Rally Draws 3,000

By SUSAN SMITHBERGER
Senior Staff Writer

Chants of "Beat Oklahoma" and "All the Way to Miami" resounded through the city of Lincoln last night as an estimated 2,000-3,000 students paraded in a spontaneous rally.

Lincoln police escorted the horde as they made their way from the campus, down "O" street and to the Governor's Mansion.

What started out to be a snake dance, planned by the Kappa Alpha Thetas, broke into mass bedlam as students filled with enthusiasm demanded more action. A crew of seven bandmen led the group as they went from living unit to living unit, growing in size. The rally was planned to end at Selleck Quad where there was singing and cheering for the football team.

When the team did not appear, chants of "All the way to O Street" broke out and the group headed out of the Quad court.

From Selleck, the rally headed down 16th street to O Street where Thursday-night traffic had to be stopped to allow passage of the growing mob. After a two block tour of O street, the still-unsatisfied students started north on 14th. The idea of visiting the Governor's Mansion grew, and soon students were yelling for leaders to lead them there.

By this time Lincoln Police were escorting the students in order to prevent accidents from occurring. There was no attempt on the part of the police to turn the students back.

Upon gathering on the Governor's lawn, the mob demanded an appearance of the Governor and sang Nebraska songs. After learning that Governor Frank Morrison was in Omaha, chants of "All the way to Omaha" broke out. However, this did not materialize and the group made its way back to the campus where they gathered in front of the Nebraska Union for more cheering and singing.

Most of the rally up to this point had been executed at a run, and dripping, worn-out students were witnessed. However, the group was still not tired enough to quit and headed to the Coliseum where police asked them to break up and go back to their living units.

Most of the group drifted back to the Union and from there the weary enthusiasts broke up and headed home.

No major injuries have been reported, and the only property damage seen occurred when a few students ran on top of cars.

The Lincoln police had received no complaints last night, and Det. Capt. Robert Sawdon had praise for the students for confining their actions to enthusiasm and doing no damage.

"We are glad to help the students blow off steam," said the captain. "Our only concern is that nobody gets hurt and there is no property damage. If tonight is an example of their conduct, more power to them."

"We were real pleased and don't have a complaint in the world," he continued. "We know this is going to happen and hope that all demonstrations are this orderly."

Sgt. Kenneth Markle of the University Police estimated that about 3,000 took part. He pointed out that a lot dropped out along the way but that the enthusiasts kept picking up more recruits on their journey. "They ended up with about 500 high school kids," he said.

The Thetas, overwhelmed at the success of their rally, said that they wanted to do something to help promote campus spirit. They had received permission from Curt Siemers, University activities coordinator, to have the snake dance and rally at the Quad. They credited Karen Fejfar with the brainstorm, which they said grew out of a house retreat last Friday.

The Thetas had asked the seven band members to have dinner with them and started the rally after dinner. The bandmen were Roger Hudson, Tim Fischer, Doug Adler, Dean Rasmussen, Mike Stafford, Jim Johnson and Eric Elster.

'Day Off' Decree Delayed

Many rumors have been circulated through the campus about an extra two days vacation if Nebraska beats Oklahoma Saturday.

Vice-Chancellor Adam C. Breckenridge stated that it would be presumptuous to say anything on the matter until after we have won the game.

Breckenridge felt that it would add undue pressure to the team if it were announced before the game that a vacation would follow if we won. Because of this, no announcement will be made until after the game.

NU Professor Joins Group Of American Agronomists

A University of Nebraska staff member, Prof. Robert A. Olson, has joined an elite group of crops and soil scientists who have been elected to the rank of Fellow in the American Society of Agronomy.

The announcement of the selection was made at the Wednesday night banquet of the society's annual meeting at Denver.

Olson is one of only 372 agronomists to receive the honor since it was established in 1925. The society now has nearly 5,200 members in 80 nations.

Following his graduation from the University in 1938, he was employed as a soil surveyor and soil scientist with the Soil Conservation Service until entering the Navy in 1938, serving until the end of World War II.

He returned to the University for advanced study in 1946 and upon completion of his M.S. degree became the state's first fulltime agronomist specializing in soils, initiating an extensive fertilizer demonstration program and a full-scale soil-testing operation.

After additional training at Nebraska and the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, he received a research and teaching appointment as as-and a bon-fire will be lighted into which a "Sooner" will be thrown.

The Saturday noon rally will be ushered in by the parading of the Victory Bell around the campus. Students are to gather at the northeast entrance to the field house. The team will arrive at 12:15. The Pep Band will play at both rallies.

These rallies are just two of the many signs of spirit on the NU campus.

On Thursday night students spontaneously gathered to watch the team have its last practice before the Oklahoma game. Signs have been up all over campus during the week with proclamations such as "Tap the Bud . . . the Sooner the Better," and "2 Reds Clash, Big Red Will Flash." Orange tennis shoes have been prevalent on coeds' feet, and orange clusters and orange mums also have taken over the campus as the orange fever reaches its height.

In honor of the big game a new fight song has been written by Dr. Royce Swain, an Omaha dentist. Students are asked to sing this song as the band plays it on Saturday at the game. The lyrics are:

Stand up and shout Nebraska
It's Huskers that we cheer
Let's tell the world we love our state
Let's let 'em know we're here.
We'll win her every battle
No matter what the test
Stand up and shout Nebraska
Nebraska, yes, yes, yes.

The track team will wear their Big 8 championship sweaters for the first time to the game in order to encourage the football team to win their Big 8 championship game. Nebraska took the Indoor Track title last March to earn the sweaters.

Meanwhile the Sigma Alpha Mu bonfire, lighted last Monday, burns steadily.

Kosmet Club 'Kapers' Set Tomorrow Night

The 52nd annual edition of the Kosmet Klub fall show will be presented tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased prior to the show from KK workers and in the lobby of the Student Union for $1.50 per person.

According to Tom Kort, member of the publicity committee, rehearsals have gone "real well," and the 1963 edition, "Komic Kapers", promises to be the "best production in years." Most KK workers have worked at least 60 hours already this week on sets alone.

Delta Upsilon will present "The Hag Behind the Flag", or the "real" Betsy Ross story.

Kappa Sigma's skit, "It Just Isn't Done" is a satire on student apathy and conservatism at the University.

The Phi Kappa Psi skit, "The Man in the Brooks Brothers' Blazer" is a criticism of the midwestern conservative's lack of concern for his own dress as brought to light by a New York clothing agent.

The Beta Theta Pi skit is the story of a Martian's solutions to earth's troubles as told to a joint Russian-American expedition to that planet.

In the traveler's act division Triangle fraternity will present the TR3's, a folk-singing group employing unconventional instruments. Sigma Phi Epsilon will interview witnesses of a Martian landing in Ohio.

The Four Eps, another Sigma Phi Epsilon group, will play contemporary music styled after the Four Preps. The final traveler's act will be presented by the Clippers singing a barbershop quartet number.

Climaxing the evening's festivities will be the announcement of Nebraska Sweetheart and Prince Kosmet 1963, as determined by a student vote at the event.

Voting for Prince Kosmet and Nebraska Sweetheart will begin at Pershing Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. tomorrow. In order to vote, students must have their student identification card and the Kosmet Klub ticket stub. They will vote for one girl and one boy on each ballot.

DELTA UPSILON—rehearses "The Hag Behind the Flag"

PHI KAPPA PSIS—put final touches on "The Man in the Brooks Brothers' Blazer"

"Culture on Campus," a program to include marriage ceremonies of various countries and an international style show will also be featured.

A tour mart with information and displays concerning international travel and a Student Council Peace Corps booth will also be seen.

In the way of entertainment, an international flavor will be added to Take Five, Jazz and Java and a hootenanny.

The YWCA's Christmas Bazaar will feature articles imported from approximately thirteen different countries with an emphasis on hand-carved articles from Korea and Jordan.

The Bazaar will be held from 9-9 on Dec. 3-4 and from 9-4 p.m. on Dec. 5 in the party rooms in the basement of the Student Union.

Today Last Chance For Annual Pictures

Today is the last day to get your picture taken for the 1964 Cornhusker. Anyone not having their pictures taken as of yet may do so until 5:30 this afternoon.

Parking Area Opens

Capt. Gene Masters of the University Police announced Thursday that the parking facilities north of Cather Hall will be opened for Area I parking next week.

The new lot will replace the temporary Area I lot located in the southernmost two rows in the lot at 16th and Vine Streets, which will become general student parking.
