbling the ball. I want to beat Nebraska, sure. Not because I'm from Nebraska, but because it's a conference game. And you always try to win as many as you can."

How does a man feel when he returns to his home state to play "their" state university?

Sayers now is just 156 yards short of Charlie Hoag's (1950-1952) all-time Kansas record of 1914 yards, and Gale knows he may easily have to set the new record tomorrow to defeat the Cornhuskers in the 70th meeting of the two clubs.

SAYERS COMES HOME—Kansas star Gayle Sayers will attempt to make a "successful" homecoming of Saturday's game with Nebraska.

Delts To Defend Crown Against Phi Psi Gridders

Today begins the All-University intramural football tournament.

One of the top games today matches Delta Tau Delta-A (5 and 0 and champion of League I-A) against Phi Kappa Psi-A (4 and 1). The Delts are defending All-University champions in football while the Phi Psis are defending All-University champs for all-sports.

In a top Ag game, Farm-House (3-1) meets Ag Men (4-2 after a one-point loss to undefeated Play Boys Wednesday). Play Boys will play Newman Club or Phi Delta Theta, and undefeated (3-0) Dental College rounds out today's play with a game against Phi Epsilon Kappa, which has won three games of four.

Saturday Schedule:
9:00 a.m.: Kieselbach vs. Smith
Beta Theta Pi-B vs. Alpha Tau Omega-B

Phi Delta Theta-B vs. Kappa Sigma-B
Sigma I vs. Sigma II
MacLean vs. Gus I
10:30 a.m.

Junior halfback Sayers is a big factor in the Kansas resurgence after the Jayhawks lost their first two conference games. They have won their last two games by the combined score of 75 to 7. Leading the nation in rushing until the Kansas State game, Sayers gained "only" 79 yards for a total of 634.

He averages 6.6 yards per carry, just under Rudy Johnson's 6.7.

Sayers shocked Jayhawk fans by deliberately striving for more weight after he opened his varsity career last year. A series of two shots per week administered by the team physician ("I don't know what they were, but they sure have helped.") Brought his weight up from 175 to over 200. Sayers now just weighs 198.

"Added weight helped?" Sayers echoes the question. "I know it has. I got banged up a lot last year. I don't feel it nearly so much this season. I don't feel that I've lost any speed either."

Nebraska Ranks High

Nebraska retained their national rushing lead over Oklahoma this week according to the NCAA Services Bureau.

The Huskers maintained their lead 299 yards on the ground against Missouri while the Sooners moved into the second spot with an overpowering performance against Colorado.

The Scarlet defense on rushing was in sixth place in the national listings. Nebraska, also having the third best total offense figure, ranked sixth on the scoring chart.

Daily Nebraskan Team To Take Yearbook Foe

The highly-touted All-American Daily Nebraskan football team will face the Cornhusker team Friday at 4 p.m. in an effort to preserve its three-year winning streak.

The Nebraskan staff will go onto the field with Patty "Shifty" Knapp in the quarterback slot. Big Iron Hovilk will be missing from the game due to a heart ailment suffered during her last "game."

There is a feeling that most of the game, which will be coeducational, will be spent in the huddle.

Larry Asman, 250-pound professional, will be water-boy.

Playing the deodorant position (right guard) will be Gary "Ghost" Lacey. John "Beaver" Morris, the left guard, is expected to keep all opposition in place.

Arnie "Animal" Garson will be withheld from the game because of ineptness. He is a five-year man and has been declared decrepit and unfit for combat.

The ends, Susie "Stretch" Smithberger and Jerry "Shoestring" Hofferber are expected to charge down the field to snag lobs thrown by the notorious quarterback. Backing them in their positions will be Hal "Slim" Foster and Bob "Scrawny" Cunningham. Miss Smithberger is known as being adept at catching passes if softly thrown.

The Cornhusker line weighs 350 pounds. This averages out to be 50 pounds per person. The Nebraskan line, due to their increased consumption, has a slight weight advantage.

The Nebraskan will use a modified Wing-T offense.

The Cornhusker line up has not yet been announced. They are expected to present an unorganized showing with Jo "Fireball" Mackenzie, Janie "Tarzan" Tenhulzen, Dan "No-Show" Rosenthal, Bob "Caesar" Bosting, Bette "SnoBall" Schnabel and Ann "Freckles" Shuman leading the effort.
